ESLICK'S DEATH HOLDS UP HOUSE VOTE ON BONUS

GLASSFORD FORMING PLAN OF EVACUATION

Marine Unit Headquarters Is Closed to Sick Veterans; Police Head Angered.

The hand of fate rested heavily on the bonus marchers yesterday when death removed Representative Edward E. Eslick (Democrat), of Tennessee, as he was pleading their cause in the House.

Ill luck struck the second time, a few hours later, when the Sixth Marines Reserves Brigade, the only haven for the ailing veterans, was forced to order its doors closed to the veterans last midnight because of failure of the District Commissioners and the Veterans' Administration to offer any help.

Sick veterans had been cared for at the Marine headquarters for hours while the volunteers sought frantically to place them in a Government hospital. An occurrence yesterday, when seriously ailing veterans remained on litters for hours, fired the anger of Brig. Gen. Pelham D. Glassford, superintendent of police, and precipitated a heated argument between him and the Veterans' Bureau physician.

Vote Is Likely Today.

The death of Representative Eslick caused the adjournament of the House and Senate. The vote on the $2,400,000,000 bonus bill will likely be taken today. Representative Rainey, Speaker pro tempore, said he will ask unanimous consent today to end the debate and expedite a final decision.

In the presence of a motley gathering of veterans that crowded the galleries of the House, Representative Eslick made his last speech for the veterans. Facing his colleagues, he compared veterans' benefits in this country to those of other countries and said: "But, Mr. Chairman, I want to divert from the sordid.

Wife in Gallery.

"We hear nothing but dollars here. I want to go from the sordid side——" He collapsed. Mrs. Eslick side——" He collapsed and was carried into an anteroom, where he died in a few minutes. Mrs. Eslick was in the gallery.

In a letter, the addresses of which Gen. Glassford refused to reveal, the chief of police asked for help for the sick veterans, saying, "There is a big job to do in the name of humanity and for the health of the District."

Gen. Glassford, in the letter, lashed at the Veterans' Bureau for its failure to take prompt action in two serious cases. In his appeal for help, Gen. Glassford said Lieut.

Black Leads Kilby In Alabama Run-Off

Half of Returns Put Senator Far in Lead for Renomination.

Montgomery, Ala., June 14 (A.P.).—United States Senator Hugo Black, of Birmingham, seeking renomination in a "run-off" contest with former Gov. Thomas E. Kilby, of Anniston, tonight forged steadily to the front as returns from today's Democratic primary were tabulated. The vote from 1,134 out of 2,136 ballot boxes gave Black 63,445; Kilby, 45,845.

In the Fifth District congressional race, Representative Miles B. Allgood, of Gadsden, now representing the Seventh District, led Representative Lafayette L. Patterson, of Alexander. The count from 144 of 245 boxes gave Allgood 6,356; Patterson, 6,178. They were placed in the same district by reapportionment.

Mrs. A. Y. Malone, of Dothan, led Mrs. J. E. Frazier, of Birmingham, for Democratic national committeewoman. Returns from 428 boxes gave Mrs. Malone 13,859; Mrs. Frazier, 7,041.

Clubman-Flier and Girl Killed in Airplane Crash

Alliance, Ohio, June 14 (A.P.).—Robert Purcell, 28, Alliance clubman, and Miss Ruth Kolb, 22, of Alliance, were killed instantly tonight when their airplane crashed into a barn near here and burst into flames.

Purcell, son of William Purcell, president of the Alliance Machine Co., had circled over the barn several times at a low elevation, police said, before the plane hurtled off the roof and set another building on fire. Both bodies were burned almost beyond recognition and the plane was practically destroyed. Firemen saved the buildings.

100,000 Cheer Bonus Marchers in Parade

Capital Turns Out to Witness Colorful Procession of Floats, Pretty Women and Brave Men on Birthday of "Old Glory."

"Old Glory," celebrating her 155th birthday, vied with the bonus marchers last night for the cheers of 100,000, as Flag Day was observed with a parade of monster proportions and lavish color.

Not since war days has such unrestrained enthusiasm evidenced itself on the streets of Washington as when the ragged veterans marched by to the strains of "Over There."

These were men picked from the 18,000 bonus petitioners who are encamped in the city—men with the Congressional Medal of Honor, the Distinguished Service Cross and other military honors.

Until a few hours before the parade began there were rumors that these men would not appear in the line of march. Announcement of the American Legion that it would not take part if the bonus marchers were not represented resulted in the emphatic decision that men from the bonus ranks would be welcome.

As the veterans marched down the same avenue over which they trod fifteen years ago in new uniforms, a tidal wave of cheering swept the crowd from the Treasury Building to the Capitol. At least 20,000 were gathered on the plaza in front of the Capitol.

CONFUSION IN CHILE STIRS WIDE CONCERN

Britain Orders Out Vessel; Americans 'Dig In' in Face of Possible Uprising.

By HAROLD J. T. HORAN.

The developments of the last 24 hours in Chile continued to hold the concern of the American, French and British governments with apprehension for the outcome of the almost daily shiftings in governmental policy. The junta government presents a composite picture of contradictions: on the one hand, the latest of the governmental ukases promises consideration for all foreign interests and on the other, the most inveterate opponent of foreign interests in Chile, Aurelio Nunez Morgado, has been named in charge of all mining activities, which bodes ill for the future of American and British mining interests in Chile.

Other startling changes in the last day are:

First, the British government has dispatched the light cruiser Durban from the West Indies to Callao, Peru, in order to be ready to protect British interests in Chile, when necessary.

Second, Americans in Santiago are "digging themselves in" with provisions and all other necessities in the event of any popular antiforeign uprising.

Third, reports from Chile indicate that the situation there is "tragic" and "tense," with Communist orators on some street corners urging rebellion and arms for the masses.

Fourth, the "forced" resignation of Carlos Davila, former Chilean Ambassador here, is believed to have jettisoned the last element of order and comparative conservatism in the revolutionary cargo.

However, the cables and other re-

Davila Will Return Here As Roumanian Minister

New York, June 14 (A.P.).—The Consulate General of Roumania today announced that Charles A. Davila would resume his activity in Washington as Roumanian Minister. The announcement said:

"The Roumanian Minister, Charles A. Davila, who has resigned in order to go back to politics in his own country, has been asked by the new National Peasant government in Roumania to withdraw his resignation and continue his activities in Washington. Due to the latest developments in his country, Mr. Davila accepted his reappointment."

NEW DECREE TAXES ALL GERMANS' JOBS

Von Hindenburg Signs Most Burdensome Measure Yet Imposed.

Berlin, June 14 (A.P.).—The heaviest tax burden ever carried by the German people was imposed today when President Paul von Hindenburg wrote his name at the bottom of a sweeping emergency decree submitted to him by his new chancellor, Franz von Papen.

Every German with a job is required to pay a tax on it under the new regulation. Every purchaser of salt will contribute his mite to the government through a new levy. And, on the other side of the ledger, the government's dole to the unemployed and the war-maimed was materially slashed.

A peculiar feature of the taxation burden is the fact that it was imposed by emergency decree. It was the president's objection to the "emergency decree government" of former Chancellor Heinrich Bruening that was largely responsible for Dr. Bruening's downfall. Now the aged field marshal has signed the most drastic decree of all.

The new ministry asserted in a public statement that the drastic taxation was made necessary by the problems inherited from the Bruening regime.

The salt tax of 6 pfennigs a pound is expected to yield 60,000,000 marks (about $14,820,000), which will be

Confidence Voted In Premier Azana

Spanish Assembly Upholds Leader as Member of Cabinet Is Accused.

Madrid, Spain, June 14 (A.P.).—Premier Manuel Azana suddenly demanded and got a vote of confidence in the national assembly tonight in debate on charges that a member of his cabinet had granted an illegal tobacco concession. The vote was 273 to nothing, the opposition declining to vote.

Indalecio Prieto, minister of public works and former finance minister, was accused in the assembly several days ago of having entered into an illegal arrangement with a French concern after nullifying a tobacco concession of Juan March, wealthy Spaniard.

March recently was expelled from the assembly for "moral incompatability" after charges of bribery were brought against him.

Attorney Held as Slayer Of Mother While on Outing

Prominent Birmingham Resident Accused of Killing Parent While Picking Flowers; Woman's Money and Rings Untouched; Her Throat Slashed.

Birmingham, Ala., June 14 (A.P.).—Charges that he murdered his mother, Mrs. Jesse A. Boyle, 66, as they picked flowers on a mountain top were preferred today against John R. Boyle, 37, prominent attorney and member of one of Birmingham's oldest families.

A warrant for the attorney's arrest was ordered by County Investigator G. M. Evans, after investigating Boyle's story that his mother was stabbed to death yesterday by a man who attempted to rob them on Shades Mountain, 12 miles from Birmingham.

After the warrant was served Boyle was removed to the county jail from a hospital where he was under treatment for wounds he said were received when he went to the rescue of his mother. His injuries were described as "minor."

Boyle appeared at a mountain residence last night and said he had been unconscious since 2 p. m., when the attack occurred. His mother's body was found at the foot of a bluff, 50 feet off the highway, with the throat slashed.

County officers said diamond rings and a diamond brooch worn by Mrs. Boyle and a small sum of money in the purse were untouched. There was nothing, they said, to indicate robbery.

A towel found wrapped around Mrs. Boyle's head was said by her son to have been placed there after he regained consciousness last night. He also explained a bottle of chloroform found in his car was used for treating a skin ailment.

Mrs. Boyle was the widow of Peter A. Boyle, a pioneer engineer and a leading figure in the development of the Birmingham district.

SMOOT CLAIMS FURLOUGH PLAN IS AGREED UPON

Statement, However, Is Disputed by Other Conferees.

MAY REACH ACCORD AT SESSION TODAY

McDuffie Says Proposal of Hoover Would Not Win House Approval.

By ROBERT C. ALBRIGHT.

Economy conferees last night were in disagreement among themselves. They differed not only as to the wisdom of furloughs over pay cuts but as to the action actually taken on these issues.

Senator Reed Smoot (Republican), Utah, a member of the conference group and an advocate of compulsory Federal furloughs, said conferees reached virtual agreement on a completed economy program.

He said they will report out today a $131,000,000 savings bill, incorporating furloughs.

Representative John McDuffie (Democrat), Alabama, House economy chairman, flatly denied the statement.

Held Still at Odds.

He said there has been no vote on furloughs. The House, he said, would not accept furloughs if reported. He declared conferees still are at odds on many issues.

Two other members of the conference group denied the Smoot statement, but declined to elaborate even in the interest of clearing the unique situation. They were Senator Wesley L. Jones (Republican), Washington, Senate economy chairman, and Senator Sam G. Bratton (Democrat), New Mexico.

On one point the group appeared unanimous—at 9:30 this morning they will resume the economy session adjourned yesterday shortly after noon. It may be they will have something definite to announce by the time the Senate convenes at 10.

Senator Smoot made his announcement following a visit to the White House. Even when informed that other members of the conference group disputed his assertion, he held to his original statement. It has been agreed, he said, that he will report the bill, and that compulsory furloughs will be in it.

Silent on Budget Result.

The chairman of the Senate finance committee would make no prediction whether the latest version of the economy bill will balance the budget.

"I believe, however, that when we get this and other measures enacted business will pick up, thereby increasing revenue and automatically balancing the budget," he said.

Earlier the Senate passed without a record vote the Robinson resolution calling on the President to meet with his Cabinet and recommend specific economies to Congress. The resolution was modified by dropping a statement that President Hoover had asked $150,000,000 to $200,000,000 in additional savings in order to balance the budget. Monday Senator Reed

Sentence of Means To Be Given Today

(Associated Press.)

Gaston B. Means, convicted of stealing $104,000 from Mrs. Evalyn Walsh McLean in a plan to return the kidnaped Lindbergh baby, will be sentenced today by Justice James M. Proctor, of the District of Columbia Supreme Court.

One of Means' counsel, T. Morris Wampler, yesterday waived his right to defer sentence for four days after conviction. The former Department of Justice agent was found guilty Monday night.

Wampler said he would carry the case to the Court of Appeals and move that Means be released on bail pending a final verdict. The maximum sentence Means may draw on each of the two counts of larceny on which he was found guilty is ten years imprisonment and $1,000 fine.

DICKINSON SOUNDS CAMPAIGN KEYNOTE

Friends of Prohibition and Wets Place Claims for Pet Planks.

By EDWARD T. FOLLIARD, (Staff Correspondent of The Post)

Chicago, Ill., June 14.—Wets and drys stormed a hotel room in which the platform committee of the Republican national convention was meeting tonight, each group warning the party that disaster awaits it in November unless the right kind of prohibition plank is adopted.

Elsewhere various State delegations were plotting to sidetrack Vice President Charles Curtis and nominate another young and more colorful figure as President Hoover's running mate. Curtis' friends, scornful of the movement at first, are now genuinely alarmed.

If Curtis is stopped and Charles G. Dawes won't take his place, an American Legion group in the convention is going to try and put over Maj. Gen. James Harbord, U. S. A., retired.

Hoover Eulogies Cheered.

For two hours today, at the formal opening of the convention in the Chicago Stadium, the assembled politicians forgot the prohibition battle and the vice presidential squabble and acted as well-trained Republicans are supposed to act.

With Senator L. J. Dickinson, of Iowa, the keynoter, sounding a trumpet call for party loyalty and victory in November, the delegates cheered his eulogies of President Hoover and also his philippics against the "destructive" tactics of the Democrats.

But tonight, in the hotels, the warfare over prohibition and the vice presidential nomination was resumed.

The wets and drys who besieged the resolutions, or platform, committee in the Congress Hotel represented the two extremes in the prohibition battle—the outright repeal people and the professional reformers.

The wet group of Dr. Nicholas Murray Butler demanded a plank submitting repeal of prohibition to the people. The dry group of Dr. F. Scott McBride and Ernest H. Cherrington, Antisaloon League leaders, insisted that the party ignore prohibition altogether.

Having heard their arguments, Chairman James R. Garfield and his harassed committee went into executive session and set about drafting a prohibition plank that will satisfy neither of these extreme groups.

Many Texts Rumored.

If the forces of the Hoover administration have their way, the plank will declare for a resubmission of the prohibition problem to the States and will leave to Congress the question of an alternative to the eighteenth amendment.

It also will have something to say about States' rights and the function of the Federal Government in controlling the liquor traffic in States that want to remain dry.

In the rumor that has filled corridors of the Congress Hotel, one hears a dozen different versions of the plank that finally is to come out of the resolutions committee. The fact of the matter is, the plank does not yet exist and won't exist until the committee has completed its labors.

That should be late tonight or

'DRAFT DAWES' PLAN GAINING MOMENTUM

Sentiment for Chicagoan in Place of Curtis Grows in Convention.

Chicago, June 14 (A.P.).—A movement to draft Brig. Gen. Charles G. Dawes for the vice presidential nomination gained ground today with members of several State delegations ready to put forward their own candidates in the event the Chicagoan refuses to accept.

Friends of the Kansas veteran sought to muster strength to prevent a bolt that might send the 73-year-old Vice President off the Republican ticket. The Kansas delegation received from Alabama the privilege of putting Mr. Curtis' name in nomination at the beginning of the poll call of States.

The Texas delegation, meanwhile, obtained from Arkansas, the right to put Gen. Dawes into the running in the event the faction-split Illinois delegation, does not decide to advance the Chicagoan.

Although a number of the Illinois group do not believe Gen. Dawes will accept the nomination if it is brought about through an out-and-out draft, Len Small, former governor and temporary chairman, said the delegation undoubtedly would place him in nomination.

In the New York delegation there was talk about Maj. Gen. James G. Harbord, Gov. Theodore Roosevelt, of the Philippines; William K. Donovan,

Man Killed by Car; Driver Surrenders

Virginia Highlands Citizen Hit on Lee-Jackson Pike Near Bridge.

A man, tentatively identified as George Harris, 46 years old, of Virginia Highlands, was almost instantly killed early today, when he was struck by an automobile on Lee-Jackson Highway a short distance from Highway bridge. Andrew Gleason Flaherty, 34 years old, of 633 Seventh street northwest, came to police headquarters and gave himself up as driver of the automobile shortly after the accident.

The body of the victim was badly crushed. The man suffered fractures of the skull, both arms and legs. Identification was made through a driver's permit in his pocket.

The man was brought to Emergency Hospital by J. C. Faught, of Falls Church, who passed the scene of the accident shortly after it occurred. Flaherty helped place the man in the car and a companion of his went to the hospital with Faught while the driver went to police headquarters. Flaherty said the man appeared to be blinded by the headlights on his car and walked into its path. He could not stop in time to avoid hitting the man, he said.

Hurley Hits Invasion Of Capital by Veterans

Chicago, June 14 (A.P.).—Severe criticism of the bonus parades to the National Capital was voiced by Secretary Hurley tonight in an impromptu address before the members of the Republican Service League.

Hoover Men Control Framing of Platform

Bingham, Leader of Repealists, Omitted From Subcommittee to Draft Planks; Mills and Hyde Members.

Chicago, June 14 (A.P.).—Administration forces made a vigorous move toward settling in their own way the prohibition controversy which is plaguing the Republican national convention tonight by taking firm control of the subcommittee which will draft the platform planks.

Two cabinet members, Ambassador Edge and Senator Hastings, of Delaware, fresh from the Capital, were chosen on the special committee of 15 which will announce the 1932 Republican declaration—including the newly finished prohibition resubmission plank.

Senator Bingham, of Connecticut, leader of the repeal movement, was dropped from the special subcommittee announced by James R. Garfield, of Ohio, chairman of the resolutions committee.

At the same time the word spread that the draft of a resubmission plank finally fixed upon by the administration leaders here was conciliatory to prohibitionist demands. President Hoover was consulted about it.

It was a declaration recognizing the principle of resubmission but insisting that Congress first provide a substitute for the eighteenth amendment to propose to the States in regular order.

These developments followed events popping like a cluster of firecrackers, including surprise threats from wets both for a floor fight and a move against the national ticket in November.

Friends of Bingham privately expressed opposition tonight over the sudden turn. The frowning repeal advocates went into conference to map out their drive for a finish fight on the floor.

As hearings ran far into the night, hope for a report by the special subcommittee on the platform before early morning diminished.

It was 11 p. m. before hearings on platform appeals in public session were concluded. The committee then went into executive session.

Needy in Finland Foiled in Revolt

Soldiers Put Down Protest Uprising Aimed to Speed Relief.

Helsingfors, Finland, June 14 (A.P.).—An attempt of 1,000 distressed farmers to revolt in the Nivala District of Ostrobothnia ended in failure today.

A company of infantry arrested 230 of the peasants, but the leaders escaped. The trouble was believed to have been started by a few noncommissioned army officers as a protest against refusal of the speaker of the Diet to call an immediate special session to consider unemployment relief.

The peasants were hemmed in by machine gun troops of the regular army after they had made threats against the local authorities. There was no bloodshed.

Rabat, Morocco, June 14 (A.P.).—One French and five Moroccan soldiers were killed today in repulsing dissident tribesmen who were endeavoring to cut off a ration detail going to advance posts in the Attistra region.

Violet Sharpe Was Wed, Death Certificate Shows

"Name of Husband Unknown," Paper Says; Funeral of Morrow Waitress Who Killed Self Will Be Held Today.

Englewood, N. J., June 14 (A.P.).—The funeral of Violet Sharpe, maid in the Dwight W. Morrow home, who committed suicide Friday and whose marriage was disclosed in her death certificate today, will be held here tomorrow in the Greenleaf funeral chapel.

E. H. G. Shepherd, acting British consul general, who has been asked to report to his government about charges in the press there that she was "hounded to death" by police, will attend, he said in New York. Burial will be in the Brookside Cemetery here.

The death certificate when filed stated Violet was married, "name of husband unknown."

Lieut. Nathan Allyn, of the prosecutor's staff at Hackensack, said servants in the Morrow household, questioned after the suicide, told him they believed the girl was married, but had been separated from her husband for several years.

Dr. Ralph Gilady, Bergen County physician, who performed the autopsy and signed the death certificate, was unable to give further information about the marriage. The information on the certificate, he said, was furnished by the undertaker, and presumably obtained through Arthur Springer, secretary to Mrs. Dwight Morrow, who has been in cable communication with the girl's family in England. Springer declined to answer queries.

Gov. A. Harry Moore promised "all possible cooperation" to British government representatives ordered to report on the suicide of Violet Sharpe.

"The representatives of the British government will be given the oppor-

G. O. P. MAY AVERT FLAT REPEAL ISSUE

(Associated Press.)

Reports that the Republican convention could be held to a resubmission prohibition plank—averting a rush to a flat repeal issue—were telephoned to the White House yesterday by administration marshals in Chicago.

The Chief Executive himself handled the telephone during part of the day. At other times his aids talked with Cabinet members and political leaders active at the convention.

But as to the President's approval or disapproval of the wording of the hard-won formula through which this result might be obtained, neither Mr. Hoover nor his aids would speak.

It was not until late in the day that the full text of a compromise plank worked out by the convention chiefs was made available to the President.

There were authoritative indications that Republican leaders in Chicago would know Mr. Hoover's views in full upon the tentative formula before many hours.

Interest at Capitol.

Meanwhile, at the Capitol a number of senators and representatives kept in touch with the developments at the convention through radios in their offices. A radio also was set up in an anteroom near the Senate chamber, to which members from both houses, along with Vice President Curtis, flocked to listen in.

Although the White House remained politically quiet outwardly, some of the color and activity of the convention's opening found an attentive audience during the morning in the Executive Mansion. Available radio sets were never without one or more listeners.

Mr. Hoover, however, remained at his desk in a radioless office during the keynote speech of Senator Dickinson, of Iowa.

He did not hear the applause that echoed for many seconds in the convention hall and was broadcast throughout the country at the first mention of his name.

Senator Capper (Republican), Kansas, issued a statement predicting that Mr. Hoover would be reelected "if the country exercises its sober judgment," and asserting history will record "that he has served his country well and faithfully and courageously and ably during these times."

Would Bow to Decision.

Touching on prohibition, Capper said: "If those opposed to the eighteenth amendment are numerous enough to obtain its repeal in the ways provided in the Constitution, as a loyal citizen I will bow to that decision."

He contended, however, the parties had more important things to think of than "special favors to the liquor interests."

Senator Logan (Democrat), Kentucky, sponsor of a move to amend the Constitution so the President and the Vice President would serve seven years and be ineligible for reelection, said on the floor that the Republican convention proved the need for that measure.

Explaining that he was not criticising President Hoover, but the system in general, Logan said: "A President spends two years building up a political machine and the next two years perfecting it."

"That political machines are built up by Presidents is evidenced by what is taking place in Chicago now," he added.

"A mass of politicians who are not even thinking about anything but the prohibition question," was the way Senator Hull (Democrat), Tennessee, described the convention in a Senate address. He said the party's leaders were "not even thinking of" conditions of distress that demanded remedying.

Statement of Rainey.

Representative Rainey, House Democratic leader, issued a statement saying "the keynote speech of Senator Dickinson falls like a wet blanket on the Republican party."

"His speech would be amusing if the situation in which the country finds itself now were not so desperate," he added. "Under Hoover we are plunging along toward a crisis more serious than ever confronted our country before, even in time of war.

"The country is in a perilous condition and the economic perils which confront us now can, every one of them, be traced to the Republican party and President Hoover."

Representative Bankhead (Democrat), Alabama, said regarding the speech:

"It seems to be a pretty scattering statement of principles to go to the country in a crisis like this. It is plain to see the platform will be Mr. Hoover, and I do not think the Democrats could have a more inviting challenge than to make Mr. Hoover the issue in the November election, as Senator Dickinson seems inclined to do."

Attorney General Mitchell and Mrs. Mitchell spent the evening with the President and First Lady. During the several hours they spent at the White House the Attorney General had an opportunity for private conversation with Mr. Hoover, but upon leaving the Executive Mansion he declined to discuss the visit other than to say it was purely social.

Parley Is Brought To Senate by Radio

(Associated Press.)

The National convention came to the Senate yesterday by radio, much to the delight of politics-hungry senators.

No sooner had the gavel fallen to call to order the assemblage in Chicago than senators—Democrats as well as Republicans—gravitated to a spacious room just off the chamber where a big radio receiving set has been installed at the instance of Senator Dill (Democrat), Washington.

Vice President Curtis asked Senator Patterson (Republican), Missouri, to take his place as presiding officer, stepped down and joined the exodus. Sitting at ease on big leather divans and chairs, the senators joshed each other as the speech of the Republican keynoter—their colleague, Senator Dickinson, of Iowa—came over the air.

MRS. WILLEBRANDT RAPS RUM EVASION

Urges Convention to Seek Repeal Outright if Change Is Decided Upon.

Chicago, June 14 (A.P.).—Mrs. Mabel Walker Willebrandt, long a leader of the dry cause, said in a radio speech tonight she hoped that if the majority of the Republican convention were determined to have the Constitution changed, the platform would declare for repeal instead of "disguising their real object" behind the "weasly word of resubmission."

"For the sake of preservation of the orderliness of government," she said, "I hope that this convention, if a majority are determined to have the Constitution changed, will frankly state in favor of repeal, rather than disguising their real object of securing a repeal behind the misleading and weasly word of resubmission," she said.

"Thus the issue will be clearly drawn."

Mrs. Willebrandt, former Assistant Attorney General in charge of prohibition enforcement, said there was no such thing as resubmission of any part of the Constitution. She argued that change could be obtained only by submitting a new amendment repealing the old and thrusting the whole question of prohibition back upon the States, or substituting some changed form by which the Federal Government would deal with it. Either of these would have to be ratified by three-fourths of the State legislatures, she contended.

She argued that by no constitutional method could the people be given any direct vote on the question.

Mrs. Willebrandt said she thought the complexion of the convention was "plainly wet," and it was inevitable that the resolutions committee would favor some change in the eighteenth amendment.

She did not believe, however, she said, that prohibition was the issue upon which the campaign would be fought out.

"I believe," she added, "that whatever this convention declares in its platform on prohibition, the real issues that will decide the election will be jobs and the best means of starting the wheels of industry turning again."

Ford, for Hoover, Raps Conventions

Says Party Sessions Are Unimportant in Real Good to Nation.

Detroit, June 14 (A.P.).—Henry Ford believes the issues "now being stirred up at the political conventions" mean nothing, and thinks they will not have the slightest effect "on the things that we are all interested in today—economic recovery, jobs and money in the pocket of the average man."

In an interview today, Mr. Ford lauded the abilities of President Hoover and said he expected to see him reelected "because he is the best fitted man for the job."

"One thing that should be cleared up," he said, "is that these national conventions are not so important as they are made to seem. They can't give the people anything, and they can't take anything away from the people. So far as the Constitution of the United States is concerned, they are simply private sessions of politicians. A lot of this excitement over the various so-called issues in Chicago today has been drummed up to deceive the people into thinking that conventions really mean something."

Drafting of Coolidge On Wet Plank Is Urged

Chicago, June 14 (A.P.).—A suggestion that the Republican national convention draft former President Calvin Coolidge as President on a wet plank was contained in a message received today by Senator Bingham, of Connecticut.

Dickinson Urges Hoover's Reelection In Keynote of Republican Convention

Perhaps it was with a prophetic vision that the American people elected Herbert Hoover four years ago with the greatest popular and electoral college vote any President ever received. At any rate, he had scarcely taken the oath of his office before economic storm clouds had begun to cast their sinister shadow over the nations of the world.

His first act prevented a financial panic. Invoking the powers of the Federal Reserve Board, he prevented this catastrophe. Thus he cushioned the effects of the debacle in Wall street which followed the greatest period of stock speculation the world had ever known.

With the knowledge that every major economic convulsion in the past had been attended by strikes, riots, bloodshed and death, President Hoover's next concern was to maintain social order.

Pledge by Labor.

To this end he summoned to the White House industrial leaders of the Nation and obtained from them a promise to maintain existing wage scales as long as it was possible to do so.

On the same day leaders of organized labor, sitting around the same conference table, gave their pledge that there would be no industrial wage disturbances.

Had Herbert Hoover accomplished no more in this depression, he would have done more than all of the other Presidents had done in the fourteen major economic dislocations which have gone before.

But our President planned a campaign to deal with the unprecedented situation in which the world found itself in the back-wash of the greatest of wars.

With financial panic averted; with industrial peace assured, the chief executive moved rapidly to mitigate unemployment distress.

However, no action of government or of people could stay the march of the insidious enemy within our gates. Unemployment and suffering were inevitable. To relieve this to the fullest possible measure, the President set up in Washington a National Unemployment Committee to cooperate with the States both in finding employment and in relieving the needy.

There was a generous response from every State and with the cooperation of the people the President was able to resist rising clamors for a Federal dole.

One-Year Moratorium.

Contrast this picture of a stable social order, the people united in aid to their less fortunate fellows, with the chaos in many countries abroad. There revolution followed revolution. Government after government fell. Battle and bloodshed became an almost every day occurrence.

This was the foreign situation only a year ago. Drastic action was necessary if the international financial structure was to be preserved. Herbert Hoover took that action. He proposed and the other powers quickly agreed to a one year's moratorium on reparations and war debts. Germany was saved from financial chaos that would have involved the entire world.

With this catastrophe averted, the President continued to wage the battle against depression on a hundred fronts in the United States.

Before Congress assembled last December, President Hoover prepared for it the most far-reaching rehabilitation and reconstruction program that has ever been designed by any leader in any country under any circumstance.

Opposition to President.

Foremost in this plan was the creation of the Reconstruction Finance Corporation with reserves of $2,500,000,000 to furnish necessary credit otherwise unattainable.

As Herbert Hoover poured out his tremendous energies and abilities upon the altar of public service and the welfare of all of the people, what of the Democratic opposition?

For two long years they hampered the President at every turn. Through a highly subsidized press bureau, Democratic leaders, Democratic senators and Democratic representatives sought to distort his every word; to belittle his every effort at human and economic relief; to impugn his every motive; to frustrate his every move. Their orders were to "smear Hoover."

Upon his shoulders the anvil chorus of Democracy placed the responsibility for every ill at home and abroad.

As might have been expected, they overplayed their hand. With the Nation threatened by its greatest economic crisis, people demanded that partisan politics be submerged in the general welfare. Having no program of their own, they naturally and wisely followed the President who alone had a workable program.

"Flouted Own Leadership."

But after they had assisted in partially translating this plan into law, our Democratic friends were no longer able to contain their hopes of victory within the sphere of the good of the Nation. On the all essential proposition of balancing the budget, they elected to follow their own course. And with what result?

The Democrats in the House of Representatives flouted their own leadership; their tax bill was completely rewritten by the revolting Democratic majority; their economy measure was torn to shreds.

Democratic sponsors call for undue inflation of the national currency. The safety of the country requires the maintenance of the gold standard. The value of the American dollar must be maintained throughout the world.

Nor was this moribund issue the sum total of the products of the master minds of Democracy. They proposed billions in bond issues for unnecessary and unproductive public works, presumably on the theory that when your budget is unbalanced—when your outgo exceeds your income—you can squander yourself into prosperity.

Defense of Farm Board.

In their efforts thus to debase the dollar by fiat money and other equally unsound financial schemes, the Democrats stalked forth with the ghost in 1896.

The Farm Board has been the butt of much criticism, the greater part of which is unjust. We have heard much abuse of the board's operations in stabilization of cotton and wheat by their financing of cooperatives to purchase these commodities, but we have heard very little of the fact that by their entry into the market in February during the crop year of 1930 and again in November of the next crop year, they stemmed the panic which had broken in agricultural prices.

The Farm Board held prices in each of these two crops above world levels to such a degree that the very moderate estimate of the amount realized by the American farmer over and above what they would have realized otherwise is between $2,000,000,000 and $3,000,000,000.

It matters little if the Government loses $150,000,000 for the savings it made to homes of farmers throughout this whole land. It was throwing a regiment into the front of the battle to lose, but saved millions.

Directly and indirectly, the Federal Government has, during the last three years, poured into the agricultural industry nearly $1,000,000,000. As I said before, grievous as his suffering may be, no farmer can deny the undeviating friendship of the Republican party.

Since the beginning of the economic crisis the Democratic party has shown an utter lack of cohesion on every important issue, and on none has it been more divided than on the tariff. Its leaders have run the scale from free trade to the highest possible protection.

With falling prices and depreciated currencies overseas, there stands just one bulwark for the salvation of our people. Without the rates of the Hawley-Smoot act of 1930 we would long since have been inundated by a flood of cheaply produced foreign products.

Gentlemen of the opposition cried to high heaven against some of the rates that were being written into that bill. But while they thus wailed, they were not only voluntary but eager partners in the writing of duties for their local and State industries which in many cases even surpassed what stanch protectionist Republicans believed were necessary.

In the Senate alone 1,010 votes were cast by Democrats during consideration of the last tariff measure, either for increases or against decreases. And the Democrats furnished the margin of votes that were necessary for final enactment of the measure!

Asks Hoover's Reelection.

Even more recently—in congressional consideration of the budget balancing tax bill—we have had further illustrations of the avidity with which the Democrats pursue high tariff rates. They generously supported duties on copper, coal, oil and lumber. And all this after two years of the most bitter and venomous denuncations of the Hawley-Smoot act!

Today partisanship is sublimated before patriotism.

And yet to my mind there is no greater patriotism than the employment of every effort toward the restoration of normal conditions. And there can be no more dependable means to this end than the reelection of Herbert Hoover as President of the United States.

Silver States Set Convention Drive

Monetary Policy Plank Is Aim of Westerners at Chicago.

Chicago, June 14 (A.P.).—Western mining States gathered together scattered forces today to make a concentrated appeal to the Republican resolutions committee for a platform plank, not on silver, but on monetary policy. Uncertain of the form the final plank might take the States seeking relief for the silver mining industry decided in a series of informal conferences to ask for such relief only as a last resort.

They would be satisfied, various spokesmen said, if the party harks back to monetary policies enunciated in its platforms of 1892 and 1896. They will argue for a dollar based upon metallic reserves and hope for both gold and silver, on a scientific ration in this basis.

They want the party to declare itself in favor of international discussions on the subject. They oppose fiat money, or "a managed currency based upon men's promises to pay," as I. E. Rockwell, of Bellevue, Idaho, puts it. They want the gold standard maintained and were described as ready to pledge themselves to any plan which will develop and insure a substantially stabilized and fixed metallic yardstick for measuring debts and values.

PERRY HOWARD GETS MISSISSIPPI SEATS

Administration Wins Fight Against Tolbert Group of South Carolina.

Chicago, (Wednesday), June 15 (A.P.).—The Republican convention credentials committee voted at 12:05 a. m. today to sustain the national committee in seating the Mississippi delegation headed by Perry Howard, veteran Negro national committeeman. The vote was 32 to 5 and came after heated debate.

The administration, which had won in three previous contests in seating delegations from South Carolina, Georgia, and Louisiana, had attempted to displace the Howard faction with an all-white group led by Lamont Rowlands, but failed to lend its influence against Howard beyond the national committee contest.

The credentials committee also unanimously approved a resolution presented by the Wisconsin Conservatives condemning the action of nine La Follette Progressives on their delegation for alleged failure to stand in the national convention yesterday when the American flag was paraded and the name of President Hoover was mentioned by the keynoter.

Hambright Group Wins.

The committee voted 34 to 14 last night to seat the administration-recognized delegation from South Carolina, headed by J. C. Hambright. The vote reversed the action of the Republican national committee which had temporarily seated the delegation led by the veteran Joseph W. Tolbert.

The administration's successful fight to deny seats to the Tolbert group was led by Walter H. Newton, a secretary to President Hoover and a member of the credentials committee from Indiana; Robert Taft, of Ohio, son of the late Chief Justice, and Charles A. Jonas, of North Carolina.

Taft referred to President Hoover's statement shortly after his inauguration that the Tolbert faction had "engaged in the sale of Federal offices."

State Senator George A. Fearon, of New York; Mrs. Marion M. Scranton, of Pennsylvania, and Walter I. Sundlun, of Rhode Island, argued for the Tolbert delegation.

May Take Fight to Floor.

Fearon contended that Hambright had been eligible to vote for many years, but that he had never voted for a Republican candidate, including Mr. Hoover.

Tolbert, senior member of the national committee in point of service, probably will carry his fight to the convention floor. He said, after the hot intraparty battle that waged for more than three hours, that he would try to get the national committee that backed him up last week to aid him in a floor fight.

George W. Beckett, counsel for the Hambright delegation, expressed doubt the convention would allow itself to become entangled in a local contest.

"The national committee got a slap in the face just like I did," the towering "Tieless Joe" remarked. "It looks like they would want to defend themselves on the floor of the convention. I don't understand Taft. If it hadn't been for the South Carolina delegation's support his father never would have been President."

Party Regularity Disputed.

Newton frequently gave pointers to Taft. He also asked Beckett during the arguments if it was not true that the Tolbert group never had tried to elect State or county officers in South Carolina. Beckett replied Tolbert hadn't placed a State ticket in the field in the more than 20 years he had been a member of the national committee.

Much of the argument revolved about the party regularity of each faction. Fearon developed that Hambright had not voted for Hoover in 1928, nor had any Republican candidate since he was eligible to vote.

"I didn't vote," Hambright said, "because of the character of the people who made up the party organization."

"Do you belong to a faction to vote for Hoover?" Fearon returned. "That isn't the test applied in New York as to party regularity."

Taft recalled President Hoover's statement which in effect read Tolbert out of the party for alleged patronage abuses and added:

"If Hoover doesn't care whether Hambright voted for him or not, we shouldn't."

"If we recognize the Tolbert group," Taft said, "we recognize graft and corruption under circumstances that destroy the possibility of the effectiveness of the Republican party in the South and elsewhere."

Georgia Faction Seated.

The credentials committee sustained the national committee in seating the administration-recognized delegation from Georgia headed by James W. Arnold, national committeeman, and on which Negroes were represented.

Mrs. George S. Williams, of Savannah, Negro national committeewoman, and member of an opposing faction, pleaded for recognition, claiming inadequate Negro representation on the Arnold delegation.

She added that Postmaster General Brown had told her he was a friend of the Negroes, but that the Republican party could not build up an organization in Georgia as long as she remained committeewoman.

"I plead that you make this convention 100 per cent American by adding a touch of color," the Savannah Negress implored the committee.

Tennessee Controversy.

Before the committee took up the Mississippi delegation row, it also sustained the national committee in seating two groups of delegates from the First District of Tennessee.

The controversy in that district was between Representative O. B. Lovette and former Representative B. Carroll Reece.

A third administration victory was scored as the national committee was sustained by the seating of the Louisiana delegation headed by Ernest Lee Jahncke, Assistant Secretary of the Navy, and John E. Jackson, Republican State chairman.

Charges of irregularity made by M. J. Cousins, heading the contestants, were ignored.

MacNider Kills Effort To Back Him for Ticket

Chicago, June 14 (A.P.).—Hanford MacNider, Minister to Canada, banged the gavel vigorously today at a meeting of the Republican Service League to emphasize his refusal to consider a motion to indorse "Hanford MacNider" for the Vice Presidency.

Broadcast of Convention Plays Havoc With Senate

By JOHN J. DALY

UNABLE to go to the conventions, the United States Senate is having the conventions brought in by radio.

In a room just off the Senate chamber, a receiving set has been installed enabling members to hear the broadcasts of the national conventions.

As the President of the Senate raps for order, a flow of oratory comes from the floor of the convention drowning out the sound of the gavel.

"Would you mind closing that door?" the President of the Senate pleads. "This is too much for too much!"

"I object," a senator objects. "We want to hear what's going on in the convention."

"Would the senator mind turning the radio down, just a little bit?" the presiding officer begs, tears in his eyes. "After all, we have business——"

* * * *

DOWN goes the gavel: "One thing or the other," says the presiding officer. "Either that radio will have to be shut off, or I'll entertain a motion to adjourn."

"I move that the Senate adjourn," says a senator, anxious to keep abreast with the party convention.

"The motion is out of order——"

"Will the senator yield?" asks another senator.

"To what?" asks the senator on the floor.

"To the radio."

"I'll have to," confesses the senator on the floor, "unless somebody closes that door, or tunes in on another station."

"All the stations are carrying the convention," explains a senator, up on his radio broadcasts.

"Then I yield," says the senator, relinquishing the floor.

"I move——" another senator shouts.

"You've already made a motion," the presiding officer informs him. "You're out of order."

"I'm not out of order," the senator rejoins, "that's the radio."

* * * *

"IF the radio is out of order," the presiding officer states, gravely, the sergeant at arms will call the Senate electrician and have the radio fixed."

As the sergeant at arms of the Senate arrests the electrician and has him look over the radio, examining it for grid leaks and static, 96 senators join the happy circle watching a man work—and the Senate automatically adjourns as the radio announcer announces through the loud speaker: "This is the Hall, Columbia, Gem of the Ocean Broadcasting Co. bringing you the proceeding of the convention direct from the convention floor in dear old Chicago. That loud noise you just heard is the dropping of a plank—on prohibition."

Plaudits for Curtis Is Reserved for Levees After Meeting; She Says Women of South Promise to Back President in Campaign.

Chicago, June 14 (A.P.).—Dolly was late, very late to that gathering, Mrs. Alvin T. Hert, national vice chairman, explaining, "She's tied up in conferences—over long distance."

Speeches were over, teacups had to be silenced when the Vice President's sister, arriving breathless, was introduced as "our beloved Dolly Gann." Briefly she summarized her recent travels—Boston, Philadelphia, St. Louis, Omaha——

"In North Carolina Democrats came up and said they would vote for Hoover," she said. "Women are anxious to get started in this campaign. They have never for one moment lost faith in Herbert Hoover. They will leave not a stone unturned!"

That was all. Not a word about the vice presidential end of the ticket. But later, when delegates surrounded her, and she held levee, she said many a pleased word about the brother whose ardent booster she has always been.

To importuning reports her defiance was: "Wait a short time and you'll know how it goes. We'll win it!"

She frankly told them her delaying conference had been on politics, but that she had absolutely no intention of indulging in interviews on matters political. All queries about Mrs. Longworth she brushed aside with: "I can not speak for Mrs. Longworth; you'll have to ask her."

And Alice, as everybody knows, never gives interviews.

Meanwhile, the mighty among the women party leaders were tumbling from their home-State thrones, part of an inner earthquake just as devastating to men leaders, in a convention that was supposed to be placid.

Mrs. Ellis Yost, who headed all women's activities, lost her twelve-year position as West Virginia committeewoman to Mrs. Gail Ebert, of Parkersburg.

"I'm reconciled," laughed Mrs. Yost afterward.

The caucus that voted her out also adopted a resolution thanking her for "past services rendered to our party," and pledging her "loyal and undivided support" as director of national work. West Virginia leaders said the prohibition question didn't enter in—Mrs. Yost is an outstanding dry—they just wanted to reward another woman for her party services.

CONVENTION SIDELIGHTS

Chicago, June 14 (A.P.).—Maj. Henry Curran, president of the Association Against the Prohibition Amendment, and F. Scott McBride, president of the Antisaloon League, talked together for about fifteen minutes while waiting to appear before the platform-making committee.

Curran said, "We could settle it in three minutes if we could get together." McBride made no comment.

Five pickpockets were arrested by the police shortly before the first session opened.

"We're Chicagoans," one of them protested to Sergt. William Schoemaker. "Why let outsiders come in and reap a harvest?"

An automobile agency with windows on Michigan boulevard displayed last week-end a large portrait of President Hoover, and also of various Democratic candidates—Roosevelt, Smith, Garner, Ritchie, Baker.

When the Republican meeting opened there were still six pictures in the windows, but they were all of Hoover.

Illinois had the Republican convention right at its own front door, but missed the start of the show. The State delegation was deadlocked over the selection of the national committeeman. When convention time came the issue was still undecided, and the Illinois delegates recessed their caucus, arriving several minutes after the gavel had sounded.

Women advocating repeal of the eighteenth amendment marched on the platform committee today.

Several score of women, all wearing huge badges declaring "repeal eighteenth amendment," walked up to the second floor of the Congress Hotel and jammed the lobbies outside the committee room.

When Senator Dickinson first mentioned the name of President Hoover during his keynote address, Col. E. St. John Grebbie, of New Jersey, who served as military aid to Presidents Taft and Wilson, shouted:

"How does he stand on prohibition?"

Grebbie attempted to talk but was silenced by members of the New York delegation, seated in front of New Jersey.

The "I knew Hoover when" delegation was increased by the arrival today of Stanly A. Easton, general manager of the Bunker Hill and Sullivan Mining Company, a delegate from Idaho. Mr. Easton played on the University of California football team which met the Stanford team managed by Hoover. He knew Hoover as a student, though only slightly, he said today.

G.O.P. Urged to Indorse Waterway Construction

Chicago, June 14 (A.P.).—Resolutions adopted by the National Rivers and Harbors Congress, urging continuance of Federal waterways construction, were presented today to 30 delegates to the Republican national convention.

The resolutions urged that the party include in its platform a plank calling for a bond issue to finance the waterways, if funds from Congress are not sufficient. The value of waterways work in relieving unemployment was referred to in the resolutions. Prominent Democrats also will be asked to present the resolution to platform committee members of their party.

VIRGINIA DELEGATES FAVOR LIQUOR VOTE

Slemp Predicts Plank Will Be Brief and to the Point; New Anderson Plan.

Chicago, June 14 (A.P.).—While the Virginia delegation was lined up tonight to support a platform plank declaring for submission of the eighteenth amendment to the States and for retention in Congress of power to control the liquor traffic, the stand was not for the specific plan offered by Col. Henry W. Anderson, Richmond.

C. Bascom Slemp, national committeeman, said he felt the plank which would ultimately be adopted would be very brief and to the point, without seeking to suggest what type legislation Congress should enact in the event the States should vote for repeal of prohibition.

Col. Anderson, who appeared with the delegation for a short while in the convention session, redrafted his proposed prohibition plank, which now calls for action by Congress under article 5 of the Constitution to submit revision of the prohibition amendment to the people through conventions chosen exclusively for that purpose by special elections.

Plank Virtually Same.

Otherwise the plank is virtually the same as when made public Sunday night.

Representative Menalcus Lankford, of Norfolk, who represents Virginia on the resolutions committee, pointed out that under the plan to leave control of the liquor traffic in Congress the Federal Government would be able to provide valuable aid to States which desired to maintain complete prohibition.

There was harmony in the delegation after the victory of "Old Guard" forces in the elections by the caucus last night, but Anderson supporters still voiced opinion he was the proper man to lead the party in Virginia.

Crupler Is Chosen.

The Third District delegation, victors in the factional fight there, was obviously disappointed in the election of Joseph L. Crupler for national committeeman over Anderson.

It was a Virginian today who led the cheering for Hoover at the first mention of the President's name by Senator L. J. Dickinson, Iowa, in the keynote speech. It came early in the address and seemed to catch many unawares.

As the applause began, E. R. Duff, Charlottesville, began to shout, and when others joined with him he rose. The Missouri alternates, immediately in front of Duff, joined first and the shouting spread over the big stadium.

Hurley Credits Women With Electing Hoover

Chicago, June 14 (A.P.).—Credit for the election of Herbert Hoover in 1928 was given to women voters tonight by Secretary Hurley in addressing the Woman's National Republican Club.

Speaking before nearly a thousand women and men attending the Republican National Convention, the War Secretary paid tribute to the women's activity in Federal elections and said:

"In 1928, their votes carried Herbert Hoover into the White House."

THE DECLINE IN BATHTUB MISHAPS.

"Insurance company statistics disprove the impression that bathtubs are a leading cause of accidents. Out of 2,317 falls in the home during one year, only 19 occurred in bathtubs, a recent bulletin shows."—News item.

"THAT may be true," said Elmer Twitchell, in commenting on the above today, "but you've got to bear in mind that people have become more accustomed to bathtubs than they used to be. It ain't so many years ago when folks were pretty nervous and irresponsible in 'em."

* * * *

"I can remember," continued Elmer, "when people regarded the new bathtub in the home a good deal like they regarded the early automobile. They were afraid of the darned thing and the minute they got playin' around it they got the big jitters.

* * * *

"Only the nervy fellers—the real dare-devils—would use 'em at first. They didn't have much experience in 'em and a lot of accidents resulted before folks began to get the hang of 'em.

* * * *

"I remember that there was considerable question whether the bathtub was a passing fad or had come to stay. I was one of the first men in my town to operate a bathtub and when the accident insurance company learned I was bathing in it once or twice a week it canceled my policy.

* * * *

"Of course, those first bathtubs were a lot riskier than the ones they use today. They hadn't been perfected. They stood on four legs or else were set in a sort of pine box, stained a mahogany or oak color, and they stood so high that if a feller slipped he was apt to go clean out the nearest window into the back yard.

* * * *

"And when you started to slip there was nothing to grab at. These modern tubs are so full of gadgets that a feller can't help grabbing hold of something on his way down.

* * * *

"Another thing that has cut down the bathtub accident and mortality rate is that people have so much more opportunity for practice these days. In my time you could go visiting all over town without getting into more than one or two homes, which boasted a tub. People were still afraid of them. They regarded them as in the experimental stage. These days you find five or six bathrooms in every home you enter."

* * * *

"Did you ever have an accident in a bathtub?" Mr. Twitchell was asked.

"Once," he replied, "and I'll tell you how it was. I had been to a clambake in the days before prohibition, and when I got home late that night I climbed into the tub. That's all I remember. I woke up in the hospital. I never knew ijust what happened, but I always had a notion that the tub skidded and overturned with me!"

THE LOST LEADER.

Draw the shades, oh Bishop Cannon,
Heave a sigh of deep despair!
In the House of Prohibition,
There is now a vacant chair.

Gather 'round the old dry table,
Bow your heads, boys, one and all;
Gone quite swiftly is your leader—
Turn his picture to the wall.

* * * *

Elmer Twitchell says all the candidates this year look and act so much alike that they ought to number 'em for the guidance of the voters.

MARYLAND NEUTRAL IN FIGHT ON CURTIS

Delegation Is Solid for President, Applause at First Session Reveals.

Chicago, June 14 (A.P.).—The Maryland delegation to the Republican national convention continued today to remain neutral on the question of nomination for Vice President.

The matter had not been considered in caucus and Galen L. Tait, chairman of the State central committee, who has acted as spokesman for the group, said it was doubtful if anything would be done about it before Thursday.

"I'm not going to cross any bridges before I get to them," he said.

The delegation is solidly behind Hoover, however, and the consensus among members was that anyone indorsed by the President would be acceptable.

The Maryland group was at the convention hall en masse today and added its applause when Hoover's name was mentioned.

Its seats are conveniently located on the center aisle, comparatively close to the speaker's stand. Somewhat further away, and to the side, is another section of seats reserved for alternates.

After attending the convention this morning, the delegates were free to amuse themselves sightseeing and shopping this afternoon. Committee meetings kept a few busy.

CONVENTION FIGHTS GROW

early tomorrow morning. Tomorrow the committee is expected to make its report to the convention. If it is not ready by then the convention will have to be extended to Friday.

If schedule is followed—and the delegates, most of whom are hard up for money fervently hope it will be—the platform will be adopted tomorrow, and President Hoover and a running mate nominated Thursday.

Open War on Curtis.

Friends of Vice President Curtis were hoping tonight that Gen. Dawes would issue a stronger statement than the one he gave out in Washington yesterday saying that he was not a candidate and that he did not want his friends to "embarrass" him by placing him in nomination.

Curtis' foes insist that Dawes has left the door open and they are going ahead with their plans to "draft" him.

The first open declaration of war on Curtis came from R. B. Creager, of the Texas delegation, who said he was going to ask Alabama to yield its place in the order of balloting so that Dawes could be placed in nomination at the very outset.

In addition to Texas, several other large delegations are threatening to throw their votes to Dawes, including those from Iowa and Minnesota. There is also a lot of Dawes or anti-Curtis sentiment in the New York, New Jersey, Massachusetts and Virginia delegations.

The Curtis people are charging tonight that President Hoover has "laid down" on the Kansan. They do not say that the President is opposed to Curtis, but simply that he is not doing anything to save him. The President's policy, they say, is to let the convention have its own way.

Legion Crowd Active.

Secretary of War Patrick J. Hurley, who has been boomed for Curtis' place, arrived here tonight and reiterated his statement that he is not a candidate and that his vote is for Curtis.

The American Legion crowd, though they profess not to be in politics, were openly electioneering tonight for Gen. Harbord.

The foes of Curtis are encouraging every boom that is started. They even indorsed Dave Ingalls, of Ohio, for the place, forgetting that Ingalls is only 33 years old, and therefore two years shy of being eligible for the place.

Before they got into the meeting room of the resolutions committee tonight the wets and drys surged outside the doors like a herd of agitated cattle. When Chairman Garfield ordered the doors opened they surged in, fought over available chairs and then crowded back against the walls.

All the well-known drys were there—Bishop James Cannon, jr., of Virginia; Canon Chase, of New York; Mrs. Henry W. Peabody, of Florida; Mrs. Rushmore Patterson, of Washington, and others.

Dr. Butler opened the argument for the advocates of repeal.

"We are not asking this convention to indorse repeal," he said. "We are simply asking that it agree to urge Congress to submit a repeal amendment to the people.

Wadsworth Applauded.

"Do that," he said, "and the Democrats will do likewise two weeks hence. Then we can get prohibition out of politics and devote our attention to more important things, such as economics."

Dr. Butler was vigorously applauded.

Pierre S. du Pont, multimillionaire, of Delaware, introduced former Senator James W. Wadsworth, of New York, who represented the Association Against the Prohibition Amendment.

"We can not fool the people with talk of modifying or revising the eighteenth amendment," Wadsworth said. "If we try to dodge, we shall be caught instantly."

"Beware lest an obvious dodging of this question will pin the label of 'prohibition party' on what is still the Republican party."

Here the wets burst into vigorous applause.

"We must speak our honest convictions," continued Wadsworth. "We must say to the American people, 'America has made a mistake, she is on the wrong road. She must retrace her steps.' In a word, say: 'We must repeal the eighteenth amendment.'

"Say it! shouted Wadsworth. "It is the truth, and the truth shall set you free."

Party Suicide Warning.

Mrs. Charles G. Sabin, president of the Women's Organization for Prohibition Reform, introduced Mrs. Courtlandt Nicoll, vice president of that organization.

Dr. E. H. Cherrington, of the National Prohibition Board of Strategy, led the fight for the professional drys.

"A national political party should not attempt to bind the President on a Constitutional change," Cherrington said. "It should leave any proposed change to an unfettered Congress."

A repeal or a resubmission plank, Cherrington said, would be tantamount to "coercion." Half the Republican office holders in the country, he said, either would have to be disloyal to the party or to their constituents if a wet plank were adopted.

Cherrington talked on without a handclap to interrupt him.

However, there was applause when he warned that the Republican party would "commit suicide" if it adopted a wet or resubmission plank.

"It is no longer a noble experiment," said Mrs. Nicoll, recalling President Hoover's phrase of 1928. "It is an ignoble experiment. The drys can no longer say that righteousness is on their side. Prohibition has encouraged corruption and crime and destroyed temperance and respect for law.

"Dilution" Not Sufficient.

"Grandiose platitudes won't do you any good," Mrs. Nicoll warned the straddlers on the committee. "You must be for repeal of the eighteenth amendment, not merely dilution of the amendment."

Fred Clark, of the Crusaders, recited the evils of prohibition, told how it provided a fortress for bootleggers and racketeers, and roared out this peroration:

"You can not crucify the youth of America on the brass rails of countless speakeasies that abound in this country."

Ralph Shaw, of the lawyers voluntary committee, told how prohibition has filled the jails and corrupted police forces. And then, looking over to where Dr. F. Scott McBride, Bishop Cannon and the others were, he cried out: "Those who won't admit all these evils wouldn't listen to Christ himself."

George Sibley, of the Young Republican Club of New York, warned the committee that he would not hold his members in line next November if the Republican convention resorts to a "straddle."

Holds Women May Desert.

Mrs. Ella A. Boole, president of the Woman's Christian Temperance Union, was more specific in her warning.

"We supported Herbert Hoover in 1928," she said, "because he stood for a principle in which we thoroughly believed. We helped him break the Solid South.

"The millions of women in our organizaton are opposed to resubmission or repeal. If the Republican party adopts a repeal or resubmission plank, many of these women are going to refuse to support the ticket."

Dr. F. Scott McBride, head of the Antisaloon League, reiterated Cherrington's argument that a national political party has no right to try and dictate to Congress.

"We have not asked for a dry plank," he said. "And the party has no right to adopt a wet plank and thereby give a slap in the face to dry senators and representatives."

Robbins Works Into Lather.

Col. Raymond Robbins, a noted dry, literally worked himself into a lather in arguing against a wet plank.

Mrs. Henry W. Peabody said she represented 12,000,000 women drys, most of whom supported President Hoover in 1928.

"We could not now believe in the sincerity of a dry President who would stand on a wet platform," she said.

"Prohibition is only 12 years old," she added. "It is like a 12-year-old boy who needs mothering."

Mrs. Rushmore Patterson, Washington society woman, denounced other society women, like Mrs. Sabin, who are demanding repeal.

Referring to a Flag Day ceremony earlier in the day, Mrs. Patterson said: "Those women (Mrs. Sabin's group) are not the Betsy Rosses of this country today."

Opening Crowd Lacks Pep.

Today's opening of the convention was a somewhat dreary event. The crowd lacked that pep and gusto that is expected of a convention crowd. The band played, a glee club whooped it up, but the delegates refused to get excited.

Not a picture of President Hoover was in sight. Only the likeness of George Washington adorned the flag-draped stadium.

The building, a huge structure covering 3 acres, was only partly filled. It has been expected that the people of Chicago, anxious to see history in the making, would fight for a chance to buy tickets. But when Senator Simeon D. Fess, of Ohio, called the convention to order there were vast open spaces in the galleries.

Fess, a former schoolmaster, acted as though he was back in the classroom. While he was announcing a Flag Day ceremony the movie men turned a fierce Klieg light on the platform. "Turn off that light," shrieked Fess, rapping his gavel.

The light continued to bathe the platform. "I want that light off," Fess cried petulantly. "I am running this convention."

The cameramen defied him and went about making pictures as a band of American legionnaires marched forward to present "Old Glory."

The ceremony over, a white-garbed band struck up "The Star-Spangled Banner," and the Ohio Glee Club sang a ballad.

Bishop Freeman's Prayer.

Anton Cermak, Mayor of Chicago, welcomed the Republican hosts while in his heart he was hoping that his own Democratic party annihilates them in November.

Bishop James A. Freeman of Washington intoned the prayer opening the convention. He called on the Heavenly Father to "save us from discord and confusion." However, in view of the inevitable battle over prohibition and the vice presidential nomination, it is doubtful if his prayer will be answered.

Senator Dickinson received a brief ovation when he was escorted to the platform following his election as temporary chairman. He immediately launched into his keynote speech, which was in effect an appeal for the reelection of President Hoover and the indorsement of all the domestic and foreign policies that have been advocated by the Hoover administration in Washington for the last three years.

The first sustained demonstration of the convention came when he mentioned President Hoover for the first time. It lasted only a few minutes, and was silenced by the band in the balcony that started up obviously to give it renewed impetus.

Lincoln's Speech Paraphrased.

The cheers came as the Iowa senator held out this hope to the American people for the restoration of prosperity: "In this grave hour, the Republican party meets in national convention to nominate another stalwart American—Herbert Hoover."

The opening paragraphs of Senator Dickinson's speech were a paraphrase of Lincoln's Gettysburg address. He likened the present economic crisis to the situation in the country at the time when the first Republican President of the United States was nominated in 1860.

"Three score and twelve years ago," he said, "our nation was at grips with its most perilous political crisis. It faced the proposition whether this Republic—dedicated by the blood of patriots on a score of battlefields—should endure.

"In that dark hour, the Republican party gave to the country its first Republican President, Abraham Lincoln. He preserved the Union and made it certain that Government of the people, by the people, and for the people shall not perish from the earth.

Denounces Democratic Tactics.

"Today our nation is in the midst of its most perilous economic crisis. It faces the proposition of whether the fundamental principles upon which it was founded and has grown great shall be preserved."

It was at this point that he offered President Hoover to the convention and to the country for renomination and reelection. Delegates and spectators responded with cheers. Gov. Jim Rolph of California moved that State's standard, but there was no effort made to stage a march around the hall.

Senator Dickinson denounced the Democrats—their efforts to hamstring and "smear" President Hoover, and their inefficiency to function when placed in control of the House of Representatives. Then he listed the President's various moves to cope with the depression.

He ridiculed the Democratic tariff policy, pointing out that it was Democratic votes that made passage of the Smoot-Hawley bill possible, and that it was a score of Senate Democrats who recently put through coal, oil, lumber and copper tariffs in the tax bill.

In short, Senator Dickinson offered President Hoover to the party as he is. He offered no excuses, no apologies, and made no gaudy promises.

HOOVER MEN IN CONTROL OF FRAMING OF PLATFORM

flicting views on prohibition, were the two Cabinet members put on the special platform building committee. Ambassador Edge, New Jersey's representative, is a close friend of the President.

Wet leaders said only four of the fifteen members of the resolutions committee considered to be wets were put on the special committee.

The subcommittee was named by Garfield and accepted without protest in the midst of hearings by the whole committee.

California, C. C. Teague; Colorado, William V. Hodges; Delaware, Senator Hastings; Illinois, G. D. Kinney; Iowa, J. N. Darling; Kansas, Charles P. Scott; Massachusetts, William M. Butler; Michigan, Fred W. Green; Missouri, Secretary Arthur M. Hyde; New Hampshire, John G. Wynant; New Jersey, Ambassador Walter E. Edge; New York, Secretary Ogden L. Mills; Ohio, James R. Garfield; Pennsylvania, John J. McClure; Texas, R. B. Creager, and Washington, John J. Sullivan.

Friends of Bingham expressed surprise over the selections.

It was recalled that Bingham was vice chairman of this subcommittee four years ago at Kansas City and it was he who made the formal motion tonight for the appointment of a subcommittee.

Organized labor, through William Green, president of the American Federation of Labor, presented a program including a five-day week, and Federal appropriations for State and local improvements.

Green assailed the proposed sales tax and asked for immediate modification of the Volstead act to permit beer of 2.75 per cent alcohol.

Other recommendations in the long list included:

Modification of the antitrust laws to encourage labor, industry and agriculture; enactment of the Davis-Kelly mine stabilization bill; enactment of old-age pension laws, and liberalization of retirement laws.

Prohibition was the dominating problem of the committee. Hearings were also granted tonight to advocates of other planks, but when the committee closed the doors for an all-night session at a late hour it was prohibition that worried the members.

Throughout the day, members of the President's official family worked over the resubmission proposal, consulting with the White House and with dry leaders.

Legislatures or Conventions.

Everything appeared settled as the committee assembled again except a dispute whether submission of prohibition should be to State Legislatures or to State conventions. The prohibitionists strongly opposed the latter.

The hearing before the resolutions committee was limited to four hours and the first was given over to prohibition, with the wets and drys limited to 30 minutes each.

For nearly half an hour wets and drys, men and women, had stood in a tightly packed throng outside the committee room.

Elbow to elbow were Pierre S. du Pont, chairman of the United Council; Bishop James Cannon, jr., of the national prohibition board of strategy; Dr. Nicholas Murray Butler, repeal advocate; Dr. A. C. Millar, of Little Rock, Ark., member of the strategy board, and Mrs. Charles H. Sabin, head of the Women's Organization for National Prohibition Reform.

The committee admitted as many as could be seated in the hearing room and in the rush into the room many of the leading wets and drys were excluded and they had to be paged. As each entered his or her partisans cheered.

Jane Addams' Requests.

Miss Jane Addams appeared as a representative of several peace organizations. She said she was going to suggest several unpopular things, but hoped the committee would not mind. She said she was very brave to suggest a reduction for tariffs at a Republican convention.

She thought also cancellation of war debts should be considered and added she thought the United States would help by recognizing Russia. Miss Addams said it was not necessary to agree with a government in order to recognize it.

Edward A. O'Neal, president of the American Farm Bureau Federation, introduced Charles Hearst, vice president, who urged that the party pledge itself to measures necessary for the dispostal of accumulated agricultural surpluses; improvement of agricultural price levels; giving farm board power to apply plan carrying principle of the equalization fee; tariff revision to help the farmer; making gold's purchasing power stable; broadening monetary use of silver and additional credit for agriculture.

Turner Pleads for Farmers.

Gov. Turner of Iowa made a vigorous plea for the farmers.

"This question is just as important as all this booze talk we've been hearing," he shouted. "There are 500,000 out of work in this very city. Agricultural credit has been destroyed in this country. There will be no return to prosperity until you revive the purchasing power of the farmers."

He urged stabilization of wholesale prices of commodities.

"I implore you," he said to the committee, "to get your minds on something besides booze. We are tottering on a precipice. One out of every five farms has been foreclosed on in the last six years.

"This is the greatest opportunity the Republicans have had since 1860 and they twiddle their thumbs and talk about repeal. Remember, the people of this country are hungry."

MOVEMENT TO DRAFT DAWES GAINING IMPETUS IN CHICAGO

former Assistant Attorney General, and former United States Senator James W. Wadsworth.

Oklahoma and North Dakota plan to support Mr. Curtis, but Connecticut is watching the Dawes movement with interest. Senator Bingham, of Connecticut, is standing by Mr. Curtis.

Virtually ignoring Gen. Dawes' statement in Washington that he would not become a candidate, his friends in many States claim President Hoover should have a younger mate than Mr. Curtis. They argue that Gen. Dawes would strengthen the national ticket because of his reputation as a business man, diplomat and financier.

That friends of Mr. Curtis are much concerned is obvious. Secretary Hurley, a close friend to the Vice President, who prevented himself from being boomed for the nomination, arrived today, coming as an emissary from the White House. He manifested much interest in the unexpected developments.

Mr. Hurley accompanied J. F. Lucey, of Dallas, to see Osro Cobb, of the Arkansas delegation, when arrangements were made to nominate Gen. Dawes. The War Secretary was reticent, but reminded questioners that he was on record for the Kansan.

The Illinois delegation deferred until tomorrow a decision on whether it would nominate Gen. Dawes.

Representative W. E. Hull, a delegate, said, "While there is much gossip in the delegation for Gen. Dawes, most of us want to learn from the general himself whether he wants the post, and if he wants our support for anything, he can have it."

Arthur M. Curtis, chairman of the Missouri State committee, predicted a "good majority" of the Missouri delegates would vote for Gen. Dawes.

Indications that Gen. Dawes may receive the support of a majority of the Minnesota delegation were seen tonight in the announcement by Claude McKenzie, national committeeman from that State, that he would use every effort to swing the group to the Chicagoan.

"I believe Mr. Dawes will bring the Republican party more votes in the Middle West than any one else, and for that reason I am determined to fight for his nomination," he said.

Administration forces are still apparently remaining firm behind Vice President Curtis despite the growing sentiment for Gen. Dawes.

"I can't quit Charles Curtis, for he is my friend," Secretary Hurley said. "I am for him."

The War Secretary said he was not and would not be a candidate, although his name has been mentioned among the possibilities.

Dawes Declines Further Statement on Candidacy

(United Press.)

Brig. Gen. Charles G. Dawes, famous outspoken figure in American public life, refused tonight to elaborate on his statement of last night in which he said he was not a candidate for the Republican vice presidential nomination and urged his friends not to embarrass him by their support.

Questioned concerning reports from Chicago that he had been advised he would have to make an even stronger statement to escape the nomination, Gen. Dawes said:

"That is interesting. I've heard nothing about it. If what I said in my statement last night is not strong enough, I am sorry but I can not make my position any clearer."

Asked whether he would make a new declaration in view of the agitation in his behalf at the Republican convention, Gen. Dawes replied:

"I have nothing more to say than has already been said. Should I have anything more to say, I'll do it in my own way and at my own time."

Gen. Dawes would say nothing more. He completes his work here tomorrow as head of the Reconstruction Finance Corporation and said upon resigning this post he would return to private life.

Y.M.C.A. OBSERVES HIGH SCHOOL RITES

Diplomas Are Given Eight Preparatory Students; G. W. Offutt Speaks.

The annual banquet and commencement of the Washington Preparatory School, the Y. M. C. A. evening high school, was held last night in the assembly hall of the Central Y. M. C. A.

The commencement address was made by George W. Offutt, dean of the school of law of Southeastern University. Dr. James A. Bell director of education of the Y. M. C. A., presided, and Raymond O. Eliason, principal of the school, was toastmaster.

Herbert Pierach was awarded first honors for the best essay on the Paris pact. The award was announced by Ward W. Keesecker, of the United States Bureau of Education. Joseph H. Whitebread received the Bicentennial commission award for the best essay on Washington's "Farewell Address."

The regular four-year high school diploma was granted the following: Lily Reich Bullock, Mildred F. Butler, Charles F. Nauman, DeWitt Thompson, Carl Russell Watson, John Lawrence Wilson, Howard A. Whitebread and Joseph E. Woodcock.

Honor certificates were issued the following students who have maintained an average of 90 per cent in special subjects: Angus Alexander, Alexander G. Anderson, Rudolph F. Bild, Williams Brashears, Helen C. Brook, Lily R. Bullock, William B. Canfield, Thomas F. Carley, Agnes B. Carr, Glenn S. Currier, Raymond Eden, Thomas H. Elfman, Edith M. Foright, Joseph A. Ganoe, Eloise Hess, Paul Little, John Maktos, Margaret McMahon, Roy F. Nalley, Charles F. Nauman, Lena C. Nead, George F. Peter, Francis R. Poore, Ralph T. Powell, Martha C. Preston, William K. Savage, Max E. Schayer, Warren W. Shoemaker, Alfred F. Strehlow, DeWitt Thompson, Myrtle Thornburg, Charles A. Trainum, John A. Tworek, Howard A. Whitebread, John L. Wilson and Warren W. Van Arnum, jr.

Sigma Delta Fraternity, new scholarship fraternity, was well represented at the banquet. New members announced were Agnes B. Carr, Joseph A. Ganoe, Ralph T. Powell, Alfred F. Strehlow, DeWitt Thompson, William W. Van Arnum, jr., Mildred Butler and G. Arthur Fuller.

Capital Man Freed In Fatal Accident

Claim That Boy Was Killed After Cab Was Stolen Wins Acquittal.

Special to The Washington Post.

Baltimore, Md., June 14.—Basing his defense on a charge that slot machine hijackers in flight in the taxicab they had stolen from him killed a 14-year-old boy, Ollie Briggs, of Washington, was acquitted today of the charges of manslaughter.

Tried before Judge Frank I. Duncan in the Baltimore County Circuit Court at Towson, Briggs testified that he was drinking beer at a place near Dundalk at the time Michael Smollak was run down and killed April 18 while skating in Holabird avenue.

The defendant asserted that Henry Beltzer, from whom he contended a slot machine had been stolen, started in pursuit of the men in another automobile. It was during the chase that Briggs' taxi, driven by a robber, killed the boy, the court was informed. Beltzer denied, however, he was chasing the Briggs car. Judge Duncan, in dismissing Briggs, characterized the evidence as "conflicting."

Western Railroads Bare Plan for Idle

Seek to Place East's Jobless on Small Farms; Pick Committee.

Chicago, June 14 (A.P.).—Plans for a "back to the land" movement to place unemployed Easterners on small tracts of farming land in Western States were discussed at a conference of representatives of a dozen Western railroads here today with R. L. Shepherd, of Jerome, Idaho, chairman of the board of directors of the Federal Farm Loan Board, of Spokane, Wash.

Mr. Shepherd was named chairman of an executive committee, including C. L. Seagraves, of the Santa Fe Railroad; R. W. Reynolds, of the Milwaukee, and R. A. Smith, of the Union Pacific system, to develop details of the plan and enlist the cooperation of the Federal Farm Loan Board, large industrial concerns and State and local chambers of commerce in the West.

The plan was suggested by Mr. Shepherd, he told the railroad men, after the Spokane and Bank's sales of farms obtained on foreclosed mortgages had reached about half a million dollars during March and April. Many of the sales, he found, were to jobless men from Eastern States, turning to the land in an effort to earn a livelihood.

Camping Couple Seized In Bank Robbery Killing

Portsmouth, N. H., June 14 (A.P.).—John C. Nutter, jr., 23, and his wife, Mae Rowe Nutter, 23, who had been camping on the outskirts of the city for three weeks, were taken into custody today for Los Angeles, Calif., authorities who, police said, wanted Nutter on a murder charge, resulting from a bank holdup last July.

Los Angeles, June 14 (A.P.).—John C. Nutter, jr., held in Portsmouth, N. H., is wanted here in connection with the fatal shooting of Nathan Black, young crippled bank messenger, last July 27. Black was shot down and robbed of $8,094 in cash and checks by three men as he approached a bank to deposit the money for a produce firm by which he was employed.

Tariff on Furniture Is Left Unchanged

Duty on Wool Clothing Is Boosted to 50 Cents and 75 Per Cent.

(Associated Press.)

President Hoover yesterday approved the finding of the Tariff Commission, specifying no change in the 40 per cent ad valorem rate of import duty on furniture made of wood.

The 40 per cent ad valorem rate on umbrellas and the 60 per cent ad valorem rate on umbrella parts also were left unchanged. The rate on infants' unembroidered wool knit outerwear, valued at more than $2 a pound, was reduced to 50 cents per pound plus 25 per cent ad valorem.

The duty on other such clothing, not of Jersey fabric, was increased to 50 cents per pound and 75 per cent ad valorem.

OPEN BOOKS URGED AS CURE FOR BEARS

Regular Reports on Industry Held Safeguard by Noted Harvard Economist.

(Associated Press.)

Legislation requiring big corporations to open their books to the public was recommended to the Senate banking committee yesterday by Prof. William Z. Ripley as a cure for stock manipulation.

Obviously impressed by Ripley's testimony, Senator Couzens, of Michigan, Republican member of the committee, announced immediately that he would prepare such legislation.

The noted Harvard economist also urged legislation to require officers of corporations to reveal their holdings in the stock of their own companies.

Committee members listened attentively as the scholarly appearing witness, with his Van Dyke beard and bushy mustache, denounced speculation by officers of corporations in their own stock, and various other practices.

Test for Investments.

"One of the best tests of those who are looking for investments is whether those in charge of the ship are staying with it or whether they already are in lifeboats, directing the ship by radio," Ripley said, as the committee laughed at his picturesque language.

"That's what happened in Gillette and Kreuger & Toll," the economist added.

Ripley specifically recommended that all corporations over a certain size, doing interstate business, should be required to file frequent reports with the Government on their earnings, depreciation and other operating data.

"When a man tries to run a bull pool or a bear pool," he said, "he does it by disseminating false information."

Ripley contended there had been comparatively little fluctuation in railroad, telephone and telegraph stocks since they have been filing reports with the Interstate Commerce Commission.

Opposes Taxation.

Replying to questions from Senator Glass (Democrat), Virginia, Ripley said it would be difficult to control speculation by taxation because of the impracticability of drawing a line between speculation and investment.

The economist cited a number of individual stocks in which he contended publicity would have helped investors.

Turning to the Kreuger & Toll securities, he said those responsible in that case "were not true to their fiduciary responsibility."

"I don't believe there was any corrupt purpose in the men who placed the Kreuger & Toll securities," he continued. "They were of great integrity, but unbelievable stupidity."

Bureau to Stock Pool In Virginia With Bass

(Associated Press.)

Commissioner Henry O'Malley, of the Fisheries Bureau, said yesterday the bureau will stock a 15-acre rearing pool near Featherstone, Va., with young bass.

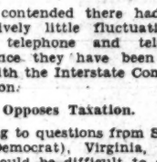

The pool was created on a tributary of the Potomac River by the Izaak Walton League. The league leased and cleared the tract and flooded it by the construction of a 75-foot dam. Late this year, O'Malley said, the fish will be released in the Potomac and other streams open to all anglers.

SENATE BODY BACKS WAGNER RELIEF BILL

Banking Committee Substitutes It for Garner Plan; Hearing Friday.

(Associated Press.)

The $2,000,000,000 relief program offered by Senate Democrats was substituted yesterday for the Garner $2,300,000,000 plan by the Senate banking committee.

The committee agreed to report the Garner bill with the provisions of the Senate bill substituted, so that both measures can go to conference.

The action was the first step toward breaking the deadlock between House and Senate on relief legislation.

The Garner bill carries $1,200,000,000 for public construction, authorizes the Reconstruction Corporation to increase its capitalization by $1,000,000,000 for construction loans, and creates an emergency fund of $100,000,000 to be administered by the President.

Wagner Bill Changes Figures.

The Wagner bill, which was substituted, provides for a $500,000,000 public works bond issue, to which President Hoover is opposed, and authorizes an increase of $1,500,000,000 in the borrowing power of the Reconstruction Corporation for loans for self-liquidating construction of a public nature.

Representative Rainey, of Illinois, the Democratic leader, told newspapermen yesterday Speaker Garner expects to testify before the House banking committee Friday on relief and expressed hope that a compromise between House and Senate legislation can be reached shortly afterward.

At the same time Chairman Byrns, of the House appropriations committee, said in an interview that if he found $150,000,000 to $200,000,000 more in economies really needed to balance the budget, as estimated by some leading Republicans, he would introduce a resolution directing department heads to cut their expenditures 5 per cent next year.

Garner to Return Tomorrow.

Mr. Rainey said Speaker Garner, who is ill and confined to his bed by bronchitis, "wants to come back to work tomorrow, but it'll probably be Thursday before he does."

The House banking committee, he added, plans to hold hearings Friday on the Wagner bill recently passed by the Senate to permit $300,000,000 in relief loans to States.

Speaker Garner, Mr. Rainey said, will ask the committee to add to the Wagner bill some of the provisions of the Speaker's $2,300,000,000 relief measure already passed by the House and now before the Senate.

VALUATION BUREAU FACES SUSPENSION

752 Employes Would Be Put Out of Jobs by Drastic Appropriation Cuts.

Appropriation of the Bureau of Valuation of the Interstate Commerce Commission has been cut so severely in a bill now pending in the Senate that if it passes it will mean the permanent discharge of approximately 752 employes and suspension of work of the bureau, it was learned yesterday by The Post.

The appropriation for the current year for the bureau is $3,554,368. As the appropriation for the forthcoming year the Budget Bureau recommended a 9 per cent cut, making $3,235,231. The House appropriations committee cut this further to $2,750,000, with the understanding, it is reported, that the recapture provision, under which railroads are obliged to place half of what they make in excess of 6 per cent in a contingent fund, administered by the I. C. C., would be repealed by the House.

The recapture clause was not repealed, the bill with the new 22 per cent cut was passed, and the Senate appropriations committee cut the appropriation still further to $750,000, a total cut from the present appropriation of 79 per cent.

752 Face Loss of Jobs.

It is because of this cut that 752 employes of the bureau will have to be permanently discharged, and the work of the bureau practically wrecked, if the bill passes, it was determined through investigation by The Post.

Established in 1913, through a bill sponsored by Senator La Follette, the Bureau of Valuation of the I. C. C. is regarded as having been, and of still being, of inestimable value to the I. C. C. in the determination of the value of railroads, including a detailed inventory of the value of property of the railroads. The widespread impression that the figures of the bureau are obsolete is refuted by records showing that the commission has a record of changes in units of property since the primary valuation dates.

The commission is now, for the first time in its history, in a position to determine current values of railroads properties as a whole, and by rate groups, as required for its regulatory functions, it was learned. The precipitous decline in price levels of all commodities makes it necessary that valuation should be kept current for purposes of proper regulation, it is stressed by those familiar with the situation.

Keynote of Regulation.

If the cut is applied, the commission will be disarmed and impeded in its proper activities, it is contended. It has been unanimously declared by the commission that valuation is the keynote of regulation.

Under the recapture provisions of the act to regulate commerce, which have not been repealed, more than $360,000,000 is said to be due the Government from the railroads. About 44 per cent of this—$158,750,000—is due from roads owned by the Steel Corporation, together with the coal carriers of the Pocahontas district, it was learned.

Interest on these debts will take effect as soon as the cases are heard and orders stating exact amounts are issued.

Curtis' Statement Attacks New Jersey Police Tactics

Asserts British Press Is Justified in Criticism Resulting From Suicide of Violet Sharpe; Charges Prisoner Beating Common.

Flemington, N. J., June 14 (A.P.).—From his jail cell, John Hughes Curtis, charged with obstructing justice by perpetrating a hoax in the Lindbergh case, issued a statement today, commenting on the suicide of Violet Sharpe, maid in the Morrow home at Englewood.

It was handed out by his attorney, Lloyd Fisher, and contained a complaint that the attorney general had forbidden him to see members of the press. Earlier, he had asked that newspapermen not be admitted to interview him in jail.

"I really thought that even a hardened criminal secured justice in this great United States," the statement read, "whereas I am only charged with obstructing justice, which is only a misdemeanor, and I can not see any one but my own counsel.

"I am wondering what caused the attorney general to issue such instructions—I can surmise—namely, that he was afraid I was going to give my opinion on the suicide of the poor English housemaid at the Morrow home, or perhaps other things that I know.

"Personally I deeply sympathize with Miss Sharpe's family and think it perfectly justified in the English press in raising a howl. Beatings, as I noticed, are evidently a common practice with the New Jersey police in gaining their ends, and are not always necessary—lying promises often work just as well, especially when the poor simps like myself honestly believe them.

"In Miss Sharpe's case I note by the papers that she was always examined in the presence of the Morrows or the Lindberghs. That, however, does not jibe with other stories I read, especially I recall that they told her they were ready to take her to the Alpine Station for questioning.

"I wonder why they did not hold her like they did me from Thursday midnight to the following Thursday under guard, but not under arrest and do as they did to me, put guards at one time over me to keep, so they said, me from committing suicide. If they had done this she would have been alive today. But I suppose she thought death was more preferable than their continued questioning."

tunity," he said, "to examine witnesses and go over records if they desire. They have only to ask for what they want."

Beenham, Berkshire, England, June 14 (U.P.).—Violet Sharpe, who committed suicide while under suspicion in connection with the Lindbergh baby kidnaping, told some members of her family that she was married before she went to America, but her mother was ignorant of the fact.

"Violet told me she married a man named George Payne, in London, before she went to the United States," Wily Sharpe said tonight. "I do not know the man. I never saw him."

"I had no idea Violet was married," Mrs. Sharpe said.

Mamaroneck, N. Y., June 14 (A.P.).—C. W. Moody, after inspecting the ladder used to take Charles A. Lindbergh, jr., from his nursery window March 1, declared today it was not the one he says he has missed from his real estate development here since February.

New York, June 14 (A.P.).—Mrs. Dwight W. Morrow, accompanied by her son, Dwight, jr., and her youngest daughter, Miss Constance, took passage aboard the liner Europa, sailing at midnight tonight. In England, they will join Mrs. Morrow's eldest daughter, Miss Elizabeth, who arrived there last week.

Is Said to Have Admitted Beating Member of Lost Battalion.

Oakland, Calif., June 14 (A.P.).—Police said tonight Claude Forbes, 25, had confessed the probably fatal beating of Harry E. Nelson, deputy Alameda County assessor and a member of the famous "Lost Battalion" in the World War.

Forbes, arrested in Santa Cruz, allegedly eloped with Nelson's estranged wife, Bessie, May 30. Police said the motive was Forbes' desire to permit collection of $40,000 in Government insurance carried by Nelson.

Nelson, 46, was a infantry lieutenant in France. His skull was fractured as he lay in bed today.

Gale at Panama City Hits 60 Small Boats

Plant City, June 14 (A.P.).—A stiff gale swept out of the Pacific today and caused considerable damage along Panama City's waterfront, where some 60 small boats, including coastwise schooners and fishing smacks, were wrecked or damaged against the sea wall.

One schooner was picked up and flung across a ramp where it blocked beach traffic.

Associated Gas Expansion to $641,820,000 Bared at Senate Hearing.

(Associated Press.)

Growth of the Associated Gas & Electric Co. from a $1,200,000 concern in 1906 to one with assets of $641,820,000 and an income of $34,848,000 in 1929, was traced for the Federal Trade Commission yesterday by Examiner Charles Nodder. Mr. Nodder testified in hearings held in accordance with a Senate resolution for inquiry into affairs of utility companies.

In a chart accompanying his report, Mr. Nodder showed Associated Co. appreciations from 1916 to 1929, exclusive of "writeups" by its numerous subsidiary holding companies and trusts, totaling $50,207,875. Subtracting depreciations of $16,845,723, Mr. Nodder said the company's net appreciation totaled $33,362,152.

The witness described three "write-up" methods employed to give the ledger values. One was appraisal to market values. Another was adjustment of the value of investments to agree with "book values" or subsidiary books.

The third method described was that of transfer by a subsidiary company of "current net earnings" from its corporate surplus to its "stated capital for common stocks" account.

At the opening of the hearing S. Davis Wilson, Philadelphia attorney, describing himself as representing consumers, and Benjamin Foster, Florida Public Service Co. stockholder, appeared before the commission to protest management fees.

Contrary to general belief electric cookery is much faster. New developments in the construction of heating units assures you of immediate and clean heat always perfectly regulated. Over 1,000,000 users of electric cookery have found that no other cooking method is so clean—so cool—so economical—so safe—so satisfactory.

When you cook with "Matchless Service" you cook most inexpensively. The cooking rate for current is as little as 2c per K. W. H. and the average family's monthly bill is less than $3. Too, you cook most of the time on stored heat—with the current entirely cut off—and food shrinkage is so much less that substantial savings in purchases may be effected. "Matchless Service" as your kitchen servant works for lower wages than electrical servants in most any other city in the entire country.

In addition to cooking, the Modern Electric Kitchen includes an electric refrigerator, an electric dish washer, an electric water heater, an electric ventilating fan and an electric clock, all of which operate with economies comparable to that of the electric range. You should investigate this modern electric kitchen idea. Your favorite electrical shop has complete details.

THE ELECTRIC VENTILATING FAN
This unit of the modern electric kitchen eliminates all objectionable cooking odors. Modern home-makers are accepting this kitchen appliance because of its value in keeping the air in constant healthful circulation.

THE ELECTRIC CLOCK
An important adjunct to any kitchen is the electric clock. It saves perfect time and requires no attention whatever. It is so helpful in having meals always ready to serve at just the right hour and fills a definite need in the modern home-makers daily life.

THE ELECTRIC REFRIGERATOR
Electric refrigeration is a wise investment and a definite home necessity. The cost of operation is only about $1.00 per month. The electric refrigerator is quiet and most convenient and it has made possible many new recipes which home-makers have heretofore never been able to enjoy.

ARMS PARLEY PLANS SECRET DISCUSSIONS

Suspends Public Sessions in Hope Delegates May Find Some Agreement.

Geneva, June 14 (U.P.).—The disarmament conference decided today to suspend its public sessions indefinitely and permit private conversations among the delegates in an effort to solve the complex political problems hindering progress toward limitation of the world's war machines.

This significant decision by the conference steering committee was made after several developments which illustrated the difficulties the delegations are attempting to overcome. It also followed the arrival of Prime Minister J. Ramsay MacDonald, of Britain, and Premier Edouard Herriott, of France, who are expected to take the lead in the private negotiations to be conducted at Geneva and at the Lausanne Reparations Conference.

The developments included:

1. The American representatives, Hugh Wilson and Hugh Gibson, conferred with Herriott and submitted the United States plan for reduction of European land forces. The American "suggestion" listed reductions on the basis of an equilibrium between forces needed for police duty (using the peace treaties as a basis) and the troops needed to protect frontiers and colonies.

2. Germany, supported by Italy and Russia, requested abolition of all weapons prohibited to Germany under the Versailles treaty. Herriot said France was willing "to study" the proposal, but retained full reservations. The proposal was sidetracked.

3. Joseph Paul-Boncour, of France, proposed that the conference to appease public opinion should immediately adopt a report on gas and germ warfare. The committee failed to act.

4. The Soviet delegates demanded action on control of private manufacture of arms. Action was postponed.

All delegations agreed to cooperate in the private negotiations in an effort to resume open sessions of the conference at the earliest possible date.

Technically, the conference mechanism will be closed down until the delegations inform President Arthur Henderson they have reached an agreement on disarmament on the basis of abolition or internationalization of "aggressive" arms.

TELEGRAPHIC DISPATCHES

Philadelphia, June 14 (A.P.).—Dr. William W. Keen, eminent surgeon, who died last week at the age of 95, bequeathed to certain surgeons his brain and "such other parts of his body as they may deem proper," to promote the cause of science. His will was probated today.

St. Johnsbury, Vt., June 14 (A.P.). Calvin Coolidge, former President, today was awarded a diploma at the eighty-ninth commencement of St. Johnsbury Academy. The diploma, tied with green and white ribbons, the school colors, will be sent to Mr. Coolidge, who took a postgraduate course at the academy in the year 1890-91.

Jamestown, N. Dak., June 14 (A.P.). John W. Carr, 58, Lieutenant Governor of North Dakota since 1929, died at his home early today after more than a year of illness. He announced withdrawal from politics in March, on advice of physicians.

Gaffney, S. C., June 14 (A.P.).—A shaft marking the site of the Battle of Cowpens, turning point of the Revolutionary War in the Carolinas, was unveiled today at the spot, 12 miles from here, where patriots under Gen. Daniel Morgan routed the British commanded by Col. Banastre Tarleton.

San Francisco, June 14 (A.P.).—A slight earthquake was felt by residents here at 1:44 a. m., today and at San Jose, where the movement was reported quite pronounced.

New York, June 14 (A.P.).—A salary reduction of 5 per cent of employes and officials of the New York Central Railroad Co. will be put in effect on July 1, it was announced today. The reduction will not affect brotherhood workmen. The cut follows a previous reduction ranging from 10 to 20 per cent.

(Associated Press.)

A patent was awarded yesterday to Thomas A. Edison, the second since his death, in October, 1931. It covered a complex method of molding rubber articles. Edison applied for the patent three years before he died.

Atlanta, Ga., June 14 (A.P.).—Percy Jay Fuller, former New York broker, was arrested today on an old warrant charging perjury as he left the Federal penitentiary here upon completion of a sentence for using the mails to defraud. Gov. Richard B. Russell, jr., set bond at $2,000 pending arrival of extradition papers. Fuller made the bond.

Rye, N. Y., June 14 (A.P.).—Speaking before the convention of the New York State Bankers Association here today, Henry I. Harriman, president of the United States Chamber of Commerce, urged amendment of the Volstead act and the antitrust laws as means of relieving business conditions.

Mr. Harriman also recommended delegation to the President of the power to suspend existing laws when Congress is not in session and to veto individual items in appropriation bills.

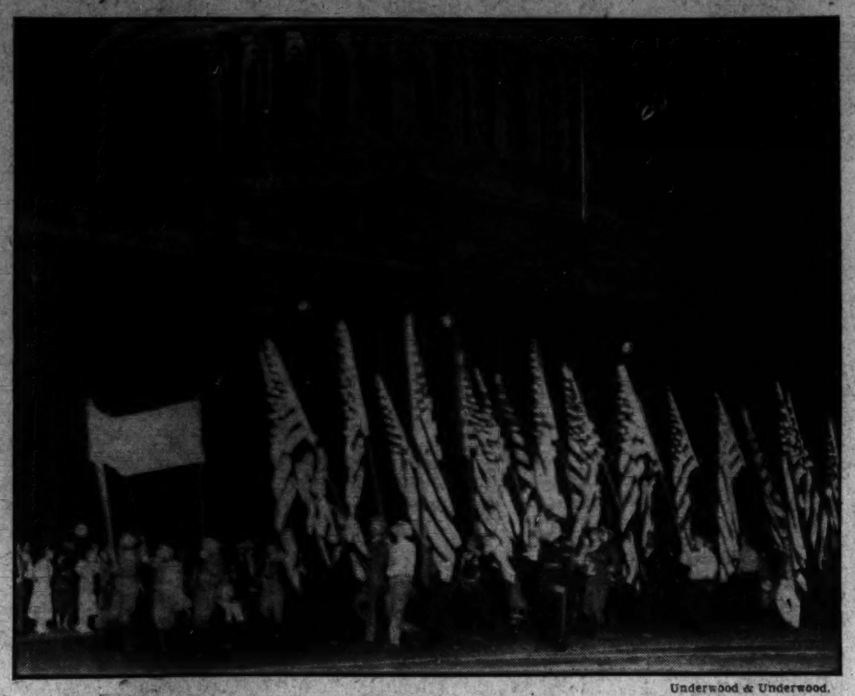

Frankfort, Ky., June 14 (A.P.).—Assistant Attorney General Gardner K. Byers ruled today in an opinion given the State highway commission that "all checks issued by the State treasurer are not subject to Federal taxation." Attorney General B. P. Wootton affirmed the ruling. The auditor of the highway commission requests an opinion on whether the act passed recently by Congress imposing a tax of 2 cents on each check issued applied to checks issued by the commission.

Pittsburgh, June 14 (A.P.).—Plans for a conference of business and civic to discuss welfare problems were announced today by officials of the Pittsburgh Welfare Fund.

Leaders of Eastern and Central States

The discussions at a one-day meeting next Monday will deal with welfare work dependent on voluntary contributions. The meeting is one of five to be held throughout the country, and national leaders will meet in Washington in the fall as a preliminary to launching community campaigns for funds.

100,000 APPLAUD PARADE

Underwood & Underwood.

members of the United States and District Bicentennial Commissions and other officials. President Hoover was unable to be present, due to the great burden of Government work demanding his attention.

Beauty was added to the scene on the Capitol plaza by a tableau on the Capitol steps by color guards of the Army, Navy and Marine Corps, assisted by Girl Reserves of the Young Women's Christian Association, and the Girls' Friendly Society of the Diocese of Washington.

One group in red stood on the west wing, another, in white, on the center and a third, in blue, on the East wing.

Inspector Ernest W. Brown, of the Police Department, reported his estimate of 5,753 participants in the parade, and the spectators, 100,000. He said the parade was the most orderly and colorful he had seen in Washington in many years.

Of the 5,753 participants, Inspector Brown estimated that 5,151 were on foot, while 602 rode in 121 vehicles.

The parade took two hours to pass the reviewing stand. Made up of five divisions, it included 150 units, numerous floats and 25 bands.

All America and her possessions were represented—cities, States, farms, pioneers, Indians, the West, New Mexico and the colored people. The Philippines brought a huge statue of Washington on horseback from their Islands. The Swiss, who are proud of their countrymen who have become great Americans, were identified by a float representing an Alpine scene.

Germans of the District composed a large delegation, and no better proof of the old saying that time heals everything was given when they paraded by, to the crowd's approbation.

Apex of Celebration.

This tribute to the flag represented the apex of the Bicentennial Celebration in Washington. No parade held this year has been more dazzling or had greater glamour. For those in front of the Capitol, there was no cessation of music, because the Marine Band crashed into a march whenever a band in the parade was not passing. It was this band that evoked prolonged applause from the spectators when the bonus marchers appeared.

Floats were particularly elaborate. One pictured Washington crossing the Delaware, one, the Capitol, another, a portion of the porch of the White House, with Washington, Uncle Sam and Abraham Lincoln seated beneath. This latter float was the work of the Grand Army of the Republic, the Capitol in miniature, that of the General Federation of Women's Clubs, and Washington Crossing the Delaware, the entry of the Association of Oldest Inhabitants of the District.

A replica of the great seal of California, with a grizzly bear, Goddess of Liberty, and the coats of arms of four sovereignties, Spain, Mexico, the California Republic and the United States was California's contribution.

Montana Locomotive Float.

Montana was represented by a float, representing the first transcontinental locomotive, and a marching unit of men and women, led by an Indian and a pioneer. The seven Ohio Presidents were shown in the Ohio exhibit. The Virginia Presidents rode in a float entered by the Virginia Society, while another float carried Virginia girls, followed by a military band.

A picture that ripped back the pages of history was a covered wagon, with escort on horseback and pioneers carrying lanterns, the contribution of Minnesota. Louisiana depicted Evangeline, followed by two groups of girls in costume, colonial and modern.

Gov. Albert C. Ritchie and a number of prominent Maryland citizens rode in a decorated automobile, followed by 25 decorated cars, representing the 23 counties of the State of Maryland. Massachusetts depicted the Minute Men at Lexington and Concord, and a rider on horseback represented Paul Revere. Mississippi offered a picture of plantation life in that State.

Bale of Cotton Is Throne.

Miss Alabama was seen seated upon a bale of cotton, flanked by other girls carrying flags and banners, the ensemble headed by the United States flag and the flag of Alabama. The flags carried by the girls were those of Spain, France, Britain and two Confederate flags, the different emblems under which this State has been governed.

The Nation's military forces were well represented by detachments of Marines, Bluejackets, Coast Guard, the Third Battalion of the Twelfth Infantry and the Second Squadron of the Third Cavalry, headed by Brig. Gen. P. L. Miles, marshal of the parade and his staff.

Boy Scouts of the District and high school cadets made up an important part of the line of march. School children, dressed in white and carrying American flags, presented an impressive reminder that all should rest well with the future of the Nation and its flag.

Many delegations came long distances to pay their homage to "Old Glory." The Slovak Catholic Sokol, for instance, came all the way from Philadelphia. Other delegations came from nearby States.

Many Bands Entered.

Among the many bands one that brought admiration was the Washington Gas Light Co. Band, composed of 63 employes of that company. They have practiced twice weekly on their own time for two years under direction of Prof. Otto Siebenichen.

Other bands included: the Army and Navy, the newly organized Overseas Military Band; the Victory Post Drum Corps; the Fox Theater; Washington high school cadet corps; Community Center Colored; Y. M. C. A. Boys, National Training School, Wheeler Club, boys, Altoona, Pa.; junior, Virginia State of Lynchburg, Va.

Washington D. C. Lodge, No. 15, B. P. O. E.; Boys Independent; Morning Star Lodge, No. 40, B. P. O. E.; Americanization School; Polish National Alliance, Philadelphia Turngemeinde; Coast Artillery, from Lynchburg and Langley High School Band, of Pittsburgh.

Panama Legion Aids Bonus Army.

Panama City, June 14 (A.P.).—American Legion Post, No. 1, of Panama, voted today to cable $100 to Washington to purchase food for the "bonus army." The post explained its action was philanthropic and not political.

40 RECEIVE AWARDS AT G. W. EXERCISES

Class Day Rites Are Held; Diplomas to Be Presented to 649 Tonight.

Forty awards for excellence and achievement both in scholastic endeavor and extra-curricular activity were made last night at the class day exercises of George Washington University in Corcoran Hall.

The John Bell Larner medal, established by the late chairman of the university's board of trustees, for award to the law senior, who has maintained the highest average in the entire course, went to Lieut. Jesse Rink Wallace, U. S. N.

The Delta Tau Delta and the Pi Beta Phi medals, awarded to the man and woman, respectively, who have done the most constructive work in student activities were awarded to Theodore Rinehart and Mildred Burnham.

The class history was given by Florence Marks and the class prophecy by Miriam Moss. Awards and prizes were presented by President Cloyd Heck Marvin.

649 to Get Degrees.

Six hundred and forty-nine students will be graduated tonight at the 111th annual commencement of the university. The graduating class is the largest in the history of the institution. Every State in the Union, excepting Arkansas and Wyoming is represented, and there are eleven graduates from foreign countries.

The commencement exercises will take place at 8 o'clock in Constitution Hall. Announcement is made by the university that no reserved seats will be held after 8 o'clock.

Dr. Frederick Gay, head of the department of bacteriology in Columbia University, will deliver the commencement address on "Science in Medical Education."

Three Honorary Degrees.

Three outstanding figures in the field of scientific medicine will be accorded academic honors. The honorary degree of doctor of science will be conferred on Dr. Gay; Dr. George Canby Robinson, dean of the New York Cornell Medical Center, and Dr. Allen Mason Cheaney, dean of John Hopkins University School of Medicine.

The list of class night awards follows:

Child Blames Two Years of Punishment on His Stepmother's Hate.

Powhatan, Ohio, June 14 (A.P.).—Sheriff Howard Duff today arrested Oscar Feist, 42, when he found the man's son, Paul, 12, chained to a bed in the Feist home.

The boy's neck bore deep bruises where the chain had been locked for two days. He was compelled to lie flat in bed, so tightly was he chained.

The child told officers he had been chained at intervals for two years because his stepmother "doesn't like me." With terror in his eyes, the boy begged the sheriff not to send him back home.

CAPITAL ATTORNEY TRIED AS PERJURER

Promotion of Immigration Racket Is Charged to Harold Van Riper.

New York, June 14 (A.P.).—Harold Van Riper, Washington, D. C., attorney, with a branch office at 1 Broadway, New York, was brought to trial today before Federal Judge John C. Knox and a jury under a seventeen-count indictment charging subornation of perjury, conspiracy, and the aiding and abetting of aliens in procuring and filing fraudulent papers as a means of getting naturalization certificates to which they were not entitled.

After the case was called, Charles Ellis, former clerk in the Naturalization Bureau at the barge office and at Ellis Island, and Leo I. Levine, former clerk at Ellis Island, pleaded guilty to the indictment in which they also were named defendants. Judge Knox postponed sentence until after the close of Van Riper's trial.

Letter Offering $50,000 For Killing Duce Bared

Rome, June 14 (A.P.).—At the trial of Domenico Bovone, charged with instigating a bombing plot against Premier Mussolini, a letter was introduced in evidence today offering 850,000 for the premier's death. The life of the crown prince was valued at only $5,000, and a few hundred dollars each was offered for the assassination of members of the Grand Council. The letter described the premier as "the big dog."

Bovone was implicated by Angelo Boardellotto, who was arrested on June 6 and confessed that he had intended to toss a bomb at the premier during a ceremony in honor of Garibaldi.

Two Congress Members To Fight for Same Seat

Boston, June 14 (A.P.).—A contest between Representative Robert Luce, of Waltham, and Frederick W. Dallinger, of Cambridge, for the seat of the new Ninth District seemed a certainty today when Dallinger took out nomination papers at the Statehouse. Luce recently took out his.

Both are Republicans and dry. Dallinger represents the Eighth Congressional District, while Luce represents the Thirteenth. The districts were combined under the last congressional reapportionment.

THE LIQUOR PLANK.

The tumult and shouting at Chicago over the liquor question is proof that the Republicans in national convention assembled are exercising the right of citizens to be as wet, moderate, or dry as they please. Evidently the convention will make its own platform, and not merely ratify one prepared beforehand in Washington. This is the proper course to pursue. The party as a whole is the only authority that can bind its members. President Hoover has refused to write the Republican platform or suggest a draft for any of its planks.

Inasmuch as the liquor question is not a party question, it does not seem probable that the Republican convention will adopt a plank which would turn the party into a wet or dry organization. It is neither the one nor the other. Nothing could be more foolish than to make the liquor controversy the one issue upon which the Republican party would stand or fall.

That a plank relating to the question of liquor will be adopted is a foregone conclusion. The party must recognize the fact that the people are dissatisfied with existing conditions under the eighteenth amendment. But the recognition of this dissatisfaction, and of the people's right to amend or abolish any part of the Constitution, does not require any political party at this juncture to commit itself irrevocably to any new plan. Common sense commands a man to consider what should be substituted for an unsatisfactory building, before tearing down what has been laboriously constructed.

The mere repeal of the eighteenth amendment would not make conditions better than they are now. Something must be substituted, if the people should decide to do away with prohibition. What is the substitute? The Republican national convention does not know. It does not know what the country wants, and the country itself does not yet know what it wants. Impatient wets cry, "We want repeal," but that cry does not constitute a program for the solution of the liquor problem. Nor does the cry of the drys, "We oppose repeal," constitute a solution. Both sides forget that the liquor problem will remain, whether the eighteenth amendment be retained or repealed.

Much breath is wasted as to the right of the people to pass judgment upon the eighteenth amendment. They do not obtain this right by virtue of any party declaration. They possess it already. What the Republican and Democratic platforms may say on the liquor question will neither enlarge nor diminish the right of the people to shape the Constitution as they please.

STUDENT ACTIVITIES.

European visitors are surprised to find the apathy and absence of participation in political matters that exists in American colleges. It appears incredible to them that in a republic like the United States there should not be political debating societies and keen interest in governmental affairs. They do not understand the general disrepute that has come to be attached to the word "politician," nor why more young men, particularly those whose circumstances permit, do not begin during their scholastic years to fit themselves for political careers.

Present day politics does present a few notable examples of men of means and position who are dedicating their services unselfishly to public affairs. They are not numerous, and it must be admitted that unjustifiable attack and paltry reward for duty conscientiously performed serve as deterrents. American political life might well be elevated to a higher plane and both campaigns and legislative debate conducted on a level that would attract more good men and better minds.

However, the absence of political activity among students here is preferable to the violent outbursts and sorry attempts at leadership displayed recently in Latin America. Marching protests by student bodies have long been familiar sights in the southern republics, but such violent revolutionary tactics as were displayed last year in Chile transcend all propriety. In Santiago last year the students were instrumental in effecting a change of administration. The new government has already been overturned, and the students are now demanding official representation in the socialistic cabinet of its successor.

The demonstrations of Chinese students in Nanking a few months ago were rather pitiable. They converged upon the capital by thousands, commandeering trains, forcing free rides, and lying on the tracks to prevent movement of trains that would not transport them. They paraded before the government buildings denouncing the Japanese, and searching shops for Japanese goods. They demanded in one mass meeting of 5,000 that the Japanese be expelled from Manchuria. When they were offered military training, equipment and transportation to help in such a patriotic effort, only 40 volunteered. The alibi was that it was their duty to arouse the people, and that the army should do the fighting.

American students may be lacking in interest in political matters, but there has never been any want of patriotic fervor among young men when it came to fighting for the country. Difficulty has been experienced in every war in preventing immature youths from entering the service. Any invasion of the nation would witness unanimous desire on the part of college students to fight for the preservation of the fatherland. It is evident that some of the same patriotic spirit might well be directed toward preparation for intelligent political activity in times of peace; not with the idea of student parades and demands for changes of government, but in order to learn how to assist in the selection of competent officials, and to develop potential leaders who themselves would later be called upon to guide the nation.

HOOVER IS THE ISSUE.

By common consent the record of President Hoover in dealing with the depression becomes the keynote of the Republican campaign. The two major parties will clash on other points, but it is on this fulcrum of economic leadership in these perilous times that the election will doubtless turn. In delivering the keynote address at the Republican National Convention Senator Dickinson made articulate the thoughts which are in the minds of every Republican crusader.

When President Hoover's biography covering the last three years is written it will be almost a complete history of the struggles of the United States against the depression. Virtually every movement that has been launched to arrest deflation and turn the tide toward prosperity has been inspired or directed by the White House. Leadership has been left almost exclusively in the hands of the President. Aside from the power of his office, he has been recognized as possessing special qualifications for dealing with the grave problems of national rehabilitation.

Throughout his term President Hoover has pushed aside nostrums, doles, bonuses, inflation, bond issues and all other panaceas. He has held fast to sound economic and financial measures, insisting on economy, a balanced budget and relief through established local sources. It is extremely difficult to assail such a record without favoring the quack remedies which the President has opposed. Even his opponents favor the sound measures which he has employed to combat the depression. The election will probably turn upon the effectiveness of the Republican campaign in making the achievements of Herbert Hoover known to the electorate.

WRECKERS KNOCKED OUT.

As the present session of Congress draws to a close the absence of any spectacular fights in that body is notable. During recent years the public has become accustomed to a good deal of turmoil in the Senate. But the present session has been remarkably free from bitter controversies, revolts and inflamed oratory.

The outstanding reason for the better behavior of the Senate this year is the disappearance of the Democratic-insurgent coalition. Two years ago that group ran riot, and even last year it turned the Senate into a bedlam on several occasions. What has happened to the coalition? Instead of gathering strength through the addition of Democratic senators to the upper chamber in the elections of 1930, as was expected in many quarters, the coalition has been impotent. The result has been to change the entire temperament of the Senate.

Two years ago the Democratic-insurgent coalition set out to bedevil the administration. Led by disgruntled Republican senators, the coalition took control of the Senate and frustrated several important pieces of legislation sponsored by the White House. At the same time it forced through several pieces of legislation, such as the Norris Muscle Shoals bill, for which a veto was the only possible remedy. If the same coalition had been functioning this year it could have defeated every movement of the administration, with the aid of the Democratic House. Yet virtually all of President Hoover's program has been written into law, and the Senate has been the chief agency in accomplishing that purpose.

It is difficult to analyze what took place to change the temperament of the Senate, but one of the chief influences seems to have been a sense of responsibility for the national welfare. Democratic members of the Senate who were once willing to join the insurgents in thwarting White House plans are now inclined to support any sound measure that promises to aid the country through the depression. Consequently, a new sort of coalition has developed. Republican and Democratic regulars stood shoulder to shoulder in the tax bill fight and successfully defeated the radicals of both parties.

As a result the insurgents have been a negligible factor in the present session. They are a small minority without sufficient strength to block anything or to put over any of their own plans. The radicals made a determined fight for the La Follette dole bill and failed. The regulars of both parties enacted the tax bill, the economy bill, the credit expansion measure and the Reconstruction Finance Corporation. Only once did the old Democratic-insurgent coalition function, and that was in the adoption of the Democratic tariff bill, which was put forward merely for political purposes.

No doubt the Senate has felt its responsibility keenly because of the frequent revolts in the House. On the fundamental issues there has been more harmony between the Republicans and Democrats of the Senate than between the Democrats of the Senate and House. Much of the credit for what has been accomplished at this session should go to the regular leaders on both sides of the Senate, who have placed national welfare above partisanship. The knockout of the old Democratic-insurgent coalition of wreckers is in itself no mean accomplishment.

POLAR STUDY YEAR.

An international polar year has been arranged for 1932-33 during which period the leading nations of the world jointly will make an extensive study of the Arctic. Sweden has undertaken the preliminary arrangements at the expedition's headquarters, the Svea coal mines at Spitzbergen, and two other strategic points where auxiliary stations have been established. The Swedish group, headed by F. Lindholm, government meteorologist, includes a number of the country's most eminent scientists.

Cooperating expeditions from the United States, Norway, Denmark, Finland, Russia, Poland, France, Austria, Canada and Japan during June will spread out in a circle about the North Pole. They will remain for twelve months. There will be radio communication between the three auxiliary stations which have been well stocked with reserve supplies, portable cabins, fast dog teams and all facilities for rendering aid to the various scattered groups engaged in taking observations.

Fifty years ago a similar polar year was arranged. Eleven nations participated. The United States sent two expeditions. The Swedish government placed two gunboats at the disposal of its own group. The 1882-83 expedition is remembered especially for the work of the scientist, S. A. Andree. This intrepid man again started for the North Pole in 1897 in a balloon and was lost to the world. It was not until 1930 that his fate was definitely known. He had perished in a little hut on White Island.

The cause of his death and that of his companion was finally figured out. They had eaten a good supper and had not suffered from exposure. They were in their warm sleeping bags when found dead. Their fate was that of not a few explorers. They had gone to bed with a large lamp burning in their tiny shelter. During the night a snowstorm covered the cabin, effectually sealing it from the outer air, and the breathing of the men and the burning lamp exhausted the oxygen. They died in their sleep, and their bodies remained undisturbed until two years ago. Better equipment in every way will prevent such tragedies in the present expeditions. Their observations are expected to provide invaluable data.

An evangelist says that the depression has not yet reached heaven. It went pretty far, however, in the other direction.

Many members of Congress will not find any fences to mend or straddle when they return home.

To correct unemployment the banks might hire some yes-men.

MIGRANT AMERICANS

From the Philadelphia Public Ledger.

The restlessness of America has often been commented on. The American urge to go, to move, to travel somewhere else, is traditional. That restlessness was behind the sweeping colonization which extended the Nation from the Atlantic to the Pacific. It filled the Ohio River with flatboats, dotted the prairies with clearings, peopled the mountains with trappers and sent an endless train of covered wagons out the Oregon Trail. But great as those mass migrations were, the days of '49 did not see the end of that restlessness which makes Americans pack up and move on, if only to see what lies beyond the next ridge. The movement is still on.

In the census of 1850 it was shown that one out of every five native-born Americans had moved from his native State. The census of 1930, according to a recent analysis, shows approximately the same thing. Every census between those two has shown the same trend, in the same general proportions. The only difference worth noting is that the total number of migrants has grown. In 1930 it was about 25,000,000.

Half of this migration is not as important as it seems at first glance. More than 12,000,000 of those who moved from their birthplace into another State merely moved over State lines. They were born near the border. They moved across and settled. But that still leaves more than 12,000,000 who really yielded to the lure of far horizons.

Of those 12,000,000, nearly half belong to that westward movement which has been going on for 200 years. Once the dividing line was the Alleghenies; now it is the Mississippi River. And today finds 5,145,922 persons born east of that river who are living west of it. Since the turn of the century there has been a return wave, but the eastward movement has been only about one-fourth as strong as that toward the setting sun.

Twenty States showed gains in American-born population native to other States during the decade, California heading the list with 2,401,288. In the same ten years Pennsylvania lost 750,569 natives to other States, the largest number of any State, but well down the list in the matter of percentage. Despite this loss, Pennsylvania gained nearly 1,000,000 in total population during the decade, ample proof that the currents of migration flow in all directions.

"The Thinker."

POST HASTE.

Slightly paraphrased it might be said that the people can not stand a House divided against itself.

After a week as provisional president Carlos Davila "accepts a European mission." Chile will never make a good Soviet government with such mollycoddle methods.

Chicago talk about Coolidge for Vice President and Al Smith heading a third party if Democrats do not advocate straight repeal came before the delegates got into the air-cooled convention hall.

A House page announces his candidacy for President in 1972. He will probably be running against Dr. France.

The bonus bill will be out of the way and Speaker Garner is expected back on the rostrum by Friday, unless prohibition complications should develop in the House.

The White House physician, Dr. Boone, says the President thrives on ceaseless effort. He is a "physical rarity," but his work is well done.

Col. Marmaduke Grove, power behind the Chilean overthrown, evidently not more than half native, naturally out-tabasco the pure chile peppers themselves.

The wiseacres of the world do some awfully smart things, but they don't know what electricity is, where oil deposits come from, and can't cure a cold.

No wonder the shade of Andrew Jackson is restless over the prospect of a kid-gloved gentleman heading off alike the boys from the sidewalks of New York and the Texas farm.

The Senate is considerably worried over the rumor that Harry Hawes will have Missouri secede if the Philippine independence bill is allowed to die.

The absence of insurgents at the Republican convention in Chicago is additional evidence that their affections have been transferred to the Democrats, with whom they have worked so harmoniously in the House.

"Mayor Walker plans to secure postponement of decision on his removal until after Democratic convention." Who says he is not the governor's friend? PAUL HUDSON.

JUST FOLKS

By EDGAR A. GUEST

THE TEMPTRESS.

As I went walking down the way I met a pretty miss,
Who boldly looked at me and said "A lovely day is this!"
Her hair was of a golden brown, her eyes a sparkling blue.
I proudly doffed my hat to her and answered, "Howdy-do!"

She placed her graceful hand in mine and turned to go my way.
Said I: "I have no time to flirt; I've work to do today.
I think you'd better run back home." With sadness dropped her chin.
"We'll pass the drug store soon," said she. "I thought you'd take me in."

"Oh, no," said I, "that wouldn't do. The hour is growing late
And I am on my way to town to keep a business date.
Besides, to make it very plain, no time for girls have I!"
At such a cold rebuff from me the maid began to cry.

Now, though I've been a married man for six and twenty years,
I haven't learned in all that time to cope with woman's tears.
And so I let that temptress fair, who's scarcely seven years old,

You Can't Judge an Ignorant Pup by Rules That Condemn a Vicious Dog.

By ROBERT QUILLEN

TWO martyrs in olden days looked with compassion on their executioners and prayed: "Father forgive them; they know not what they do."

Twenty centuries have passed and the world has become more decent, but still the victims of man's justice are victims of ignorance.

There has been some progress. Law and common sense concede that violators of the law may not be equally responsible. The lunatic no longer is hanged for murder.

But mankind is not divided into two distinct classes, the one normally intelligent and the other imbecile. There are as many degrees of intelligence as there are violators of the law.

If, then, one criminal deserves the maximum punishment because his mind is normal, and another should escape punishment because he is an irresponsible idiot, how can it be just to inflict the same punishment on all sane offenders when no two of them possess the same degree of intelligence or moral responsibility?

A few years ago an ignorant youth from a mountain district was sent to Federal prison because he had attempted to draw a postage stamp on an envelope. It was a crude drawing and apparently not intended to deceive. The youth evidently believed that anything remotely resembling a stamp would meet postal requirements. Sending him to prison was about as sensible and just as it would be to hang a 2-year-old child.

Of course the law can't adjust itself to the mentality of every offender. But it can avoid injustice by defining the crime and leaving the rest to those who administer justice.

The courts can do much since the adoption of the indeterminate sentence, but they can not do enough. What judge has the time or the skill to investigate each offender's degree of culpability and determine the treatment necessary for his redemption?

Psychiatrists at Sing Sing find that only one-fourth of the criminals sent to that institution have normal minds. Is it reasonable to punish a child of six and a man of thirty in the same way?

The "punishment" should match the offender, not the offense, for one man can be trusted to offend no more and another can never be trusted.

(Copyright, 1932.)

PRO AND CON

Wisdom at Chicago.

Boston Transcript.

The amount of human intelligence that will be concentrated at Chicago during the period of the two great national conventions will clearly be enormous. The convention delegates themselves will supposedly represent the deliberate choice by the parties of their keenest men and women. At least the theory is that they are the most sagacious among both the rulers of the country and the opposition to the rulers. And outside the delegations to the conventions there will be a host of voluntary advisers of high mental quality.

Taking the situation all together, the country has a right to expect a wise personal choice and sagacious political conclusions. If such conclusions are not reached by the conventions, it will not be for want of intelligence on the part of the delegates and their interested watchers. If unwise, rash, shallow or timorous counsels prevail, it will not be because the assemblies lack intelligence or even patriotism; it will be because they are not obeying their consciences and their brains, but instead are merely guessing at the minds and desires of the voting bodies in the States. It is not so much the parties themselves that are on trial as the democratic principle.

Engineers All.

Los Angeles Times.

The new President of France was a mining engineer before he entered politics. He must have gotten the idea from President Hoover. But George Washington started it as civil engineer.

Courting Disaster.

St. Louis Post-Dispatch.

If we are to abandon entirely the principle that the country should provide only for the real casualties of war, and open the public treasury to every man who served, we are courting national disaster. Some 4,000,000 men served in the war, and these, with their dependents, form, say, 20,000,000 of our population. In the end, will five-sixths of the people be called upon to support one-sixth? That, certainly, is the way we are headed, with Congress playing the coward's part whenever the subject of pensions arises.

No Use.

Topeka Capital.

Like the famous men of the King of France, the bonus marchers on Washington marched up the hill, and sooner or later will march down again. This Nation has never yet legislated by the Gen. Coxey route.

Buying Votes With Pork.

Belle Plaine (Minn.) Herald.

Most of the criticism directed against congressmen now in office is that they sacrificed the public welfare in order to buy for themselves the votes of organized minorities and special groups by soaking the taxpayers for the funds to make the vote purchase, yet a considerable portion of the new candidates for Congress are offering the same kind of trade for votes. If a candidate offers his own money for votes, it is called bribery, yet paying for his own votes would be a fairer thing to do than to enact laws compelling the public to pay for those votes.

And Nobody's to Blame.

Buffalo News.

A free country is one where the many let the few run things and then howl about the way they are run.

Vision of Progress.

Cincinnati Enquirer.

True faith and confidence are not shaken by existing clouds of depression—not the faith and confidence of the English-speaking peoples. Ambassador Mellon does well to proclaim his healthy optimism—it is the battle song of America. He might have gone farther and have said that included in this vision of optimism is a greater and freer America—one liberated from the hateful bonds of prejudice and intolerance, those twin devils which have retarded the progress upward of man, both materially and spiritually, throughout all the years of history.

Circus Stars.

Boston Herald.

The classic candidate who remained on the fence with his ear to the ground was, it seems to us, no better acrobat than the ones we have now who can toss their hats in a ring and then talk through them.

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR.

Patent Law Protects Plant Discoverers and Developers—America Leads the World in New Legislation.

To the Editor of The Post—Sir: The United States of America is the first Government to make provision under its patent system for the protection of plant discoverers and plant developers. Under the recent plant patent act letters patent may be issued for new varieties of plants which have been asexually reproduced.

The object of this law is to afford plant producers, so far as practicable, the same opportunity to participate in the benefits of the patent system as has been given industry and thus assist in placing the art of plant reproduction on a basis of economic equality with industry. The law attempts to remove discrimination between plant developers and industrial inventors.

The law provides that any person who invents or discovers a new and distinct variety of plant may be given by patent an exclusive right to propagate that plant by asexual reproduction; that is by grafting, budding, cutting, layering, division and the like. The law provides an incentive to encourage the introduction of new plants. In the past when a new variety of plant left the hands of the breeder it might have been reproduced in unlimited quantity by all. The originator's only hope of financial reimbursement was through high prices for the comparatively few reproductions that he was able to dispose of during the first two or three years. After that time, depending upon the speed with which the plant might be reproduced, the breeder lost all control of his discovery.

Under the new law the originator will have control of his discovery during a period of seventeen years, the same length of time as under industrial patents. If the new variety is successful, the breeder or discoverer can expect an adequate financial reward. It is calculated that the new law will afford a sound basis for investing capital in plant breeding and consequently stimulate plant development through private funds. It is apparent that the same opportunities will present themselves to the plant discoverer for making money by using plant patent protection as has been the case with chemical and mechanical inventors. Plant patents may be transferred by sale or assignment.

ALFRED E. GLASCOCK.

Folks Back Home Partly to Blame for Plight of the Veterans.

To the Editor of The Post—Sir: In your editorial of June 14, "The Bonus Surrender," you say truly that the House vote for the $2,000,000,000 bonus "is a deliberate attempt to deceive the veterans."

The thought of a great number of voters in the elections next fall will be that of The Post when it says, in regard to the B. E. F. now invading Washington:

"The desperate plight of these stranded men is the most powerful reproof that can be administered to the demagogues in Congress who have encouraged them to come here."

You might also have called attention to the disgraceful attitude of "the folks back home."

The States represented by "the demagogues in Congress" should have a good share of the reproach for their failure to make some effort to relieve the suffering of the veterans in the first place. F. C. R.

Lord Macaulay's Pronouncement on Government and Business Recalled by Boston Reader.

To the Editor of The Post—Sir: More than a century has rolled by without diminishing the truth and wisdom of the subjoined utterance by Lord Macaulay as published by the Edinburgh Review in January, 1830, which is self-explanatory as applied to present-day confusion of business with politics:

"Our rulers will best promote the improvement of the people by strictly confining themselves to their own legitimate duties—by leaving capital to find its most lucrative course, commodities their fair price, industry and intelligence their natural reward, idleness and folly their natural punishment—by maintaining peace, by defending property, by diminishing the price of law, and by observing strict economy in every department of the state.

"Let the government do this—the people will assuredly do the rest."

W. T. SAMPSON.

Boston, Mass.

Writer Questions Whether States Stand Supreme for the Flag.

To the Editor of The Post—Sir: Your John J. Daly, in his inspiring Flag Day poem, "A Toast to the Flag," says "States stand supreme for it."

At least for the present, I think Mr. Daly should substitute something else for that line. Just now the States are not standing supreme for the flag, but are leaning up against the Federal flagpole. For instance, take the case of the bonus marchers, by whom the Nation's Capital is now being invaded and beleaguered.

What a spectacle! I can't see the States standing supreme, even in a poem, while they permit a large body of their hungry citizens to wander away from home and be fed by strangers. W. M. W.

Fine Tribute to John J. Daly's "Toast to the Flag."

To the Editor of The Post—Sir: It is quite a while since I have been as pleased by a new piece of verse as I was by John J. Daly's "A Toast to the Flag," in the Flag Day Washington Post. Its lilt carried me back in memory to the days when we used to recite poems with a full-toned patriotic ring to them from our old school readers. It recalls the warm-blooded Americanism of Holmes, Whittier, Lowell and Longfellow, and is in the class of New World literature which should be specialized in our public schools. W. T. K.

Mrs. Hoover Back in Capital After Trip to Massachusetts; Lady Lindsay to Sail Today for England.

MRS. HOOVER RETURNED to the White House yesterday from Medford, Mass., where she was awarded an honorary degree at Tufts College. She was accompanied by her secretary, Mrs. Frederick H. Butler.

The British Ambassador and Lady Lindsay went to New York yesterday, and the latter will sail today on the Olympic for England to spend the summer. The Ambassador will return to Washington the end of the week, to remain until he joins Lady Lindsay later in the season.

The Belgian Ambassador, M. Paul May, returned to Washington yesterday from New York, where he went to see Mme. May and his daughters sail for Belgium.

The Minister from the Irish Free State, Mr. Michael MacWhite, has gone to New York, where he will spend several days.

Mrs. Schall Entertains For Miss Doris Gasque.

Mrs. Thomas D. Schall, wife of the senator from Minnesota, entertained at luncheon yesterday at their home in Berwyn, Md., in honor of Miss Doris Gasque, daughter of Representative and Mrs. Allard H. Gasque, of Florence, S. C., whose marriage to Lieut. John A. Hollowell, U. S. N., will take place tomorrow at noon in the First Baptist Church. Mrs. Schall will be matron of honor for Miss Gasque.

The house was effectively decorated with pink roses from the gardens of Mrs. Schall's home. The guests remained during the afternoon, when a number of young men joined the company for dancing. The company at the luncheon included Mrs. Gasque, mother of the bride; Mrs. Haynes Lemmon, sister of the bride; Mrs. John J. McSwain, Mrs. James Dodson, Mrs. Hugh Bierman, sister of Mrs. Schall, who assisted her; Miss Priscilla Evans, Mrs. Eldon P. King, Mrs. Jack Marshall, Mrs. Laddson Mills, Miss Evelyn Howe and her house guest, Miss Mozelle Oglesbie; Miss Billie Carmichael, Miss Ruth Fuller, Miss Dorothy Dial, Miss Helen Chandler, Miss Mamie McCann, Miss Clyde Lee Gilbert, Miss Janey McSwain, Miss Isabel Smith, Miss Elizabeth Cooper, Miss Anne Kostka, of Annapolis, and Miss Anne Graham.

Miss Graham will entertain at a buffet supper this evening at the Shoreham following the rehearsal of the wedding.

Representative and Mrs. Gasque have as their house guests the latter's sister, Mrs. J. F. Dodson, who will sing at the wedding; Miss Helen Chandler, Miss Mamie McCann and Miss Clyde Lee Gilbert, all of Florence, S. C. Mrs. Dobson has visited in Washington several times, having given a program at the Congressional Club this winter.

Mrs. William L. Tierney, who with Representative Tierney, of Connecticut, has been at Wardman Park Hotel for the past season, has returned to their home in Greenwich, Conn., for the summer. Representative Tierney is at the Wardman Park for the remainder of his stay here.

M. Abdol Vahab Bader Is Honored at Supper.

The Charge d' Affaires of Persia and Mme. Azodi entertained at a buffet supper last evening for the retiring First Secretary of the Legation, M. Abdol Vahab Bader, who will go to New York today and sail tomorrow for France, where he will spend some time before going to Teheran for duty at the Ministry of Foreign Affairs.

The Chancellor of the Persian Legation, M. Taghi Pakmihad Khosh, received his doctors' degree in law Monday evening at the commencement exercises of the National University.

Senora Luis M. de Irujo, wife of the Counselor of the Spanish Embassy, is spending a few days in New York.

The Secretary of the Venezuelan Legation, Senor Dr. Don Pedro Rivero, entertained a few friends informally at dinner last evening on the Shoreham terrace in honor of his guests, Senor and Senora Domingo Maria Navarro, of Venezuela.

Mr. Andre Cattaui, attache of the Egyptian Legation, will be the honor guest of the Arts Club of Washington at dinner tomorrow evening, at the clubhouse, for which Mrs. John F. Gaynor and Mrs. George W. Johnston are hostesses. After dinner Mr. Cattaui will give an address on Egyptian art, followed by a symbolic Egyptian interpretation to be danced by Miss Elizabeth Dulin and Mr. Wallace W. Wright. Mme. Hanenfeldt, pianist, will be the accompanist.

Mrs. George W. Steele Leaves for West Coast.

Mrs. Steele, wife of Capt. George W. Steele, U. S. N., and her son, John DuPuy, who have been at the Sherry-Netherland in New York for some time, left yesterday for San Diego, Calif., to be near Capt. Steele, who will be in command of the U. S. S. Saratoga on the West Coast.

Mr. and Mrs. Adelbert A. Dampier, of 3611 Eighteenth street northeast, announce the engagement of their daughter, Catherine Elizabeth, to Mr. Oscar S. Smith, of Dayton, Ohio.

The wedding will take place July 2.

Lieut. Roger Barton Derby Marries Miss Polly Fulton.

The marriage of Miss Polly Fulton, daughter of Col. and Mrs. Walter Scott Fulton, to Lieut. Roger Barton Derby, U. S. A., son of Col. and Mrs. George McClellan Derby, of Princeton, N. J., took place yesterday afternoon at 5 o'clock in the Bethlehem Chapel of the Washington Cathedral, Canon G. Freeland Peter officiating.

The bride was given in marriage by her father and wore a Chanel model of ivory satin fashioned on princess lines with a long train draped from the waist. Her veil was of rose point lace, an heirloom in the Derby family. She carried a shower of gardenias.

The maid of honor was Miss Katherine Ober, of St. Paul, Minn., and wore a frock of pistachio green chiffon with a small tulle hat to match. She carried an arm bouquet of yellow snapdragons.

The bridesmaids were Miss Mary Myers, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. George Hewitt Myers; Miss Eleanor Van Schaack and Miss Elizabeth Mitchell, of Denver, Colo., and Miss Frances Davis, of New York. They wore frocks like that of the maid of honor, with beige tulle hats trimmed with pistachio ribbon, and carried tall staffs topped with maiden-hair fern. Mrs. Fulton, mother of the bride, wore a charming costume of tea-rose color chiffon with hat to match.

The best man was Lieut. Ellsworth Davis, a classmate at the Military Academy of the bridegroom, who was graduated last week, and the ushers were other classmates, Lieut. Andrew Hero 3d, Lieut. Richard Arnold, Lieut. Herbert Thatcher and Lieut. Sam Houston Wiseman.

Following the ceremony there was a reception in the home of the bride's parents for relatives and a few close friends, after which Lieut. and Mrs. Derby left for a wedding trip, the latter wearing a beige crepe ensemble trimmed with brown and a small brown hat. They will sail on June 25 to pass the summer in Chamounix, France. On their return Lieut. Derby will receive orders for station.

Among the out-of-town guests were Mrs. A. J. Davis, of New York, and Miss Elizabeth Derby, Col. and Mrs. George McC. Derby, of Princeton, N. J., sisters and parents of the bridegroom; Mr. Hasket Derby, of Princeton; Maj. and Mrs. Arthur Wilbourne, of Fredericksburg, Va.; Mrs. A. J. Davis, of New York; Mrs. Clark Mitchell and Miss Mary Newton, of Denver, Colo., and Mrs. J. B. Dennett, of Fort Bragg, N. C.

Mr. R. J. Phillips Weds Miss Margaret Pilson.

One of the most charming of the spring weddings took place yesterday afternoon at 4 o'clock in Warrenton, Va., when Miss Margaret Pilson, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Maurice Pilson, of Washington and Warrenton, became the bride of Mr. Robert J. Phillips, of the State Department, son of Mr. and Mrs. Charles A. Phillips, of Queens, Long Island.

The ceremony was performed at Leny Manor, the Warrenton, Va. home of Mrs. Lester Buchanan, by the Rev. Charles P. Herndon, of Warrenton.

The bride, who was given in marriage by her father, wore a gown of white lace fashioned over satin on princess lines with a fan-shaped train, long fitted sleeves and a square neck-line. Her tulle veil was simply draped and she carried a sheaf of calla lilies.

Miss Eleanor Pilson was maid of honor for her sister and she wore a frock of pale green chiffon with a tiny jacket of the same material with short cape sleeves. Her broad-brimmed hat was of rough green straw trimmed with a single pond lily, and she carried an arm bouquet of garden flowers.

The bridesmaids were Miss Edith Nesbit, of Warrenton, and Miss Mary Martha Wren, of Washington, who wore frocks like that of the maid of honor in peach-colored chiffon, and broad trimmed green hats. They also carried garden flowers.

Lieut. James S. Monahan, U. S. M. C., was best man, and the ushers were Maj. Gen. Blanton Winship, and Mr. Keith Merrill, chief of the foreign buildings office of the State Department.

A reception followed the ceremony. The house was decorated with a profusion of garden flowers, and the bride and bridegroom were assisted in receiving by the bride's parents and Mrs. Buchanan. Mrs. Pilson, mother of the bride, wore a white crepe gown with white hat. Mrs. Benjamin F. Pilson, grandmother of the bride, was very handsome in blue chiffon with blue hat, and Mrs. R. F. Guiler, aunt of the bride, wore a costume of chartreuse chiffon with hat to match.

Later Mr. and Mrs. Phillips left for a motor trip to Canada, the bride wearing a costume of brown and white silk tweed, with a close-fitting hat to match. They will be at home after July 1, at Wooodley Park Towers.

Mrs. U. S. Grant 3d has returned to Washington after passing several days in New York.

The former United States Naval Attache to London and Mrs. W. W. Galbraith will sail today on the Berengaria for England, where they will pass the summer.

The National Geographical Society has issued invitations for the ceremony of the presentation of its gold medal to Mrs. Amelia Earhart Putnam, first woman to accomplish a solo transatlantic flight. The ceremony will be held in Constitution Hall, at Eighteenth and D streets, Tuesday evening, June 21, at 8 o'clock.

President Hoover will make the presentation for the society, after which Mrs. Putnam will describe briefly her experience on that remarkable flight. Mrs. Putnam was decorated in Brussels yesterday by King Albert with the insignia of a Knight of the Order of Leopold in honor of her three-record transatlantic flight. The Royal Aero Club also presented the American aviatrix with a gold medal commemorating her achievement.

Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Meyer, of Wheeling, W. Va., have issued invitations for the marriage of their daughter, Louise Edna, to Mr. Elmer Bernard Young, of Washington, Monday, June 27, in the Hotel Windsor, at Wheeling. Mr. Young and his bride will make their home in the Westchester, in Washington.

Mr. Edgar Allan Poe to Wed Mrs. Francis S. McIlhenny.

Mrs. Francis S. McIlhenney, of Chestnut Hill, Philadelphia, and Mr. Edgar Allan Poe, of Baltimore, former attorney general of Maryland, and related to the poet, will be married on Monday, June 27, in St. Paul's Protestant Episcopal Church at Chestnut Hill, in the presence of the members of the two families. The Rev. Malcolm Endicott Peabody, the rector of the church, will perform the ceremony.

They will make their home at the house Mr. Poe has taken on the Caves Road, Baltimore. Mr. and Mrs Edgar Allan Poe, jr., will occupy the present home of Mr. Poe in the Green Spring Valley.

Mrs. McIlhenney is the widow of former State Senator Francis S. McIlhenney, who died in 1927. She was formerly Miss Marie Louise Hoopes, daughter of Mr. Clement B. Hoopes, of Elkins Park, W. Va.

Mr. Poe's wife died three years ago. He was one of the greatest football players ever developed at Princeton, having been captain of the eleven and quarterback in 1888, 1889, 1890 and 1891. He has a summer home at Jamestown, R. I.

Mr. and Mrs. H. E. Hale, of New York, are at the Carlton for a few days.

The marriage of Miss Elizabeth Henning, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Sears Henning, to Lieut. Nelson Landon Head, United States Army, will take place on the afternoon of August 10, at 4 o'clock, in the Bethlehem Chapel of the Washington Cathedral. A small reception will be held following the ceremony at the residence of the brid's parents. Miss Henning will have Mrs. Chester Flack, of Philadelphia, as matron of honor, and her group of bridesmaids will include Miss Jean Woodson, Miss Louise Turner and Miss Betty West. Miss Margot Bell, now in Paris, will also be in the wedding party if she returns to this country in time for the wedding.

Miss Henning will return to Washington today. After attending commencement exercises at the Military Academy at West Point, from which Lieut. Head was graduated last week, she has been visiting his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Ashby Snell Head, in Springfield, Mass. Mr. and Mrs. Head and Mrs. Henning also were at West Point for graduation.

Col. Stephen L'H Slocum will leave today aboard his privte car for his fishing camp on the Bonadventure River in Canada. He will be accompanied by Mr. Andrew Carnegie, Dr. James P. Mitchell and Dr. John Minor.

Grant-Harkness Nuptials Are Solemnized in Rye.

Miss Elizabeth Grant, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. James Pierce Grant, of Rye, N. Y., was married Monday afternoon to Mr. William Hale Harkness, son of Mrs. William L. Harkness, of New York and Cleveland, and the late Mr. Harkness. The wedding took place in Christ Church in Rye, the Rev. Dr. Samuel S. Drury, headmaster of St. Paul's School, Concord, N. H., officiating, assisted by the Rev. R. Townsend Henshaw, rector of Christ Church. The church was illuminated by candles and the floral decorations included Easter lilies, white daisies, ferns and palms. A reception, with dancing, was held in a marquee erected over the tennis court.

Mr. Grant gave his daughter in marriage. She wore a modified empire gown of ivory satin with fitted sleeves and a square neck line. The skirt was draped to form a train. Her tulle veil was held in place by a cap of old rose point lace and caught at the sides with tiny orange blossoms and she carried white orchids and valley lilies.

Mrs. David S. Ingalls, wife of the former Assistant Secretary of the Navy for Aviation and sister of the bridegroom, was matron of honor, and Miss Eleanor Grant, sister of the bride, was maid of honor. Other attendants were Mrs. Julian Carr Stanley, Mrs. Fergus Reid, jr., Mrs. Malcolm P. Aldrich, Mrs. Edward M. Greene, of La Salle, Ill., and Miss Mary Frances Wey, Miss Sally Weston, Miss Louise Bushnell and Miss Barbara Durston, of Syracuse. Miss Edith Jane and Miss Louise Ingalls, daughters of Mr. and Mrs. David S. Ingalls, were flower girls.

Mr. Fergus Reid, jr., was best man. Ushers were Messrs. David S. Ingalls, Julian Carr Stanley, Malcolm P. Aldrich, Jonathan F. Butler, Francis G. Wey, Fraser M. Horn, John A. Gifford, Samuel C. Hopkins, jr., Edward M. Greene, jr., Edwin V. Hale, David M. Gilmore, Alexander C. Neave, Staunton Williams, Charles P. Luckey, W. Rice Brewster, Albert S. Ingalls, jr., Barney H. York and William Chisholm.

Mr. and Mrs. Harkness will pass the summer on the continent and on their return will reside in New York. The bride attended Miss Porter's school and studied for a year at the Sorbonne in Paris. She is a member of the Junior League and the Apawamis Club.

Mr. Harkness was graduated from Yale in 1922 and three years later from Harvard Law School. He was with Murray, Aldrich & Webb until 1930. His clubs include the Racquet and Tennis, Creek, Hangar and University.

Mr. Harkness' father, who died in 1919, was one of the officers of the Standard Oil Co. The Harkness Building at Yale was given by the family as a memorial to the late Mr. Harkness, who was graduated from that university with the class of '81. Mr. Harkness is a grandson of the late Edwin B. Hale, who was a banker of Cleveland.

Admiral and Mrs. W. H. H. Southerland, who spent last season at the Carlton, have gone to Nahant, Mass., for the summer, where they will be with their son-in law and daughter, Mr. and Mrs. Louis Bacon. Admiral and Mrs. Southerland will return to the Carlton early in October for the autumn and winter months.

Miss Lucretia W. Butler Will Be Married Tonight.

The home in Englewood, N. J., of Gen. and Mrs. J. J. Morrow, brother and sister-in-law of the late Senator Dwight Morrow, will be the scene this evening of the wedding of their niece, Miss Lucretia W. Butler, daughter of Lieut. Col. Rodman Butler, and Lieut. Theodore George Burton, United States Army.

The ceremony will be performed at 8 o'clock by the Rev. Mr. Edwin McIlvaine, brother-in-law of Gen. Morrow, in the presence of members of the families, and a small reception will follow.

Miss Butler has made her home for several years with Gen. and Mrs. Morrow. Lieut. Burton, who is the son of Mrs. Margaret Burton, of Los Angeles, was graduated from West Point last week. One of his classmates, Lieut. William S. Colt, will act as best man.

Mrs. Libby Goldman will entertain a company of eight at luncheon today at Wardman Park Hotel, where she makes her home.

Mrs. William Huntington will arrive in Washington within a week from Tampa, Fla., aboard her yacht, Maribel, which will lie at anchor off the War College for some time. Maj. and Mrs. Davis B. Wills, with whom Mrs. Huntington usually stays when in Washington, and Dr. James Emory will meet the yacht at Norfolk, cruising back to Washington as Mrs. Huntington's guests.

Maj. and Mrs. George S. Clarke with their young daughter, Catherine, of this city, are at the Wardman Park Hotel for an indefinite period.

Mr. and Mrs. L. S. Harding arrived in Washington from Richmond, Va., and are at the Carlton.

The National Woman's Country Club will hold an invitation golf tournament on Saturday. The committee in charge consists of Mrs. Brereton, Mrs. Corby and Mrs. Keefer. This will be the first occasion on which the husbands of the members and their friends have been asked to play, and as it will be a handicap tournament a great deal of keen competition is expected.

The Misses Justine and Eleanor Corby are at the St. Regis Hotel in New York.

The administrative assistant to the President and Mrs. French Strother entertained a small company at dinner last evening for their house guest, Miss Virginia Neal, of Flushing, Long Island.

Mrs. E. B. McKinley, of Wardman Park Hotel, will be hostess to a party of fourteen at luncheon today at Wardman Park.

Miss Eileen Harris to Fete Miss Dorothy Witcover.

Miss Dorothy Witcover, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Wallace H. Witcover, whose marriage to Mr. Herbert Eastwood will take place tomorrow, will be the guest of honor at a dinner to be given this evening by Miss Eileen Harris, who will entertain after the wedding rehearsal. Miss Witcover and Mr. Eastwood were the guests of honor at a dinner given on Monday evening at the Shoreham by Miss Nancy Berry and Miss Mary Spinks, who will be bridesmaids for Miss Witcover. The other guests were members of the wedding party.

Mrs. Nathan J. Shelton, of Old Point Comfort, Va., is at Wardman Park Hotel for a short visit.

Mr. and Mrs. M. F. Harden, of Savannah, Ga., are at the Carlton for a short stay.

Lieut. Stanhope Ring, U. S. N., will leave the Capital next week for San Diego, Calif., where he will report for duty aboard the U. S. S. Lexington. Lieut. Ring has been an aid at the White House for several years.

Capt. and Mrs. Edward E. Steele with their small family, of New York, are at Wardman Park for a visit.

Mrs. Walter R. Tuckerman was the guest of Mrs. Robert Hollister Chapman at luncheon yesterday at the Carlton.

Mr. and Mrs. Minot Davis, of Tacoma, Wash., accompanied by their daughter, are at Wardman Park Hotel during their stay here.

Mr. and Mrs. Frederic C. Mills, of New York, had a company for luncheon with them yesterday at the Carlton, where they are staying while in Washington.

Miss Frances Gutelius will be hostess for Mr. and Mrs. James H. Alburtis Friday night at her studios on New Hampshire avenue. Mrs. Alburtis will show moving pictures of her trip to South Africa last winter.

Mr. Richard M. Wood Weds Miss Harriet V. Nelligar.

The marriage of Miss Harriet Virginia Nelligar, daughter of Dr. and Mrs. Frederick Dennis Nelligar, to Mr. Richard Moulton Wood, son of Maj. and Mrs. Cyrus B. Wood, took place yesterday at 1 o'clock in the Cleveland Park Congregational Church, the pastor, the Rev. George L. Parnham.

How to Be Beautiful

By ELSIE PIERCE

Don't Overburden Skin With More Preparations Than It Needs.

THERE are a great many "soap and water" women who belong to the Chinese School. By that I mean, they have adhered to grandmother's beauty methods and declined to adopt any newer and more modern ways to loveliness. Soap and water is the one treatment they know and not even powder has its place in their charm regimen. Fortunately, there are few of these women left. Fortunately, too, a few of these few weaken now and then and so their number is decreased.

Then there's the other extreme. The overzealous individual. Who makes quite as much a mistake. To overburden the skin is to hamper its natural functions and very often much harm is done by too much treatment and too many preparations.

It is quite the feminine thing to enjoy sitting before one's dressing table, applying now one cream, now another, patting with this lotion and that, blending make-up and so on.

Choose According to Your Individual Requirements.

But do be sure that the preparations you are using are chosen according to your complexion's requirements. They are for you, for your own skin and not for anyone else. Don't expect one preparation to answer every need (for the skin needs cleansing, toning and nourishing, and occasionally corrective preparations, too), but make sure that you are not using too many different items. Do not overcrowd your skin. And do not expect the preparations in themselves to do all the work. The method of application is as important toward complexion loveliness as the wise choice of the right cosmetics.

Treat your skin affectionately and watch it take on new beauty, just as you watch a plant grow or a child develop. Use less creams and lotions; but apply them more scientifically, correctly and leisurely. That is important.

A Message to Mothers.

I have seen women rub on a cream breathtlessly and as quickly take it off, helter-skelter. It is a wonder they get any benefit at all from such treatment.

More than a year ago at a lecture a woman complained to me that her treatment was not bringing results. In the course of conversation I learned that she was using about six articles in the one treatment and that the entire regime was hurried through in a few minutes. To be sure, this may be necessary for the woman rushing off to business, but the woman I speak of was a home builder, a mother who spent much time polishing the furniture and making homemade pies and delicacies and a thousand other little details known to wives and mothers. Recently I met this woman again, and she smilingly confessed that there are fewer homemade pies in her home (she serves fresh fruits which are easier and really better for the family), she spends less time shining the furniture over and over again and a little more time on her home treatment. And far from any dissatisfaction, there's more admiration, appreciation and joy in her family and a daily "Mother, you look so well, from her husband and children.

A very complete home treatment—molding and massage movements—"and all" is outlined in my "Facial Resume" and a stamped, return envelope will bring it to you. Send for it soon if you want to know the important steps to facial beauty.

DANGERS OF LACQUERS AND PAINTS.

THOSE who work at spray painting and lacquering, as well as all others engaged in the paint industry, should have access to the facts given by W. J. Burke, chemical engineer of the New York State Department of Labor.

Most paints contain poisons, and the spray method of applying them increases the risks of the painting trades. Even if a man is careful to select nonpoisonous paints, he may be poisoned when he sandpapers an old job in preparation for a new one. Mr. Burke's article above referred to deals only with the new lacquers. The dangers in these relate almost wholly to ingredients other than the pigments.

An average lacquer of the new kind is composed of 30 per cent diluents, 47 per cent solvents, 5 per cent softeners, 5 per cent gums and resins, 3 per cent pigments and 10 per cent nitrocellulose. The gums, resins and softeners are not poisonous. Some of the yellow, orange and green pigments and some metal primers and surfacers contain lead, and, therefore, are poisonous. With these exceptions, the colors and pigments are classed with the gums, resins and oils used as softeners, in the list of safe ingredients.

The potential poisons are nitrocellulose, the diluents such as benzol, toluol, xylol and petroleum naphtha, and the solvents such as ethyl acetate, butyl acetate, amyl acetate, ethylene glycol mono-ethyl ether acetate, ethylene glycol mono-butyl ether, iso propyl acetate and iso amyl acetate. Some of these ingredients are more poisonous, some less so, but none is entirely harmless. Some do harm immediately upon inhalation, and then only; others may be stored in the body, causing a type of cumulative poisoning. We know best of cumulative poisoning through our experiences with chronic lead poisoning, though most people have heard of chronic carbon monoxide poisoning.

The danger in using these new lacquers lies partly in absorption of the harmful chemicals, and partly in their tendency to explode and cause fires. The vapors do not mix well with air. They gather along the floors in corners and pockets, and when they are concentrated enough and they meet the right temperatures, or they come in contact with flames, they explode with force and start fires.

Once a lacquer has set, and vapors no longer come off, the product is safe. Babies may get lead poisoning from gnawing off lead paint, however old it may be. There is no such danger with lacquer. The danger is limited to the person who is in the room when the work is being done.

These dangers can be obviated. The first requirement is that the diluents and the solvents should be as little poisonous as is possible. The second is that the ventilation of the working place should be properly planned and properly maintained. This includes the regulation of heating and the use of lights.

BRIGHT'S DISEASE.

Mrs. J. S. writes:

1. What are the symptoms of Bright's disease?
2. How long is one's life when suffering with that disease?
3. Is it inherited from parents? My father died with it; also a brother.
4. Will dieting do good?

REPLY.

There are several kinds of Bright's disease, and you do not specify. I will answer for chronic Bright's without dropsy.

1. There is probably high blood pressure, and possibly some loss of endurance and wind. There is usually night urination. Urinalysis shows large quantity, low specific gravity, very little or no albumin, a few casts. There may be some other symptoms.
2. The tendency to take life is not great. A person with this disease should live from 10 to 50 years.
3. There is a slight inheritance tendency, but it is of secondary importance.
4. Eating sensibly and in moderation is of some service. As a rule, the people who diet for this kind of Bright's disease go too far and do more harm than good.

BOWLEGS.

B. A. S. writes:

1. Is an operation for bowlegs necessary in a 19-year-old person?
2. Is it dangerous?

Fifth Avenue Fashions

Extremely effective for the older woman is today's model. Few materials are so becoming to matrons as a small patterned crepe silk print chosen for today's model. It is navy blue and white. Plain blue crepe made the bodice and sleeves. The belt is worn at the normal waistline.

The pointed treatment of the hipline is very slenderizing.

Size 36 requires 2½ yards of 39-inch material with 1⅛ yards of 39-inch contrasting. Price of pattern, 15 cents.

Our New Fashion Magazine points the way to better dress and will help you economize.

You can save $10 in patterns, materials, &c., by sending 10 cents for this book to Fashion Department, The Washington Post, Fifth avenue and Twenty-third street, New York City.

Interpreting the Mode

By DARE

NEW YORK, June 14.—Heard about the latest Paris hair fad? Cunning! And so delightfully artificial that it's quite acceptable. 'Tis a wreath of flowers made of—guess? Never could! Made of—hair! Yes, hair that exactly matches the wearer's hair—even made from it, if Miladi has been thrifty about saving her tresses when they were first shorn.

And this little wreath of hair flowers is worn high on the back of the head.

All of which geeves eedahs, no? Gives me an idea that the hairdressers are subtly trying to bring back elaborate coiffures, and to set styles of hair dressing that will make a visit from the hairdresser an accepted and indispensable part of a soiree—or should I say a part of before the soiree?

Also it gives me to believe that we shall see Miladi's white neck rise like an ivory column from her collar once again—rear view. For a tendency oh, ever so slight, to wear hair up off the neck and perched on the crown of the head is in evidence. We've been wearing hair around and longish on the neck for so long, that this seems quite radical, does it not? But you'll see—'twill be like the long skirts—the hair off the neck business will come upon us as gradually and as subtly as the long skirt did—starting with this and that, never obviously, until all of a sudden we will all be wearing hair high on the head—and movies and fashion photos of longish bobs and coiffures will look odd and demode!

• • • •

Fashion French Pronunciation.

Why not let's read the above aloud—and correctly? Start with "soiree," which, of course, you know means an evening affair, and pronounce it "swah-ray." Go on now, say it—you hafta—there isn't any way to say it in English, you see—so might as well pronounce it correctly in French.

Then, let me see—"demode." Of course that means "out of style." And that must be pronounced "day-mode-day." Say it aloud!

And "coiffure" always so confusing with "coiffeur," but pronounced the same way, "kwaf-fur." One is the hairdress and the other is the hairdresser—as we have told you before.

• • • •

A this and a that, a sleeve and a slat—well, on a slat, then—an' that's what little gir-r-r-rls are made of!

Phillipe et Gaston perches a bow with a buckle high in back—on a black taffeta dinner frock. Martial et Armand takes a detachable capelet, lines it with a color matching the dress, tucks the ends in the belt—and there we are in the lower center of today's illustration.

• • • •

How is your summer girdle wardrobe? Usually it's full of something left from the winter—and anyone who has ever had a really hot summer knows that it is impossible to wear a heavy girdle in the real heat. And you know that rolled stockings are ugly! So what do you do? Why, you send a stamped, self-addressed envelope to the Dare Department of The Washington Post to get the illustrated directions for making your own summer girdles, all your very own self! Then you either make 'em or give 'em to your dressmaker to make for you—because they are real ideas, you know. Hurry!

Au revoir.

"GEMINI."

IF June 15 is your birthday, the best hours for you on this date are from 7 a. m. to 8:30 a. m., from 1:30 p. m. to 3 p. m. and from 9 p. m. to 10 p. m. The danger periods are from 11 a. m. to 12:35 p. m. and from 4:30 p. m. to 6 p. m.

Astrological tendencies: A change is indicated in your business or personal life, which will be of major or minor importance, depending upon the manner in which it is embraced. It will be a nonsentimental time, better for work than play. As a marriage date, it will prove to be a happy selection.

The child born on this June 15 will possess a decided character of its own, and will be capable of sturdy opinions. Its sterling loyalty will be a trait much loved by its friends and dear ones. Reading will always be a source of enjoyment and contentment to it. No indications of servility or bumptious superiority are shown.

Born on June 15, you have many royal virtues; a sympathy which is applied to every mortal who crosses your path; a generosity which has no limit; and a charity almost divine. You humanize all four-footers and treat them with a respect, love and understanding seldom given to dumb animals. They should always be your companions; some cat or dog should be your confidant. You see the goodness in others underneath the weak or ridiculous side of their person. You have a sixth sense of intuition which can sometimes get around a brick wall, and against which logic and reason can only kick.

To your work you are able to bring an intellect of quite exceptional capacity, combined with ingenuity and originality. You are willing to let others be the chief screw in a machine, if they are better fitted for the part. You are content to play the roles for which your inheritance and training have equipped you. You will reap through life all the advantages a character for straight dealing has given you, and you always will strive to keep your credit good.

If a woman, you will be meticulous in the home and will think more of the neatness of appointment than of the ostentation of fare. Loyal and courageous, you will halve your mate's sorrows and double his joys.

Successful people born on June 15:

William B. Ogden, first mayor of Chicago.

William Norris, actor.

Adah I. Menken, actress.

Advice on Gardening

By JANE LESLIE KIFT

SUMMERING YOUR HOUSE PLANTS.

MANY persons who can raise the most beautiful plants during the winter months haven't the slightest idea what to do with them during the summer months. If you expect to enjoy your plants and have other than indifferent specimens in the fall and winter, you must give them attention during June, July and August. Of course, a plant in the open, if left alone, will develop growth, and usually fine growth, but when fall comes, and it becomes necessary to lift it, think what happens.

While the plant in the radiant summer sunshine has been sending forth most glorious top growth, it has also been developing long, slender roots which have followed their own inclinations and wandered far into the mellow soil. When you lift the plant to pot it a large share of these roots will have to be cut off in order to make the root f the pot, and when the young working roots are thus removed, it will be necessary to sacrifice a proportionate amount of the top. All of which seriously checks the future development of the plant. In fact, it takes months for it to recover from the shock.

This shock takes place at a time when the plant needs every ounce of energy at its command, for the period of removal to the house is always a trying one to any plant because of the change in its enviro ment. In the open border it had fresh air 24 hours a day, and in the house it may have it only one.

A plant that is summered in the open ground soon shows the result of its lowered vitality. In fact, it usually looks worse than it did in late May after it had done a successful winter's work of sending forth new leaves and flowers, should it be a flowering one.

Plunged pots always suffer from lack of moisture, so this is not a good plan.

Plants intended for winter flowering should, as far as possible, be induced to rest during the warm months. Never give any stimulation to a plant that does not show signs of growth. The early fall will be quite time enough to apply a fertilizer.

The best plan to follow is to keep your house plants on the veranda, where they will be protected from the extreme rays of the sun and from strong winds and dashing rains.

Every rule has its exception, and while plants as a class should not be plunged in summer, the azalea is one that does require this treatment. I refer to the tender variety.

All readers' questions on growing and care of indoor and outdoor flowers and floral decorations for social functions will be answered by Miss Kift, directly in this column if addressed in care of The Washington Post, or directly to readers if a self-addressed, stamped envelope is supplied.

Pan-Broiled Liver and Bacon

AGAIN the passing of the days is so rapid as to give pause for wonder. Where do they go! This is not a question but an exclamation. Why, here it is just amidship of the glorious month of June. Soon we shall be preparing to stuff a turkey with oysters or chestnuts for Thanksgiving! And only a moment ago we were fretting ourselves into fever over washing and hanging summer curtains and letting down last summer's dresses. But there's still time, I dare say, for a summer menu or two before snow flies, so how about tomato juice cocktail, icy cold, for tomorrow, and after it pan-broiled liver and bacon? Either beef or calves' liver may be used, of course, but if it be the former, parboil it before broiling it to render it more tender.

THURSDAY'S DINNER.

Tomato Juice Cocktail
Pan-Broiled Calves' Liver and Bacon
Mashed Potatoes
Grilled Onions.
Dressed Watercress
Chilled Honeydew Melon
Iced Tea

Tomato Juice Cocktail.

Strain the liquid portion of a can of tomatoes through a fine strainer and add to it a tablespoonful of the following sauce (or bottled cocktail sauce). Mix, chill and serve in small glasses. If preferred very highly seasoned, more sauce may be added as well as a dash of cayenne.

Sauce.

Pinch of salt
Sprinkling of lemon juice
2-3 tablespoonful catsup
½ teaspoonful Worcestershire sauce
¼ teaspoonful horseradish
1 tablespoonful chili sauce
Dash of tabasco

Pan-Broiled Calves' Liver and Bacon.

Place strips of bacon in a cold pan. Cook slowly, turning until golden brown. Pour off the extra fat as it accumulates, leaving the bacon dry and crisp. Drain on soft paper. To broil the liver use part bacon fat and part butter for a delicate flavor. Cut the liver in half inch thick slices, dredge lightly with flour and sear quickly on both sides in a hot pan. Cook over a medium hot fire until nicely brown and thoroughly cooked—about ten minutes. Season with salt and pepper.

Grilled Onions.

6 large onions
¼ cupful butter
1 teaspoonful salt
¼ teaspoonful pepper

Peel onions and cut into one-half inch slices. Put in greased baking dish. Season, add butter and enough water to cover bottom of dish. Bake in moderate oven (350 degrees) until tender. Brown under broiler before serving.

THE WEIGHT GUIDE.

For individual assistance write to Nancy Carey, sending a stamped, self-addressed envelope, and give age, weight, height and habits of life.

Answers to Readers.

Dear Miss Carey: I am 24 years old, have a large house and a 4-month-old baby to take care of, walk every day, and yet weigh 164 pounds. Isn't that awful? I am 5 feet 5½ inches tall and feel fine all the time, but I am quite conscious of my "extra" weight. I am not allowed to eat meat. What else can I eat and how much? Thanking you,

MRS. E. E. P.

For your age and height you should weigh about 130 pounds, so that I don't wonder you feel quite conscious of your extra weight, my dear Mrs. P. But it isn't so very "awful" that you weigh 164, not when you consider that many of our readers need to lose as much as 50, 70 and 100 pounds. Sound impossible? But it's true, I assure you, and it has been done in many, many instances. No, I grant you, it's not very easy, but it's not hard, either, once the start has been made. Any one of them will convince you of that. It even happens, as in the case of one woman who wrote not long ago, that in the event she should overeat at any time she felt as though she had broken four or five of the Ten Commandments. It may not always be quite so bad as that, but there is no doubt at all that reduction of excessive weight does bring with it a real revival of conscience.

Make up your mind to lose those extra pounds right now. Quickly, before you can possibly fall back into that easy, deplorable state of smug satisfaction with existing conditions. No one ever accomplished anything that way, you know. And this reducing, providing it is for the betterment of health and vitality and not just the outcome of foolish vanity, is as truly an adventure as any sporting event or business enterprise. There are difficulties to overcome, there are rules to follow, and there are results to be achieved—results which will make you justly proud of your perseverance and good judgment.

And now having convinced you, we hope, just a word about your diet question. You may substitute for meat additional quantities of skimmed milk, buttermilk, eggs, cottage cheese and other skimmed-milk cheeses, also certain manufactured nut preparations.

We shall be very glad to send you our folder of more detailed suggestions and hope to hear from you soon.

Nancy Carey

WHEN TO PREEMPT AND WHY.

THE great majority of Contract hands lend themselves to approach bidding—to bids which reveal not only the strength held by our partner, but the strength held by our opponents as well. Occasionally, however, in the course of a Contract session, hands occur which do not lend themselves to such treatment. In this type fall all kinds of Forcing bids on hands in which our honor holding is so great that we can not reasonably expect our partner to be able to respond because lacking in honor strength, nor can we hope that our opponents will overcall, because their hands, too, must be well nigh barren of honor holdings. This is the basic reason for using Forcing bids in opening the bidding, and these bids, although correctly designated as Forcing, are in reality only gigantic Approach bids, for the Opening suit bid of two implies primarily that the bidder is uncertain as to the final declaration, but wants the assistance of his partner, however weak his holding may be, in determining what is the best final bid on the combined hands.

With another type of hand, however, the Opening bidder has no doubt, so far as his holding is concerned, as to what suit should be named as trump. This is a hand of inflexible type, with a strong, long and predominant trump suit, and, generally speaking, the best results will be obtained with such holdings by the use of Preemptive or game bids.

An interesting example of this type of hand occurred in a recent Duplicate game at the Wissahickon Bridge Club in Philadelphia, Pa. Where the hand was opened with a Pre-emptive bid of five clubs, five clubs were made. Where the hand was passed, East and West were able to get together for a game contract of five diamonds, which was also made, and South then faced the undesirable choice of bidding six clubs out of a clear sky, for what might be a penalty loss, or permitting his opponents to make game.

South—Dealer.

The Correct Bidding:

(Figures after bids in table refer to numbered explanatory paragraphs.)

| South | West | North | East |
|---|---|---|---|
| 5♣ (1) | Pass (2) | Pass (3) | Pass (4) |

1—South has an ideal Preemptive or game bid of five clubs. The hand apparently cannot lose more than 1 club trick, 1 diamond trick and 3 heart tricks. If doubled and these tricks are lost, it is only a bagatelle of 400 points, which is further lessened by the score for honors held by South.

2—West, vulnerable, or, in fact, not vulnerable, would be courting a heavy penalty to overcall with five diamonds. While South has disclosed the inflexible nature of his hand, he knows nothing about the distribution of either North's or East's cards.

3—Of course, North passes.

4—Nor can East venture to overcall with five spades.

To pass with South's holding, of course, results in East and West finding the fit of their hands in diamonds at once. East and West can make five diamonds, losing only one heart and one diamond. North and South can make five clubs, and South, in view of his long holding and freakish distribution, should boldly, but correctly, overbid to shut out the exchange of adverse information.

TODAY'S POINTER.

Preemptive bids at Contract are ordinarily made on hands of an inflexible type—that is, hands which require that, regardless of partner's holding, they shall be played with a predetermined suit as trump.

TOMORROW'S HAND.

The bidding and play of the hand printed below will be discussed tomorrow:

South—Dealer.
Both sides vulnerable.

Study the hand, decide how you would play it and then compare with the results you obtain with those shown in tomorrow's article.

Leaders in K. of C. Make Jubilee Plans

Group Arranges Details of Sessions in Capital, August 14 to 17.

Supreme officers of the Knights of Columbus were at the Hotel Mayflower yesterday to make plans for the forthcoming "golden jubilee" convention here August 14 to 17, inclusive.

Those who made the trip here were Martin H. Carmody, of Grand Rapids, Mich., supreme knight; William J. McGinley, of New York City, supreme secretary; Luke E. Hart, of St. Louis, supreme advocate and John S. Conway, of the New Haven headquarters, secretary to Mr. McGinley. The Mayflower has been designated headquarters for this convention which marks the first visit ever made to Washington by the Knights of Columbus.

Ceremonies begin on Sunday, August 14, at 3 o'clock, with the unveiling of a memorial to the late Cardinal Gibbons in front of Sacred Heart Church, at Sixteenth street and Park road. This will be preceded by a parade of uniformed knights through the city. A dinner is to be held that evening in the Mayflower and business sessions follow the next three days.

Princess Beatrice Goes Under Knife.

London, June 14 (A.P.).—A preliminary operation for removal of a cataract from the right eye was performed today on the Princess Beatrice, aunt of King George. The operation took place at Kensington Palace. Princess Beatrice is the daughter of Queen Victoria and the mother of former Queen Victoria of Spain. She was 75 years old in April.

Holy Comforter Lawn Fete.

officiating. The church was decorated with palms, lilies, and white roses.

The bride wore a charming afternoon gown of white mousse line de sole, made on simple lines, with a cape collar and white velvet sash. Her white horsehair hat was trimmed with white panne velvet and she carried a bouquet of bride roses and lilies of the valley.

Miss Jessie Marian Nelligar, sister of the bride, was the maid of honor and only attendant. She wore a gown of rose beige crepe, made with a cape and cowl neckline. Her powder blue picture hat was trimmed with pink velvet ribbon, and she carried a bouquet of Talisman roses.

Mrs. Nelligar, mother of the bride, wore a gown of pale rose pink crepe, with a white hat, and a corsage bouquet of gardenias. The bridegroom's mother, Mrs. Wood, wore pale green chiffon, with hat to match, and a corsage of Sweetheart roses.

The out-of-town guests present at the ceremony included Miss Katherine D. Webb, Miss Arnold Whitehurst, Miss Marian D. Lathrop and Miss Marie Arnold, all of Norfolk, Va.

Maj. and Mrs. Wood, parents of the bridegroom, left immediately after the ceremony for New York, whence they will sail for Hawaii, where the former has been ordered for duty.

Oliver—Anderson Nuptials Performed.

Miss Florence Nightingale Oliver, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Christian Oliver, of Little Falls, Minn., was married to Mr. Eugene A. Anderson in the Takoma Park Seventh-Day Adventist Church last night, bringing to its consummation a romance which had its beginning in the class rooms of Washington Missionary College, where both were students. The ceremony was performed by the Rev. F. M. Wilcox, editor of the Review and Herald, the Seventh-Day Adventist denominational organ, after which the young couple left for a two weeks' wedding trip to the Smoky Mountains in North Carolina.

Mr. Anderson is the son of Mr. and Mrs. E. G. Anderson, of Atlanta, Ga. He is a native of Erie, Pa.

The bride wore an ivory-colored crepe frock, trimmed with lace, with a tight-fitting bodice and skirt touching the floor. Her veil was arranged in cap-shape and trimmed with orange blossoms. She carried a shower bouquet of white roses and lilies of the valley. Miss Katherine Lutz, of Holton, Kans., and Miss Nina Munson, of Takoma Park, were bridesmaids. Miss Lutz was dressed in powder-blue silk net and carried pink roses and blue delphinium, and Miss Munson wore peach-colored crepe, carrying talisman roses and blue delphinium.

Mr. Robert Head was the best man. The ushers were Messrs. S. Arason, of Takoma Park; Wallace Smith, of Prince Frederick County, Md., and Paul Cross, of Takoma Park.

Preceding the ceremony the Millinson Trio, composed of Mr. Victor Johnson, violinist; Mr. H. A. Miller, pianist, and Miss Anthea Lindup, cellist, played special music. Mr. and Mrs. Robert Eldridge sang as a duet "At Dawning." The wedding march was played by Mrs. Thomas Cunningham, organist.

Dr. William N. Cogan, dean of the dental college of Georgetown University, and Mrs. Cogan have returned from a short visit in Emmetsburg, Md., where Dr. Cogan received the honorary degree of doctor of laws from St. Mary's College.

Miss Frances Brooks has returned to her home in Chevy Chase after spending June week at West Point. She was accompanied by Miss Mary Lee Donovan, daughter of Col. and Mrs. Richard Donovan, formerly of Washington and now stationed at Fort Amador, Canal Zone, who will be her house guest for some time.

Miss Eleanor Hancock, Miss Eleanor Betton and Mrs. Herbert D. Porterfield were among the Washington guests at the wedding Monday in Williamstown, Mass., of Miss Eleanore Leake, daughter of Mrs. Henry Sabin Leake, of New York and Williamstown, and the late Dr. Leake, and Mr. Richard Cheatham Plater, jr., of New York.

Canadian Wins His Suit Against Expert Who Paid Only $200.

New York, June 15 (A.P.).—A 10 cent postage stamp issued in Baltimore in 1845 and signed by the postmaster, James Madison Buchanan, was valued at $7,335 today in Supreme Court. Supreme Court Justice Samuel I. Rosenman awarded that sum to Albany R. Troughton of Toronto, Canada, in Troughton's suit against J. Murray Bartels, stamp expert.

Troughton claimed the stamp was worth much more than the $200 which Bartels paid to Troughton's mother-in-law, Mrs. Jean Erskine, of Toronto, who brought the stamp and others in a collection to New York for valuation.

He charged that the expert induced Mrs. Erskine to part with the stamp and a few others of considerably smaller value for $200, despite instructions from her son-in-law to have the collection merely appraised. The suit was based entirely on the Baltimore stamp value.

Uchida Enters Saito Cabinet.

Tokyo, June 14 (A.P.).—Viscount Yasyua Uchida, former president of the South Manchurian Railways, today informally accepted the post of foreign minister in the cabinet of Premier Saito. Uchida declined the foreign portfolio in the Saito ministry last month when the new cabinet was formed to succeed that of the slain premier Suyoshi Inukai.

LOYAL TROOPS ROUT REBELS IN HONDURAS

Triumph in Mountains Is Regarded as Important; About 25 Slain.

Tegucigalpa, Honduras, June 14 (U.P.).—Federal troops under Gen. Umana yesterday attacked and routed a rebel column of about 100 near Palmichal in the Espiritu Santos Mountains, according to official announcement today.

The rebels, according to Gen. Umana, left several dead on the field, including one colonel. The exact casualties were not given, but the message said the rebels lost about 25 men, many rifles and a quantity of ammunition.

The government regarded the action as important because it cuts off Palmichal, which was a crossroads transit point through which the rebels received supplies from the north coast. The message said the surviving rebels retreated into the mountains to the northwest.

Buenos Aires, June 14 (U.P.).—The 24-hour general strike called by the Argentine Labor Federation was only partially successful today. Dockworkers, taxi drivers and a few omnibus lines observed the strike order, but factories and railway lines were in operation.

The chamber of deputies has voted unanimously to question the minister of the interior Wednesday regarding what knowledge the government may possess about alarmist rumors of radical movements. The minister will appear Wednesday.

Rumore that the Argentine gold peso would be pegged at 141 per $100 gold were denied today to the United Press by Jose Vido, a member of the exchange control board.

"For several months," Vido said, "the peso has been kept at 171 gold pesos per 100 (approximately 58¾c per peso). Should pressure oblige us to do so, we will allow the peso to improve to 160 per $100 (approximately 62½c).

"However, such improvement depends entirely upon the trade balance. The board has no intention of establishing an arbitrary level for the peso."

Long's Foes Name Defiant Delegates

Dissenting Democrats Plan to Fight Senator's Group.

Shreveport, La., June 14 (A.P.).—A large wing of the Democratic party in Louisiana today effected a definite break with United States Senator Huey P. Long, when it defied the self-styled "kingfish" by holding a State convention and electing delegates to the national convention in Chicago. There an attempt will be made to unseat the delegation to be headed by Senator Long.

John D. Ewing, Shreveport publisher, was elected national committeeman and Miss Gladys Brezeale, of Natchitoches, was named national committeewoman in opposition to Senator Long and Mrs. Emile Bienvenu, of New Orleans, who were named to those offices several weeks ago by the State Democratic executive committee, controlled by Long.

Delegates at large, selected by the group here today, included J. Y. Sanders, sr., R. G. Pleasant and John M. Parker, all former Governors of Louisiana. Sanders was named chairman of the delegation, which will attend the convention uninstructed. Eight delegates at large were named and two were selected from each of the State's eight congressional districts.

Branding the committee appointment of delegates as "undemocratic," four State central committeemen and ten parish chairmen joined in calling today's convention to name a rival delegation.

The roll call showed 182 delegates present or represented by proxy, representing all congressional districts.

After a quarrel with her mother, Helen E. Nowell, 17 years old, swallowed poison in the bathroom of her home at 3129 Newton street northeast, according to police. She was admitted to Casualty Hospital in an undetermined condition.

Hotel Employes to Meet Tonight.

Edward Deegan will be candidate for president tonight at the election of the Washington Local of the Hotel and Restaurant Employes' Alliance at 1412 I street northwest.

VOTE ON BONUS IS HELD UP

Within 48 hours Gen. Glassford will present a plan for the evacuation of the veterans. He declined to say what his plan is, but said it did not involve force. He worked late last night on the evacuation plan.

For the first time since he became superintendent of police, Gen. Glassford showed positive anger when he found that sick men had been permitted to lie about the Marine headquarters for hours before being taken to a hospital.

"Haven't these men been sent to a hospital yet?" he shouted, his eyes blazing with anger.

"Just a minute," said Dr. John E. Gunion, of the Veterans' Bureau, "and I'll try to help you."

"You're not doing it for me," said Gen. Glassford. "You are doing it for sick men." And he waved his hand toward the three stretchers where the men were lying.

Trying to Help.

"I am trying to help them," said Dr. Gunion.

"You're not doing a good job of it," retorted Glassford.

"If you don't like the way I am doing it, I'll get up and get out," responded Dr. Gunion.

Gen. Glassford walked out of the room, his face paled in anger. "I brought one of those men in here at 4 o'clock," he said. It was then 7 o'clock.

All the plans which Dr. Knowlton had made for a clinic for the veterans, to be manned by volunteer doctors and dentists, were shattered because of the "failure of Federal and District officials to cooperate," he said. "I would be glad to continue if we could get some aid," he said. "There has been absolutely no aid given by civic authorities, with the exception of the Police Department."

Failure Is Pointed Out.

In his letter, Gen. Glassford said Dr. Knowlton's plans for organizing a clinic fell through because of his "inability to secure adequate quarters. Dr. Knowlton and Dr. Bocock have been splendid."

"I don't know what the Veterans Bureau proposes to do," Gen. Glassford said. "It failed to take prompt action in two very serious cases, brought to the Marine Reserve today. One veteran was brought in at 11 a. m., and another at 4:15. They had not been evacuated when I visited there at 6:15, at which time a doctor of the Veterans Administration was making out voluminous papers.

"We want action, in this emergency and, having offered your medical assistance, will you be willing to take hold of the problem for me?" He offered the addressee the aid of the Police Department and the veterans.

One of the men Gen. Glassford referred to was suffering from a bleeding ailment, with danger of infection imminent. Another was suffering from a lung ailment. They were taken to Walter Reed Hospital after 7 o'clock last night.

Vote Is Postponed.

Death to Representative Eslick came with a suddenness that brought gasps from the members and from the galleries as the 60-year-old legislator faltered, grasped at the reading stand on which his notes lay, and then dropped to the floor.

Other representatives quickly carried him to the Speaker's lobby, where he was placed on a divan. Dr. George Calver, the Capitol physician, aided by two doctor-members, Representative Larrabee (Democrat), Indiana, and Representative Swick (Republican), Pennsylvania, fruitlessly applied artificial respiration.

In less than twenty minutes Dr. Calver announced Representative Eslick was dead. By his side were his wife, who was in the gallery while her husband spoke, and the entire Tennessee delegation.

Dr. Calver attributed the death to 'heart block." "I believe he was dead before he struck the floor," the physician said.

Senate Also Adjourns.

The House, which had continued debate after the legislator had been removed, adjourned as soon as news of his death was received. The Senate adjourned a few minutes later out of respect.

Representative Byrns, senior member of the Tennessee delegation, presented the formal resolution of regret.

"He was beloved by every member of the House, just as he was beloved by every citizen of the State," Byrns said. "He died as I know he would have liked to die, here on the floor of the House."

Widow "Doing Very Well."

Representative Davis, Tennessee, announced Mr. Eslick's death to the House. "He was stricken at his post of duty," Mr. Davis said. "I have in my hand a prepared copy of the speech he was delivering, and I ask leave to have his remarks extended in the Record."

Dr. Calver accompanied Mrs. Eslick to her home and said she was "doing very well."

Dr. Knowlton, in a statement last night, said:

"I regret that those officials who could have granted us the use of a building for a clinic would not do so. The reason our men have been forced to close down is because we couldn't take care of them.

"Marine reserves have been doing volunteer work, working 24 hours a day for the past 18 days, treating over 3,000 veterans. Our men have gone without sleep. Everything that could be done for the men in a medical way has been done."

Lack of Cooperation.

"There has been no cooperation from any one except the Police Department and Dr. Bocock, of Gallinger Hospital. The Veterans' Bureau has given no help at all. Had we been able to get a building, the medical profession of Washington stood ready to aid in every manner."

Unless the health conditions of the veterans and the sanitary conditions at the camps are improved, the City of Washington is in danger of an epidemic. Gen. Glassford has continuously praised the men of the Sixth Marines for the "splendid aid" in helping the veterans.

The bonus had been argued for two hours when Representative Eslick arose and took his place before the Speaker's dais, in the well of the House. He had almost concluded when his voice dropped to a whisper. "I want to go from the sordid side——" Then he grasped a table for support and he collapsed.

Flags at Half-Mast.

News of Representative Eslick's death was received in Camp Marks, Anacostia, as Harold B. Foulkrod, chairman of the legislative committee, was making a speech. Buglers blew taps. The camp chaplain recited a prayer as the former soldiers stood with bowed heads. All flags in the camp were placed at half-mast.

Commander in Chief Walter W. Waters said, "His passing is more poignant in that at the very moment death called him he was fighting for justice for the men who offered their lives in defense of our country and now find themselves destitute."

Representative Rainey predicted yesterday that the bonus bill will pass the House, but Senate leaders say they have 55 votes to seal its doom when it reaches the upper chamber. There is a veto promised for the bill, should it reach the White House.

Vinson First Speaker.

The first speaker for the bill was Representative Fred M. Vinson, (Democrat) of Kentucky, who said its supporters believe it would meet "the fundamental basis of our troubles today."

Representative Crisp, (Democrat) of Georgia, acting chairman of the ways and means committee, opened the argument against the bill with the assertion that the legislation would injure the country."

The arguments of the supporters of the bill were centered about the point that it would cause a wide distribution of money. Opponents characterized it as an "inflation measure."

A delegation of representatives will be named today to attend the funeral of Representative Eslick. The senators appointed yestertady to attend the funeral were: Senators McKellar and Hull (Democrats), of Tenn.; Carey (Republican), of Wyoming; Keyes (Republican), of New Hampshire; Black (Democrat), of Alabama; Bulow (Democrat), of South Dakota, and George (Democrat), of Georgia.

Double Guard at Treasury.

Officials of the Treasury Department yesterday took precautions to have the main building of the department safeguarded against any possible disorderly gatherings. At every entrance a double guard was posted, and the great iron-barred doors were kept closed, except as the guards opened them to admit officials and visitors who had official business to transact.

The guards were armed with revolvers and tear-gas billies. Departmental officers said no trouble of any kind was anticipated, but that it was felt advisable to be on the safe side.

The District Commissioners named a committee of four municipal officials to make an inspection of all buildings occupied by the bonus marchers and report on their capacity, structural safety, sanitary conditions and fire hazards.

The committee, composed of Police Inspector T. R. Bean, the health officer, the chief or the Fire Department, and the inspector of buildings, will hold its first meeting today. Following the inspection it will draft regulations as to the use of the present buildings and any other buildings that may be used. The Commissioners directed that a report be submitted as soon as possible.

It was also announced that a temporary sewer connection will be made to serve Camp Marks at Anacostia because of the dangerous condition there.

DIES IN HOUSE

EDWARD E. ESLICK.

Honor Veterans to Act As Eslick Pallbearers

Congressional Medal of Honor men with the bonus expeditionary forces will form a guard of honor and act as pallbearers as the body of Representative Edward E. Eslick leaves Washington for Tennessee. They will gather at the undertaking parlors of Charles S. Zurhorst, 301 East Capitol street, at 2:30 o'clock and escort the body to the station.

At the station they will stand guard until the train leaves at 4:45 o'clock. At 4:15 o'clock the rank and file of the bonus army will gather at the station. They will stand at attention as the train pulls out and taps are played. The members of the bonus army last night sent a wreath as a mark of respect to Representative Eslick.

Member of Bonus Army Dies; Is First Fatality

The first fatality among members of the bonus army occurred yesterday when Roy T. Swartzliner, of New Kensington, Pa., was taken ill at Camp Marks in Anacostia, where he was encamped, and was removed to Emergency Hospital. There he was pronounced dead.

Swartzliner, who was 40 years old, wore an identification card which directed that D. Sullivan, of New Kensington, be notified if anything happened to him. Miss Helen Snyder, of Takoma Park, took the veteran to the hospital.

$662,236 Paid by U. S. For Buildings at Capitol

The Government, through the office of the Architect of the Capitol, David Lynn, has acquired the old Bristol Hotel and the Bliss Building, largest remaining properties on the Capitol grounds as they will be extended in the future. The price was $662,236.90, 30 per cent more than the assessed value of the two buildings.

The Women's Christian Temperance Union formerly occuped the Bristol Hotel and the Antisaloon League was formerly in the Bliss Building. It is expected that it will be another month before the Government condemns the properties.

FEDERATION HEARS MRS. J. D. SHERMAN

Bicentennial Role of Clubs Told by Capital Woman; Elections Fight Looms.

Seattle, June 14 (A.P.).—Contests for the first and second vice presidencies of the General Federation of Women's Clubs were assured today when the nominating committee's report was approved by the convention.

The election takes place from 8 a. m. to 4 p. m. (Pacific standard time) Thursday, and voting machines, supplied by Seattle, will be used.

Mrs. Grace Morrison Poole, of Brockton, Mass., first vice president, was the sole nominee for the new three-year presidential term. She will succeed Mrs. John F. Sippel, of Baltimore, who has served two terms.

There are two candidates for the first vice presidency, Mrs. Eugene B. Lawson, of Tulsa, Okla., and Mrs. Henry C. Taylor, of Bloomfield, Iowa. Three women are seeking the second vice presidency, Mrs. Clarence Fraim, of Wilmington, Del.; Mrs. Edward M. Land, of Statesville, N. C., and Dr. Josephine L. Peirce, of Lima, Ohio.

Stepping Stones to Presidency.

The vice presidencies are usually stepping stones to the presidency.

Other candidates are Mrs. Sadie Orr Dunbar, of Portland, Oreg., for recording secretary, and Mrs. Frank Warren, of Minneapolis, and Mrs. Felix T. McWhirter, of Indianapolis, for the two six-year terms as trustees.

Tomorrow has been designated as play day and there will be no general session.

Mrs. Sippel in her president's message expresses faith in women's ability, but warned they must continually seek to progress.

"We can not stand quietly on the level," she said. "We must go up or down. It is our task to be the character builders of the people. Let us push back our horizons."

Newspapers' Accuracy Lauded.

Mrs. William R. Alvord, of Detroit, chairman of the press and publicity department, told the federation the editors of the greatest newspapers today think more about their responsibility to give facts and to express accurately public opinion than they worry about the freedom of the press.

"In the final analysis," she said, "the control of the sensational exploitation of crime and scandal lies with the individual who buys the newspapers."

Mrs. John D. Sherman, of Washington, D. C., a past president of the federation and a presidential commissioner on the George Washington Bicentennial Commission, reviewed the federation's participation in the celebration and also that of the commission.

She mentioned the tree plantings in the first President's memory, totaling 16,000,000 so far, of which 1,000,000 were planted by the Ohio State federation.

Parade Interrupter Arrested.

Jack Embrey, 20 years old, of Virginia Highlands, attempted to drive his automobile through the Flag Day parade last night at Sixth street and Pennsylvania avenue northwest, according to police. He posted $5 on a charge of driving through a procession.

Foreign News in Brief

Rome, June 14 (A.P.).—A governor of Rome will visit the Pope for the first time since the pontiffs in 1870 became voluntary "prisoners in the Vatican," when Prince Boncompagni Ludovisi calls on Pope Pius XI at noon tomorrow. The call is one of a series of visits of officials following the reconciliation of the church and state.

Tokyo, June 14 (A.P.).—Joseph C. Grew, new United States Ambassador to Japan, was received at the Phoenix hall of the imperial palace today by Emperor Hirohito to present his credentials. The empress also received the ambassador, Mrs. Grew and their daughter, Elizabeth.

Hamburg, Germany, June 14 (A.P.).—The liner Ussukuma of the German East Africa Co., collided today with the Hamburg-American liner Los Angeles near Norderney Lightship. The Los Angeles, inbound, was only slightly damaged. The Ussukuma was obliged to return to Bremerhaven.

Havre, France, June 14 (A.P.).—Miss Amelia Earhart and her husband, G. P. Putnam, the American publisher, sailed for the United States today aboard the Ile de France.

Tecucicalpa, Honduras, June 14 (A.P.).—All the banana plantations in the Sula Valley between Chamelecon and San Pedro were destroyed last night by a terrific hurricane. Telegraph lines were down and communication with the affected region was very difficult.

Moscow, June 14 (A.P.).—The Communist party organ Pravda today announced production in all industries for the first four months of 1932 had increased 20.3 per cent over the same period of 1931. The newspaper acknowledged industrial output as a whole was still below the five-year plan.

Paris, (Wednesday), June 15 (A.P.).—A protest to the new Chilean government against measures affecting French interests was understood today to have been made by the French minister to Chile.

Tokyo, June 14 (A.P.).—Parliament today completed the tasks for which it was convened in special session recently. It appropriated funds for the support of the army campaigns in Manchuria during the remainder of this year, increased several tariff schedules and enacted new currency control legislation.

The lower house adopted unanimously a joint resolution presented by the Seiyukai and Minseito parties urging the government to recognize the new Pu-Yi regime in Manchuria immediately.

Ottawa, Ontario, June 14 (A.P.).—Wide variance in crop conditions in Canada, but with conditions in western provinces much improved over last year, was reported by the Dominion bureau of statistics today.

Seeding and growth are backward in Maratimes, Quebec and eastern Ontario, but in central and southern Ontario the crop outlook is more promising. Fruit prospects range from good in Maratimes, Quebec and Ontario to excellent in British Columbia.

$593,448 in District Contracts Are Let ### Giddings School Addition, Bridge and Paving Jobs Are Included.

Contracts aggregating $593,448, providing for the construction of a school addition, several street paving jobs and the building of a small bridge were awarded yesterday by the District Commissioners. The school job is an addition to the Giddings School, G street southeast, between Third and Fourth streets, $162,411. It was awarded to the Northeastern Construction Co., of Baltimore.

To F. D. Carozza Construction Corporation, Baltimore, went the job of removing the existing bridge and building a new single span with reinforced concrete slab floor, in line with Atlantic street southeast, over Oxon Run, on a bid of $6,632.

Corson & Gruman was awarded two contracts: For bituminous treatment of streets, $18,960, and repairing concrete roadways and alley pavements, $89,577. McGuire & Rolfe got the job of repairing asphaltic pavements and concrete bases on a bid of $207,660.90, while Easthom-Melvin Co. was given the contract to repair concrete sidewalks on an estimate of $62,147.50.

KEY'S HOME SETTING FOR FLAG TRIBUTES

Bloom and Tolson Broadcast Speeches From Historic House.

Amid the fitting surroundings of the home of Francis Scott Key, author of "The Star-Spangled Banner," stirring Flag Day addresses were delivered and broadcast yesterday by Representative Sol Bloom, of New York, associate director of the George Washington Bicentennial Commission, and Robert M. Tolson, chairman of the speaker's committee for the celebration.

Representative Bloom painted a vivid word picture of the historic night when Key was inspired to write the song that has become the national anthem.

Held Divinely Inspired.

"If ever a song was born of Divine inspiration, it was this song of songs," he said. "If ever a man responded to a supreme emotion, it was Francis Scott Key when he set down what today is the National Anthem of our country and destined for immortality with the flag itself."

"I wish," Representative Bloom declared, later in his address, "that we would match its purity with the purity of our own lives. I would that we could match its courage by the courage of our people. I would that we could match its meaning with the beauty of the American ideal."

Forgotten Fact on Flag.

Facts about the flag that have probably become dim in the minds of many Americans were reviewed by Mr. Tolson. He pointed out that the United States flag is the third oldest of the national standards of the world; older than the union Jack of Great Britain or the tricolor of France.

The flag was first flown, he reminded his audience, from Fort Stanwix, on the site of the present City of Rome, N. Y., on August 3, 1777, and it was first under fire three days later in the battle of Oriskany, August 6.

The name, "Old Glory," was given to the flag on August 10, 1831, by Capt. William Driver of the brig Charles Doggett, Mr. Tolson informed his listeners; it was first carried in battle at Brandywine, September 11, 1777; first flew over foreign territory January 28, 1778, at Nassau, Bahama Islands, and the first foreign salute to the flag was rendered by the French Admiral Lamotte Piquet, at Quiberon Bay, February 13, 1778.

Unused to Fire Plug, Virginia Driver Freed

His ignorance of a fire plug's function caused Harold O. Bartlett, who said he lived in a nearby Virginia town, to be freed of a charge of parking at a fire plug here yesterday.

Bartlett told Judge Ralph Given that he saw a nice space near a plug on Indiana avenue, and not knowing that it was a fire plug, pulled into the space. He said that in his home town they didn't have such things and Judge Given took his personal bond not to repeat the offense.

ROYAL ENGAGEMENT LOOMING IN SWEDEN

Prince Gustav Adolf to Wed German Princess, Court Circles Believe.

Stockholm, Sweden, June 14 (A.P.).—The engagement of Prince Gustaf Adolf, eldest son of the Swedish crown prince, to Princess Sibylle, of Saxe-Coburg-Gotha, is expected to be announced Thursday, the birthday of King Gustaf of Sweden.

Early yesterday the prince drove away from the summer residence of his father to take a ferry across to Denmark, and it was believed he had gone to Coburg to see his fiancee.

The prince, so far, has denied the engagement, inviting questioners to "wait and see," but those familiar with court news firmly expect an announcement this week.

This latest royal romance apparently began in England, where the royal young people met at the wedding of Lady Cambridge, and was strengthened in popular supposition when Princess Sibylle came here to visit Princess Ingrid, sister of Adolf.

Princess Sibylle is 24, blond and pretty. She is a second cousin of Prince Gustaf Adolf. Her father is Duke Carl Edward, who has his chief residence in a historic castle at Coburg, Germany.

Duke Carl Edward is a grandson of Queen Victoria of England and a nephew of Duke Arthur, of Connaught. The latter is the grandfather of Adolf.

Adolf is 26 years old, tall and slender, with blue eyes and brown hair. He is fond of sport, especially riding, and has had thorough military training.

CONFUSION IN CHILE STIRS WIDE CONCERN

ports from Santiago continue to present such a confused picture that not even the most experienced observers can predict just exactly what is transpiring. An almost hermetic censorship seals Chile and prevents all dispatches tending to show the real nature of events there from leaking out. That is the way several authorities interpret the contradictions that continue to emanate from the troubled area.

The junta government has dropped Davila; but contrary to the expectations of everyone, has veered sharply to the right instead of the forthright Communist shift everyone had feared. Davila was currently credited with representing the more conservative element of the junta, and his resignation, while nicely camouflaged in phrases of high policy, is believed to have been the first result of a ruthless policy of militarism and dictatorship, if not worse, that had been universally feared.

Senor Davila is reported to be the bearer of a "special diplomatic mission abroad," which in such mysterious language recalled some of the sentences of banishment visited upon lesser chiefs of the Bolshevist movement when their proletarian actions fell short of the discipline that the new movement exacted from all of its disciples. Davila, curiously enough, insisted in an open letter which he dispatched to his colleagues, that his resignation would help and not hinder the revolution. Such a spirit of sacrifice was greeted with some scepticism here as in all probability being inspired by the very officials to whom it had been addressed.

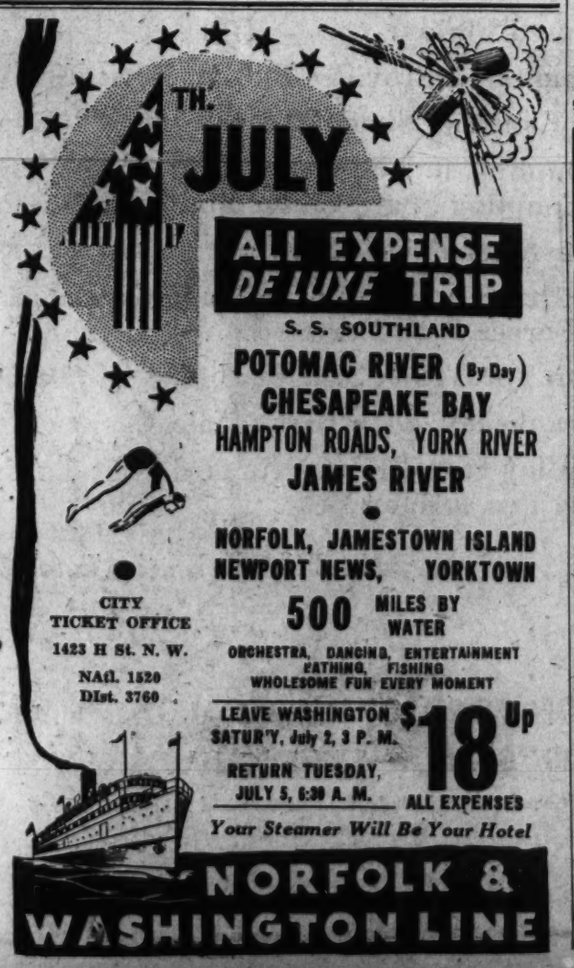

Davila then said:

"In the formation of the legal and technical structure there are fundamentals whose changes or modifications demand detailed examination because of the magnitude of the interests involved."

Reports from Santiago and other industrial and mining centers in Chile reflect a foreboding of uneasiness. Riots have occurred in some parts of Santiago and the dissension in the very heart of the junta has only served to emphasize the danger of civil war. Some of the members of the junta are believed to have the solidarity of the aviation and navy forces, while other members claim the support of the army.

In the event of an outbreak between these two forces or between the forces of mob rebellion and the armed law—abiding representatives of the wealthy element of Santiago—the worst disorders are feared.

The Navy Department has not issued any special orders with regard to movement of ships to protect the American interests in Chile in the event of trouble. It is believed that all the protection required could be quickly dispatches from Panama in an emergency.

TESTIMONY CLOSED IN COBLENTZ CASE

Cross-Examination of Bank Head Is Final Action; Arguments Ready.

Special to The Washington Post.

Cumberland, Md., June 14.—The testimony was concluded today in the case of State Senator Emory L. Coblentz, president of the Central Trust Co., Frederick, charged with receiving a deposit when he knew the bank was insolvent, with cross-examination by State's Attorney James Clark, which occupied the morning session.

Coblentz was pressed particularly by the prosecutor as to his transactions with the Wardman interests in Washington.

Regarding the "Wardman set-up," Coblentz admitted he and Wardman went together and acquired ten units or properties in the Washington section. The Wardman Real Estate Properties took them over subject to underlying mortgages in the amount of $4,900,000. He denied that all were subject to these liens, saying but three were so encumbered.

Prosecutor Clark asked Coblentz that if not the first thing he did was to put on a first and refunding mortgage of $11,000,000. The witness admitted this mortgage was taken over by four banking groups. Then a general mortgage for $2,500,000 was placed. Regarding the senior Wardman debentures, created in connection with these properties, Clark asked if they were not selling only at 25 cents on the dollar. Coblentz replied that he did not know that, adding, "The market value of a defaulted bond is no evidence of intrinsic value."

George M. Brady, Baltimore, who had to hurry away on account of the sudden death of his father, by agreement, was allowed to open the argument, before the full bench sitting as a jury, the State waiving the right. He analyzed the Washington investments and criticized the figures that the State's experts had put on the Washington properties. He declared Coblentz had provided in the financing to amply secure against loss. The line of credit which Coblentz attempted to arrange would have been granted under ordinary conditions and as it was, there was no reason for the bank closing its doors, Brady contended.

State's Attorney Clark said there was no law in Maryland construing the matter of insolvency. He said a bank was insolvent when its assets were less than its liabilities and when it does not have reasonable expectation of carrying on its affairs. He said the Central Trust Co. was not solvent and went as far back as 1929 when he declared the bank owned deeds of trust which were 100 per cent of the values of the properties.

Leo Weinberg, for the defense, recited the law pertaining to insolvency, and read authorities, including a dissenting opinion of the late Chief Judge McSherry, of Frederick, and also a Wisconsin decision, which he said was analogous with the Central Trust Co. closing.

State Senator William Curran and former State Senator Robb, for the defense, will follow Weinberg, Robb to make the closing argument for the defense. Clark will close for the State.

Chicago Peace Parade Diverted From Stadium

Chicago, June 14 (A.P.).—A peace parade led by Miss Jane Addams, winner of the Nobel Peace Prize, was diverted from the stadium where the Republican convention was in session today. Fifty automobiles, Miss Addams in the first, started out West Madison street toward the convention hall, but were sent down to Monroe street, a block south of the stadium, by traffic police guarding the main thoroughfare.

Banners advocating peace were displayed, and most of the passengers in the cars were women and children, the latter exhibiting placards: "For our sakes."

Capital Woman Inherits $122,371 From Father

Special to The Washington Post.

New York, June 14.—Duncan E. Cameron, the son of Sir Roderick Cameron, left a gross estate of $160,-263 and a net of $130,700, when he died May 11, 1927, according to an appraisal filed here today.

The residuary estate, totaling $122,-371, goes to a daughter, Mrs. Mary MacLeod Mayer, of Washington, D. C. The bulk of the estate was in securities valued at $152,893, representing stocks and bonds of Cameron Estate, Inc.

Divorced Driver Agrees Not to Molest Heiress

Los Angeles, June 14 (A.P.).—Charles J. Challette, former Detroit taxicab driver, who married Elizabeth M. McAllister, oil heiress, within a week after she employed him as her chauffeur, promised in court today he would refrain from molesting her.

Mrs. Challette won a divorce from the former cab driver 56 days after she married him on grounds he had taken advantage of her and married her for her money.

Egan Is Accused Of Robbing Women

San Francisco's Suspended Defender Loses Move to Quash Murder Case.

San Francisco, June 14 (A.P.).—County authorities today accused Frank J. Egan, suspended public defender, of despoiling the estates of women who trusted him. Egan is in jail on a murder charge.

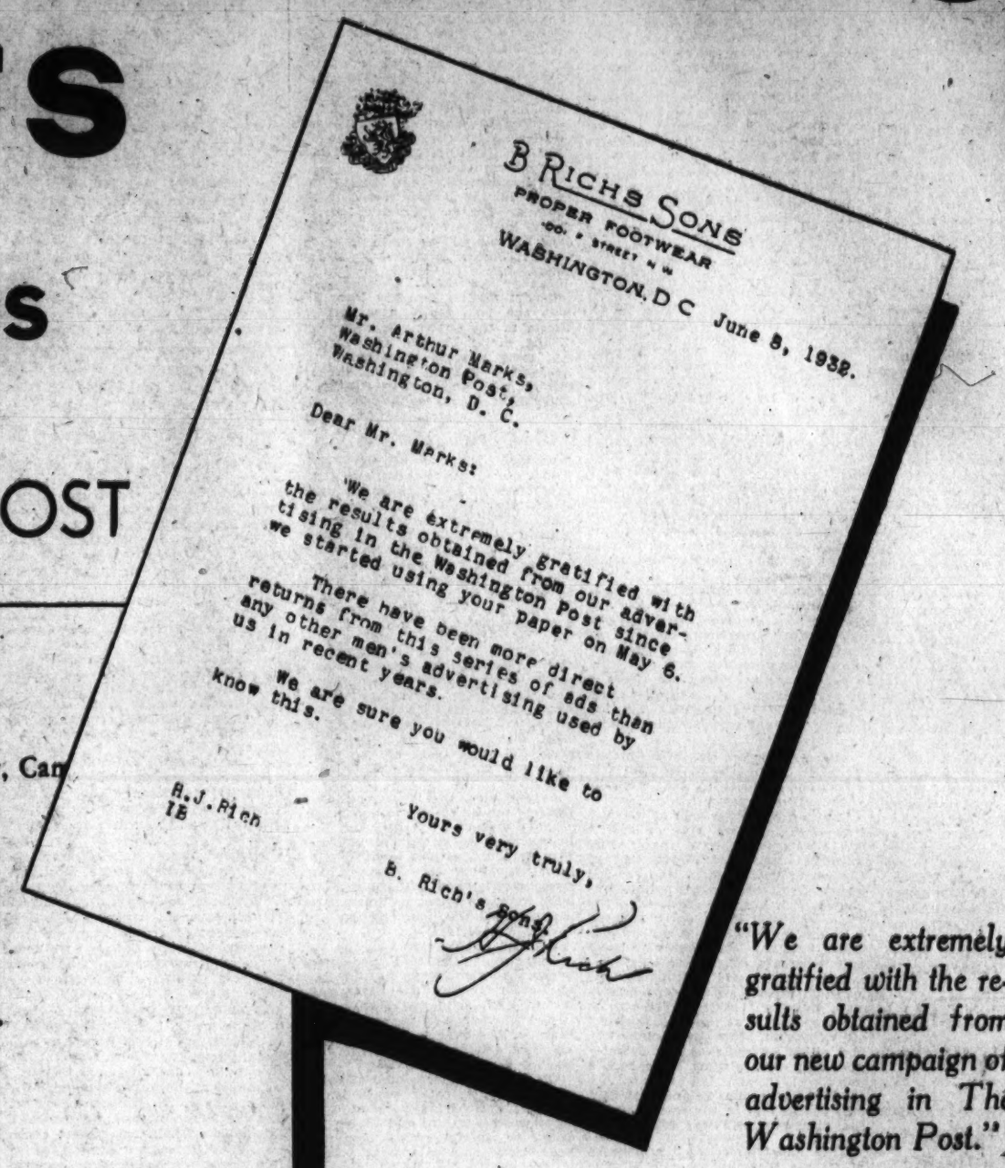

Superior Judge Frank Dunne, to whose court has been assigned the trial of Egan, Verne Doran, his former chauffeur, and Albert Tinnin, his former process server, for the slaying of Mrs. Jessie Scott Hughes, today overruled motions by counsel for Egan and Tinnin to quash the murder indictments on technical grounds.

Mrs. Janet Kent, friend of Egan since 1908, told District Attorney Matthew Brady she was the "Minnie Peyser" who handled funds belonging to Mrs. Katie Weber, and said she had done so at Egan's request. The funds, totaling more than $6,000, have not been traced, but Egan said he acted only as intermediary between Minnie Peyser and L. M. Hoefler, executor of the Weber estate. After the interview Brady told newspapermen "Frank Egan got $1,200 of Mrs. Janet Kent's money."

Dear Mr. Marks:

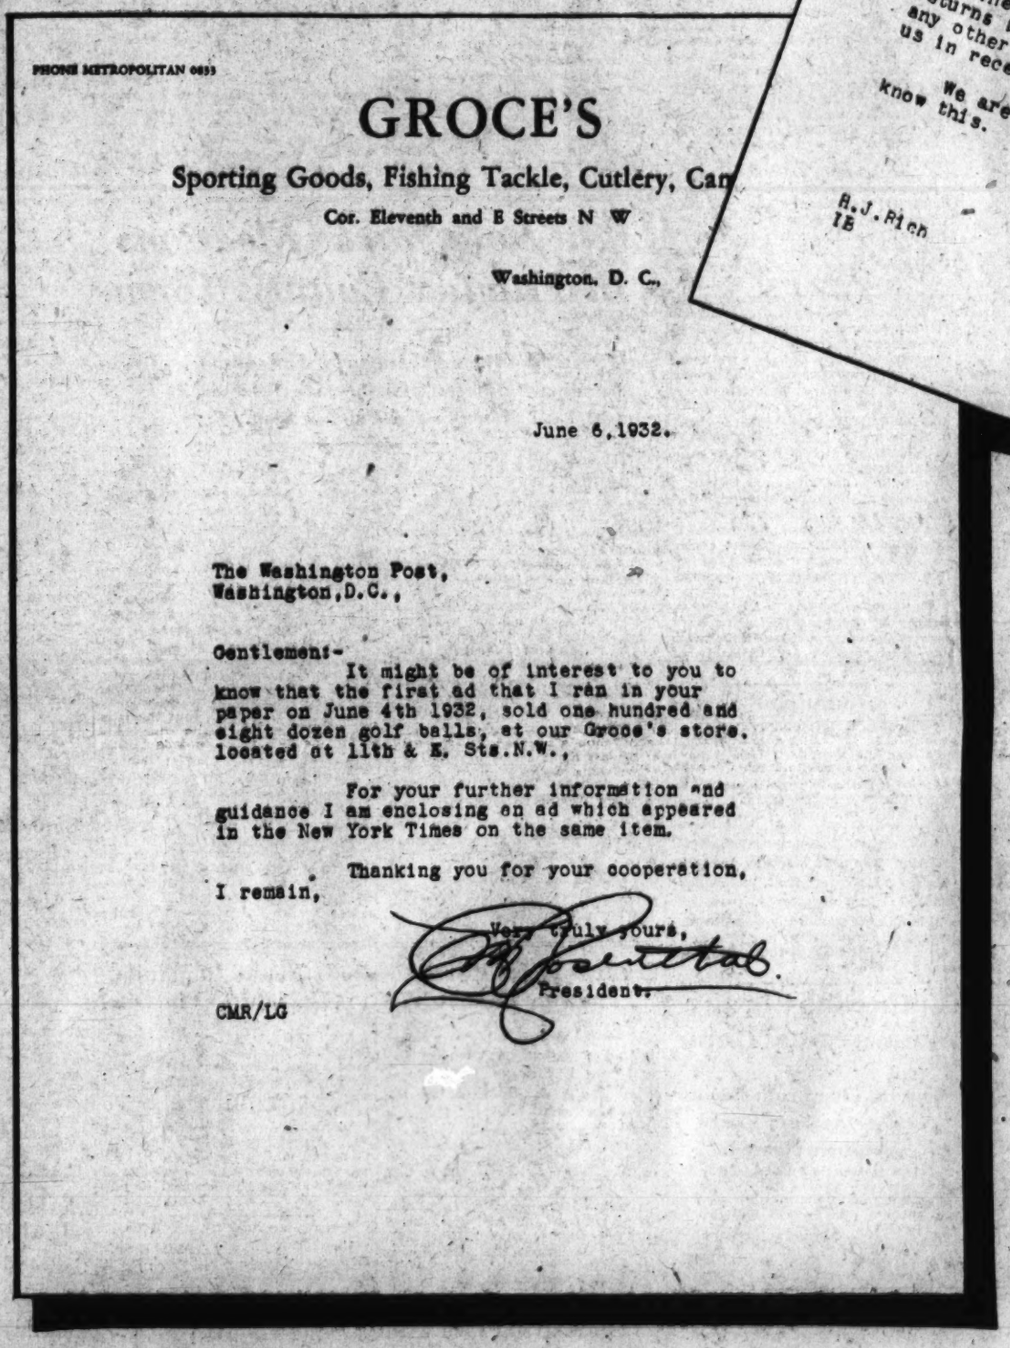

We are extremely gratified with the results obtained from our advertising in the Washington Post since we started using your paper on May 6.

There have been more direct returns from this series of ads than any other men's advertising used by us in recent years.

We are sure you would like to know this.

Yours very truly,

Gentlemen:-

It might be of interest to you to know that the first ad that I ran in your paper on June 4th 1932, sold one hundred and eight dozen golf balls, at our Groce's store, located at 11th & E. Sts.N.W.,

For your further information and guidance I am enclosing an ad which appeared in the New York Times on the same item.

Thanking you for your cooperation,
I remain,

Very truly yours,
President.

"The First Ad That I Ran in Your Paper . . . SOLD ONE HUNDRED and EIGHT DOZEN GOLF BALLS."

A ONE-COLUMN by 4½ inch advertisement, featuring a $2.98 golf ball item, gave an unprecedented golf ball business to GROCE'S store on the day of its insertion . . . B. RICH'S SONS, starting a new campaign of advertising, featuring men's fine shoes, in The Washington Post May 6, claim more DIRECT RETURNS than from any men's advertising used by them in recent years.

Both of the letters reproduced above were sent to The Washington Post without solicitation, in genuine appreciation of the RESULTS given by this newspaper. Before such testimony all advertising THEORIES must give way to substantiated FACT—The Washington Post can, and DOES, offer greater returns to the advertiser.

There are many ways of juggling figures in order to give a surface impression of greater advertising value—but of what effect can carefully prepared, naturally biased, supposition be, when compared with the actual experience of receiving direct and unparalleled returns from an advertising message published in The Washington Post?

From golf balls and men's shoes to $25,000 homes, The Washington Post is the logical medium for the advertiser—and the invaluable directory of appealing values to the reader . . . Honest circulation among families who are "able to buy" tells the story!

BRANDYWINE FAVORS MERGER OF SCHOOLS

Board Converts Deficit of $7,000 in Prince Georges to $83 Surplus.

A number of patrons of Brandywine High School yesterday told the Prince Georges County School Board they were willing to have the school consolidated with the high school at Marlboro or Surrattsville, and that they would seek indorsement of the plan by the Brandywine Parent-Teacher Association.

The board at its meeting yesterday also ordered the closing of four one-room schools, and heard a report that a $7,000 deficit had been converted into an $83 surplus since last January.

Consolidation of the Brandywine High School has been discussed for several months, due to a reduction in enrollment. Nicholas Orem, superintendent of schools, was directed yesterday to learn whether it was feasible to transport the pupils from the Brandywine school by bus, and whether there would be room for them in Marlboro or in Surrattsville. It is not expected that any opposition to the proposed consolidation will be voiced by the Parent-Teacher Association. The consolidation will go into effect next fall.

The four schools ordered closed are North Keys, with an enrollment of 16; Mellwood, 17; Piscataway, 15; and Fairy Springs, 13. Pupils from Mellwood and North Keys will be taken by bus to Marlboro, while the Piscataway students will have a bus line to the Oxon Hill School and the children at Fairy Springs will be taken to the Laurel School by a bus line. This change also will go into effect next fall when the new term opens.

The expected $7,000 deficit was met by not filling four teaching positions caused by resignations and by rigid economy in school expenses. Mr Orem gave credit to teachers in the various schools who took up added duties to aid in balancing the budget. A delegation of sixteen persons appeared before the board to ask that a third year be added to the present two-year course at Bladensburg Junior High School. The delegation stated that there was room in the school for the expected increase of 35 in the enrollment, which would be caused by the extended course. The board deferred action, pending a study of the plan.

Gem Theft Suspect Is Fatally Wounded

Alleged Member of Gang in New York Is Found Shot Through Head.

New York, June 14 (A.P.).—Sam Ippolito, 30, whom police said was a member of a gang which stole more than $300,000 worth of jewels from Mrs. Harry C. Glemby, was found fatally wounded in a sixth-floor apartment in West Fifty-fourth street tonight. He had been shot through the head.

The apartment was leased by a Helen Smith, who police said was a member of the same gang. The Smith woman, together with another woman and three men, were arrested in April by police, who recovered the major share of the $305,105 loot.

The Glemby home was robbed by three men on January 21. They posed as bootleggers, knocked a butler unconscious and bound Glemby, an art connoisseur and millionaire cosmetics manufacturer, and three other members of the household, escaping through a service entrance as a police squad car stopped at the front used to further the government's homestead projects.

The tax on employed persons, which is graduated from 1½ per cent up, will provide an estimated 400,000,000 marks (about $94,800,000), which will be applied on obligations in connection with the dole for the unemployed.

Another emergency decree, which will raise the ban on Hitler's storm troops, was to have been signed today, but it was delayed until tomorrow.

The regulation denying permission to followers of Adolf Hitler to use the German broadcasting system was lifted tonight and Gregor Strasser, one of the Nazi leaders, told the nation that the Hitlerite movement is "the political expression of the spiritual yearnings of a great epoch."

The National Socialist movement arose, he said, "as a protest against making a machine of man."

"While we are at present revolutionary," Herr Strasser said, "before we have taken over power we will prove ourselves conservers of the state in the best sense."

Among the demands of the movement he listed universal military training and obligatory labor.

Herr Hitler himself was to have been the first Nazi spokesman on the air, but he was busy campaigning.

Plane of Missing German Found.

Wyndham, Australia, June 14 (A. P.).—The airplane of Capt. Hans Bertram, German flier, who has been missing since he left Kupano, Timor Island, for Darwin, Australia, May 17, was found today near the Drysdale Mission, not far from here. A message found in the plane said Capt. Bertram and his companion had gone into the bush.

ABOUT THE SHOWSHOPS

With NELSON B. BELL

NOT to take the glamour off the romantic business of picture making, but merely to give an inkling of why the motion picture industry from time to time raises the plaintive cry of poverty:

The home, furnishings and personal belongings of a once-famous screen star were sold at auction in Hollywood a few days ago for a fraction of their original cost and real worth.

A director who lost his life's savings through bad investments and in the stock market is too ill to work and his wife is supporting him by converting their heretofore exclusive home into a boarding house.

The financial downfall of the Christie Brothers was related in court recently by Charles Christie, who disclosed that the chauffeur-driven car in which he was riding was no longer his property, that his Beverly Hills home had gone by the board and that he had been forced to the embarrassing expedient of borrowing money from his friends.

Many in Hollywood hearing these stories find it possible to shudder sympathetically, not knowing when they, too, will be caught in the pinch of the times.

These Christie boys, by the way, are among the Hollywood pioneers—popular with their fellows, evergenial hosts, sportsmen, dog fanciers and bon vivants. In their little studio during the past fifteen years have been made hundreds of two-reel comedies that have occasioned mirth around the globe, despite the maladroit remark of a certain convention delegate whose earnestness once gave him an inadvertent reputation as a wit.

Launching an enthusiastic appreciation of the value of the short subject to the average photoplay bill, this ardent orator made mention of the product of the brothers who now have fallen upon evil days.

A disparaging observation from a nearby auditor was unfortunately overheard by the speaker. Turning in righteous anger toward his heckler, he roared:

"Let me tell you, sir, these Christie comedies are not to be laughed at!"

But don't you think they weren't!

Then on the other side of the picture—just to prove that at least a few clouds really have those silver linings—is the story being told of the young woman extra who arrayed herself in a becoming gown (purchased with her last check—and the room rent still due!) and "crashed" a recent charity tea given by the Eddie Cantors. She hoped to meet and impress a director or two.

Immediately upon arriving, she was asked to replace an assistant hostess at a table of bridge. The three dowagers seated at the table neglected to inform the newcomer—who had all of 40 cents to her name!—that they were playing for a cent a point.

She became apprised of that fact only at the end of the session, when she discovered she was $62 winner!

"The Great American," a pageant of George Washington, will be presented in the National Sylvan Theater on the Monument Grounds the evenings of June 21, 22 and 23 at 8 o'clock, under the joint auspices of the United States and the District of Columbia George Washington Bicentennial Commissions, and under the general direction of Marie Moore Forrest of this city.

A cast of approximately two thousand Washingtonians will take part in the 12 historic scenes that make up this pageant, and in the symbolic prologue and epilogue, in which the Voice of America, first, summons Truth, Courage and Devotion to welcome the birthday of The Great American; and, later, summons the States of the Union, and the Defenders in Time of War and those in Time of Peace, to do him honor.

Symbolic dances will be a feature of the presentation, including "The Dance of Bondage," "The Dance of Liberty," and "The Dance of Truth, Courage and Devotion," all of which are under the direction of Lester Shafer and Marian Chace, directors of the Denishawn Studios of Dance. Dances of the colonial period will be presented by members of the Capital Society of the Children of the American Revolution, directed by Mrs. Henry Fenno Sawtelle.

Well known players of the city will appear in the leading roles of the pageant. The big chorus will be directed by Albert W. Harned; incidental music will be rendered by the United States Army and Marine bands.

Corbin Sheild, formerly identified with the Tom Moore theatrical interests in the Capital, later manager of the Rialto Theater for Universal and more recently manager of the RKO-Keith Theater, has become affiliated with the executive staff of Harry M. Crandall, former local motion picture theater magnate, whose latest venture in the amusement field, "The Pantheon de la Guerre," a panoramic painting of the World War and its most famous figures, will be thrown open to the public probably during the early part of July.

Mr. Sheild is directly associated with Elmore Leffingwell, in charge of advertising and publicity for the new enterprise, for which the site is virtually completed, in so far as the housing structure is concerned, at the intersection of New Jersey and Louisiana avenues.

Although perhaps not generally known, this colossal work of a total group of some 128 artists, which in the eight years following the war was exhibited in Paris to a total in excess of 7,000,000 admissions, has been safely stored in Washington since the latter part of February—or maybe it was the early part of March.

At any rate, the "Pantheon de la Guerre" proved to be the one biggest package ever to be transported from European shores to the United States. The main canvas had to be wrapped in velour, wound on a specially made steel spindle, and placed in a box built for the purpose, making a parcel that weighed 12½ tons and measured 8½ by 9 by 54 feet.

It could not be placed in the hold of any ship, or lightered in a shallow harbor. It went by truck from Paris to Havre, crossing the River Seine several times, and was then hoisted to the after-deck of the sturdy S. S. Paris, of the French Line, which in 5½ days laid the package safely down on Pier 57 at New York City.

On the trip to Washington a fleet of nine 6-ton trucks was used, the painting itself, however, heading the caravan on a tractor and trailer that called for special escorts over roads and bridges, under official permits, all the way to the Capital.

Besides the main canvas in its house-like box, there were 45 tons of equipment to bring with it. The whole caravan made a record-breaking unit as it passed over the highways into Washington.

After it has played to what he optimistically estimates will be 1,000,000 cash customers in Washington, it is Mr. Crandall's plan to transport his newest pet to the world's exposition in Chicago next summer.

There's a sort of a "Pantheon de la Guerre" over on the Anacostia Flats, too!

Two Robbers Gag Woman And Loot Vienna Bakery

The wife of a Vienna, Va., baker was gagged by two young men last night as they rifled the shop on Church street, in the heart of the town, of an undetermined amount of cash. They escaped in an automobile while persons passed unconcernedly about the streets.

The holdup men picked their time well. Most of the town was occupied with the firemen's carnival which was being held around the corner about two blocks away.

Mrs. John Koehnlein was alone in the baker shop about 8:45 o'clock. Her husband was at the carnival. The two men came in and told her they wanted to sell her some wrapping paper for bread. She replied that the bakery did not use the kind they mentioned. Then one of the men asked her for a package of cigarettes.

As she turned to get them one of the men threw a handkerchief over her face and told her to keep quiet. The other one vaulted over the counter and took all of the cash out of the till. Then the men ran from the store and escaped in an automobile.

Mrs. Koehnlein attempted to call the Fairfax telephone exchange and report the robbery but was so upset she could not tell about it over the telephone. Frank Gorham, who was in the exchange, ran to the bakery and heard her story and then gave the alarm. Mrs. Koehnlein could give no coherent description of the bandits.

SMOOT CLAIMS FURLOUGH PLAN HAS BEEN AGREED UPON

(Republican), Pennsylvania, denied Mr. Hoover ever asked this amount.

The misunderstanding caused by the Smoot statement was one of many that has grown out of the secrecy rule imposed on the Senate economy committee and the economy conferees. When other committees meet in executive session the practice has been for the committee chairman or some other designated spokesman to receive the press and tell them what has been done.

Senator Jones consistently refuses to deviate from his committee's secrecy agreement. He said, however, that no final agreement had been reached in committee, adding that he did not wish to precipitate a controversy with Senator Smoot by further discussing the matter.

Representative McDuffie, who from the first has held out for pay cuts, said he did not see how the Utah Senator could make such a statement when furloughs have not yet been taken up, except in an incidental way.

"He should know that the furlough plan hasn't got a chance of passing the House," he said.

Senator Bratton, when informed of the Smoot announcement, insisted the furlough-pay cut issue still is open. He estimated savings from the completed bill will be nearer $150,000,000 than the $131,000,000 mentioned by Senator Smoot.

The economy conference got off to an early start yesterday morning, but no session was held in the afternoon, to permit two of the members to participate in deliberations on the Postoffice-Treasury supply bill, sent back to an appropriations subcommittee by the Senate for a 10 per cent cut.

Comptroller General J. R. McCarl was called into yesterday's conference to clear up legal questions arising in consideration of the bill.

Budget Director J. Clawson Roop and Herbert D. Brown, director of the Bureau of Efficiency, authorities on the furlough plan and the various pay cut proposals, waited outside the conference room. They were not called.

Husband of Vanderbilt Niece Fails in Jail Plea

Asheville, N. C., June 14 (A.P.).—The latest husband of the former Mrs. Louisa Turnure, a niece of Gen. Cornelius Vanderbilt, has failed in another effort to escape the prison sentence upon him for violating the prohibition law.

Wendell Simmons, who was a caretaker on Mrs. Turnure's country place in the South Carolina low country, near Savannah, Ga., until he married her several months ago, was denied a rehearing by the Fourth Circuit Court of Appeals here yesterday. His conviction by the Federal District Court in Charleston was sustained by the Circuit Court recently. Simmons was reported some time ago to have entered the Atlanta Penitentiary to begin serving the 22 months' sentence he drew when convicted.

Electrical Fixtures Theft Plan Is Foiled

A man was charged with housebreaking and accused of attempting to steal more than $1,000 worth of electrical fixtures from vacant houses in the 2000 block of F street northwest by Third Precinct police yesterday.

An agent for the houses at 2004, 2006, 2008, and 2014 F street northwest told police he went to the houses and found that they had been entered and the electric fixtures taken down and piled in the middle of the floors, ready for removal. Pvt. E. Fillmore, of the Third Precinct, early yesterday morning arrested John William Campbell, colored, 27, of 618 M street northwest, when he went into one of the houses, according to police.

BIG LEARN TO SWIM CAMPAIGN PLANNED

Pool, School, Red Cross and Playground Aids to Give Free Courses in July.

It is a tragic fact that every summer the Potomac River and other swimming places near Washington exact a toll of from 20 to 30 lives. Every man or woman, boy or girl, who does not know how to swim might well ask himself or herself this personal question right now, "Is is possible that I might be one of those 30 to drown this summer?" If you can not swim, it is entirely probable, for most drownings are among those who do not know how to swim.

This loss of life, due to accidents in the water, can be materially decreased by education in the art of swimming.

The lack of the ability to swim rarely ever keeps one from taking a cooling dip on a hot summer day, and there exist many nonswimmers of all ages. The moment the nonswimmer steps beyond his depth he becomes panicky and thus often endangers the lives of others, for even a good swimmer finds it hazardous to rescue a terrorized nonswimmer.

The biggest learn-to-swim campaign ever to be scheduled in Washington will be held July 11 to 16 under the auspices of the Washington Learn to Swim Campaign Committee. The slogan of this campaign will be "Waterproofing Washingtonians" and is an intense safety measure to prevent water accidents in and around Washington. Practically every organization or institution owning or operating swimming pools in Washington and vicinity is cooperating in this community-wide endeavor. Pools for white and colored will be open for free learn-to-swim instruction.

This committee is composed of the following members: Ralph W. Foster, director, department physical education, Y. M. C. A.; Miss Irene Richards, Y. W. C. A.; John H. Burr, Howard University; Harry Child, Boys' Club; Pat Delaney, Crystal Pool; Arthur Greene, Twelfth Street Y. M. C. A.; Edwin B. Henderson, Dunbar High School; Winfree Johnson, public parks department; Ira Lee Law, District chapter, American Red Cross; Wilbert E. Longfellow, American Red Cross; Robert J. McCarthy, McKinley Pool; Walter MacPeek, Boy Scouts; J. Henry Polkinhorn, Ambassador Pool; Richard S. Tennyson, playground department; C. A. Kersting, Airport Pool; George C. Heon, Chevy Chase Pool, and Jim McNamara, Jewish Community Center.

Officers of the committee are as follows: Ralph W. Foster, chairman; Winfree Johnson, secretary-treasurer; Commodore W. E. Longfellow, chairman publicity committee, and Ira Lee Law, chairman registration committee.

Those organizations in Washington owning or operating pools who have not yet joined this citywide endeavor have been invited to participate in this campaign.

Mother of Aviator Seeks Death Probe

Says Robert Short Was Not Fighting When Slain in Shanghai.

San Francisco, June 14 (A.P.).—Mrs. Elizabeth Short, of Tacoma, Wash., mother of Robert Short, American aviator, shot down in the fighting at Shanghai, announced today she would demand congressional investigation of her son's death and what she called the failure of American officials in China to take action regarding it.

"I have positive proof my son was not shot down in combat with Japanese fliers," said Mrs. Short, who returned from Shanghai where she attended her son's funeral at the invitation of the Chinese government. "He was delivering a commercial plane when he was attacked by the Japanese airmen and killed by them.

"Consul General Cunningham refused to act. He even refused to see me when I arrived in Shanghai."

Timely Rescue of Hausner Described by Ship Captain

Flier Had Been Drifting Eight Days, He Tells Vessel's Skipper; Exhaustion Prevents Revealing Story of Crash; Saved Just Prior to Heavy Fog.

By CAPT. JAMES WILLIAM WILSON (Master of the S. S. Circe Shell).

S. S. Circe Shell, June 14 (A.P.).—"I'm Stanley Hausner. Save my ship."

With these words the Polish flier who had drifted miles on the Atlantic on his wrecked airplane greeted us when we found him.

He literally fell into the lifeboat which we had lowered to fetch him, and he was helped aboard my ship in an almost complete darkness.

"Thanks, very much, captain. I've been waiting for you for eight days," he said.

Then he collapsed.

He almost missed being rescued, for the darkness was falling rapidly.

It was difficult to see, but the lookout on the Circe Shell sighted something ahead. It looked like a drifting buoy, but he could make out some peculiar markings on the top.

Saw Figure of Man.

He picked up his long glass and trained it on the object. He saw then what he had thought was a buoy was really an airplane with its tail sticking up in the air.

Right away when he had told me what he saw I stepped to the engine room telegraph and signaled my engineer to cut the speed.

We slowed down and moved closer. We got to within 1 mile of the derelict and then I stopped the ship. We drifted and slowly closed in.

My men, watching from the rail, were amazed to see the figure of a man which seemed to be lashed to the machine.

We blew a blast on the ship's siren and the figure moved. He waved frantically. We could see now that he was not lashed down.

Right away I ordered a lifeboat away. It was manned by volunteers under my second officer.

From the bridge I watched them row away. When they were about 50 feet from the airplane they hailed him and the flier answered in English.

There was a rough sea running and it was getting worse and we were afraid the airplane might founder at any moment.

But my men were able to reach it in time to take off the exhausted aviator.

Found Just Before Fog.

Almost all of my Chinese crew had gathered at the rail in the excitement to greet the unexpected flier when he was taken aboard.

It was then 45 minutes after the first sighting and night had fallen. I endeavored to obtain a coherent statement from him as soon as he showed signs of revival, but his exhausted condition made this unfeasible.

Therefore we contented ourselves with supplying Hausner with his immediate necessities of water and food. An examination revealed only superficial cuts, bruises and sores, all external injuries and none of them serious.

At the time of my sending this radio the airman is progressing splendidly. He did not sustain any obvious internal injuries, but continues seemingly incapable of discussing his experiences.

It was amazingly fortunate we encountered him at the time we did, as by midnight the weather had turned hazy and four hours later a dense fog set in. Even when he was first sighted, the barometer was falling, the sky was overcast and visibility was decreasing.

Light Vote Marks Elections In Fairfax County Towns

Maj. Daniel Is Renamed Mayor of Falls Church in Principal Contest; Officials Are Selected in Vienna and Fairfax Also.

An exceedingly light vote marked town elections yesterday in Falls Church, Vienna and Fairfax. In Fairfax, only 60 votes were cast where the normal vote is usually around 300.

The chief interest centered in the contest in Falls Church. Maj. L. P. Daniel, mayor, received 191 votes for reelection. His opponent Torreyson Reeves, whose candidacy was sponsored by the Falls Church Business Men's Association, polled 161 votes, but it was discovered his poll tax had not been paid until March 17, and that even had he been elected he would not have been eligible for office.

In Ward 1, Benjamin F. Elliott polled 224 votes to 126 for his opponent, W. T. Westcott, for council. Both men are former councilmen. J. V. Turner, incumbent in ward 2, polled 203 votes to Clark Crossman's 149. Milton Roberts, with 188 votes defeated another of the Business Men's candidates, Lawrence Brown, in ward 3. Brown received 161 votes, but it was discovered that he was not a registered voter of the town and was not eligible for office, even had he won.

Thomas P. Chapman, sr., whose name was the only one to appear on the ballot for mayor in the town of Fairfax, received 52 of the 60 votes cast. Seven persons wrote in the name of A. C. Ritchie

Five candidates appeared on the ballot in the race for council. They and the vote they polled were as follows: James Nickell, 59; Edgar Littleton, 60; Lewis M. Coyner, 60; Albert R. Sherwood, 45, and O. B. Campbell, 59. The name of Dr. Ford Swetnam was written on the ballot by 21 persons and he was elected as the sixth councilman. Others whose names were written in included H. N. Clark, 15; John M. Whelen, 9, and B. F. Swart, 7. About 15 others received one vote each.

In Vienna, Edgar T. Bennett, present mayor, was defeated in a three-cornered race. The vote was C. E. Ashton, 44; Mr. Bennett, 30, and Arthur B. Ballinger, 25.

The four councilmen elected, and the vote, were Fred N. Hagman, 85; Joseph E. Berry, 95; John Paul Jones, 93, and Carl Allensworth, 87. Town Sergt. French N. Fritter, running unopposed, was elected with 96 votes.

Crash Injuries Prove Fatal to Woman, 70

Mrs. Mina Dennis, 4612 Forty-eighth place, died yesterday at Casualty Hospital from injuries she received in an automobile crash Sunday on the Defense highway.

Mrs. Dennis, who was 70 years old, was a passenger in a car driven by her son-in-law, Murray H. Boyer, when it was in a collision with another machine driven by Mrs. John C. Schafer, wife of the representative from Wisconsin. Boyer and his wife, Doris, were only slightly injured. Mrs. Schafer received a broken arm. An inquest has not been set.

Prince Georges to Aid Forestville Fire Unit

The Forestville Volunteer Fire Department was yesterday approved by the Prince Georges County Board of Commissioners, and will be eligible to share in the $15,000 contributed by the county to the volunteer departments in it.

The law increased the county aid from $5,000 to $15,000, provided that all new departments must have the commissioners' approval. The commissioners yesterday also voted to take over as a county road the present highway between Lohr's Hill and the District line, a stretch of less than half a mile.

Colombia Riots Subside On Arrival of Troops

Bogota, Colombia, June 14 (A.P.).—Disturbances which broke out yesterday among villagers of Rogonvalia, near the Venezuelan border, subsided today with the arrival of army detachments, said dispatches from that town.

Although reports had attributed the riots to the villagers' refusal to accept the nomination of a new mayor, later advices said they apparently were due instead to smuggling across the border.

Body Found in Manila, Half-Buried in Ditch

Manila, June 14 (A.P.).—Asbury J. Steen, of Glendale, Ind., was found dead tonight, half-buried in a ditch in the outskirts of Manila. Murder was suspected, although police were inclined to consider it an accident.

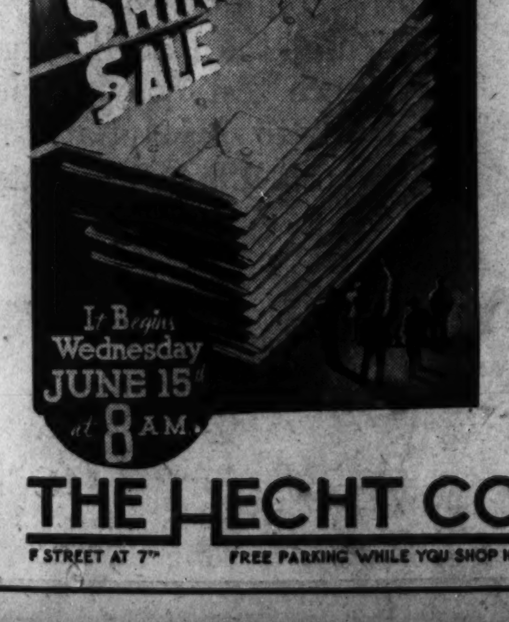

Steen had been missing since Monday. He arrived here in 1898 with Company B, Thirtieth Infantry. He was discharged from the Army in 1901 and since had engaged in business.

Spanish Crops Hit by Rain.

Madrid, June 14 (A.P.).—Much damage to crops and live stock in several parts of Spain has been caused by rain, hail and wind storms during the past two days. The region around Palencia was particularly hard hit and two-thirds of the crops were wiped out in sections around Saragossa.

PHONE RATES ISSUE TO BE ARGUED TODAY

P. U. C. Hearing May Lead to Compromise Offer of Reduction.

Employes of the Public Utilities Commission were hard at work yesterday preparing statistical charts for exhibition at the public hearing which opens at 10 o'clock this morning on telephone rates. The Chesapeake & Potomac Telephone Co. has submitted reports on its earnings in compliance with instructions of the commission.

Just what progress the utilities body will make in its effort to lower telephone rates is conjectural in view of the lack of any valuation figure on which the company's profits can be correctly computed. The commission plans to evaluate the properties of the telephone company in the near future, but meanwhile it will seek to bring about a temporary rate reduction.

The company is understood to claim a rate of return of only 7.8 per cent, or $2,250,000 in 1931 on an undepreciated base of $31,864,000. This base is the 1914 valuation plus net additions and betterments at cost to the present.

The hearing may lead to a compromise offer on the part of the telephone company as did the electric power and the gas hearings early this year.

People's Counsel Richmond B. Keech and William McK. Clayton, chairman of the public utilities of the Federation of Citizens Associations, will participate in the hearing.

Kentucky Sheriff Fired On at Mine

Christian County Official Is Decoyed by Phone Call; Escapes Unhurt.

Hopkinsville, Ky., June 14 (A.P.).—Men concealed in bushes alongside a highway between Crofton and Mannington tonight fired several shots at Sheriff Barrette E. Brown, of Christian County, as the sheriff drove along the road. None of the shots hit the officer. A posse was organized here and went to the scene immediately.

Sheriff Brown said the shooting occurred near Empire Mine No. 6, where Deputy Sheriff Wallace Myers was shot fatally last week in a recurrence of coal field labor disorders that brought National Guard troops into the coal fields.

The sheriff said he received a telephone call from an unidentified person, telling him that if he came to Mannington he would be given information of assistance in his investigation of the Myers killing. Driving alone, the sheriff said he had reached a point near Mannington when several shots were fired from the roadside. The shots came from a rifle and a shotgun, the sheriff said. They riddled the automobile.

Thugs Beat Woman And Steal $12,000

Enter Home as Salesmen; Escape in Auto With Cash and Gems.

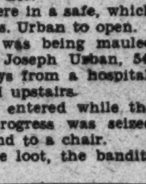

Pittsburgh, June 14 (A.P.).—Two gunmen who posed as salesmen forced their way into the home of Mrs. Julia Grace Urban, 53, today and escaped with $12,000 in cash and diamonds after beating Mrs. Urban and tying her hands behind her.

The valuables were in a safe, which the men forced Mrs. Urban to open.

While his wife was being mauled by the intruders, Joseph Urban, 54, home just two days from a hospital, lay helpless in bed upstairs.

A neighbor who entered while the robbery was in progress was seized and promptly bound to a chair.

BROWNS PUNISH NATS' PITCHING FOR 17-3 VICTORY

This Morning with Shirley L. Povich

LADEEZ and gentlemen, this is positively the last chance for Marty Gallagher to vindicate himself before a Washington prize fight audience. Marty has been given more last chances to stir the affections of Washington fight fans than any other eight fighters who ever performed here, but tonight is the last of the last chances.

Step right inside the Laurel Arena and see Marty in his last chance. It may be the last chance to see Marty before he makes good in a great big way. It is positively the last of last chances. Step right—snatch that boy crawling under the tent!

They have picked Bob Tow, tow-headed Birmingham heavyweight, as the stepping stone for Marty's bid to make good before a local audience at the Twin City arena, but Marty's foot can slip very easily in this fight, just as it has slipped in all his other disappointing last chances.

In the light of the bout that Gallagher and Tow put on in their three-round exhibition at Griffith Stadium for the benefit of the bonus army, there is no reason to believe that Marty will find the pugnacious Mister Tow a willing foil tonight in Marty's final bid to accomplish something worth while before a Washington fight crowd.

Marty left these shores five years ago with a bright pugilistic picture in the fistic major leagues painted by his admirers, but somehow Marty was never able to shake loose the plodding style that marred his efforts. He did beat two or three third-flight heavies, and was brought back to Washington at intervals for local fight fans to enthuse about, but his every outing here left them cold and quite apathetic concerning the fistic future of the pride of Foggy Bottom.

He's big and tough, but that describes him as far as effectiveness goes. He never boasted any native speed, and it was with some surprise that the audience at the bonus bouts beheld a Gallagher who was downright shifty for a big man. Maybe his fistic future has turned the corner with this mysterious display of speed by Gallagher.

Tim Charles, from a fighting family, a figure of the ill-starred days of the Arcadia Club at Fourteenth and Park road, is down to battle Reds Barry in the supporting feature of the Gallagher-Tow match.

Since deserting these climes for Western rings, Charles has fought more than 100 bouts, and returns a rugged 194-pounder. In Barry he will meet a former sparring mate and it is said that the love lost between the two wouldn't fill a Singer Midget's thimble.

"He didn't hurt me in the first and third rounds," Charles said. "I'd rather not talk about the second round."

More Power Shown by Sharkey

Says Vindication Is Chief Incentive in Schmeling Bout.

By EDWARD J. NEIL.

ORANGEBURG, N. Y., June 14 (A.P.).—A calm and tranquil Jack Sharkey, bigger, more powerful than ever before in his ring career, served warning today on the fight faithful that a great heavyweight battle impends in the new Madison Square Garden bowl on Long Island a week from tonight.

Entering the final week of training for his fifteen-round title battle with Max Schmeling next Tuesday night, the Boston sailor punched three brilliant rounds with Joe Sekyra, Bohemian light-heavyweight blonde from Dayton, to prove that his speed is all that can be asked, his punching and timing heavy and exact, and his physical condition superb.

Heavier Than Ever At 203 Pounds.

Sharkey is heavier than ever before in a career that extends all the way back to the days when he leaped into overnight fame by taming the supposedly "black panther," the Negro, Harry Wills, almost seven years ago.

He scaled 203 pounds after a 10-round workout today, most of it calisthenics, bag punching and shadow boxing, and he weighed 207 pounds before the drill.

But most of the added weight has gone into Sharkey's shoulders and today, as he blasted left hooks into the body of the flashy light heavyweight who went 10 rounds to a decision with Schmeling three years ago, the added ballast showed in his punching power.

There is a friendly, mature sort of complacency in the new philosophy of the Boston gob who is facing his last great opportunity as a heavyweight title challenger. He seems to have lost all the irritableness and bluster of the days when he was fumbling one great opportunity after another.

Says Vindication Is Sole Motive.

"Well, things have changed in the past year," Sharkey explained as he lay on his rubbing table. "When I was getting up there, it was a question of money, how much I could earn for myself and my family. If I lost there was always another chance.

"But this time I'm fighting almost for nothing. The only thing that interests me is vindication. I'm giving everything I've got to win this one. I know I can whip Schmeling. I'm going to do it so decisively this time there'll never be any question about it again."

He hurt Sekyra, a game, willing youngster, several times and easily matched his fleetness of foot and boxing agility despite a difference of 25 pounds in their weights. He also clowned through a round of boxing with Charley Anderson, Chicago Negro.

Schmeling 10-9 Favorite In Light Prebout Betting

New York, June 14 (U.P.).—Max Schmeling is a 10-to-9 favorite to retain his title against Jack Sharkey next Tuesday night in the lightest betting preceding any heavyweight championship bout in 40 years.

Jack Doyle, Broadway betting commissioner, announced the official odds today, quoting 3 to 2 against a knockout in the fifteen rounds, and 3 to 1 against Schmeling knocking out Sharkey, and 3 to 1 against Sharkey knocking out Schmeling.

"I expect the 10-to-9 odds to carry the men into the ring," said the veteran commissioner. "Of course, heavy money on either man might change the odds, but I think the professional gamblers will come in with their bets fairly evenly balanced about 48 hours before the bout."

IN DEBUT AS PRO

LEROY BORDEAU, Georgetown University light heavyweight boxer and star full back, who will launch his professional prize ring career tonight at Laurel in a bout with Henry Irving.

REDS DIVIDE BILL WITH PHILLIES

Lose First in 9th, But Pitching of Ogden Wins Finale.

PHILADELPHIA, June 14 (A.P.).—The Phillies rallied in the ninth inning for three runs to win the first game of today's double-header with the Cincinnati Reds, 6 to 5, but they couldn't beat Jack Ogden's seven-hit pitching and Jim Elliott's bad first inning in the second contest, and Cincinnati came through with a 5-to-2 triumph.

Chuck Klein hit his sixteenth homer in the seventh inning of the first game with two on base. In the ninth the Phils nicked Owen Carroll for five hits to win. Six of the first seven Reds to face Jim Elliott in the first inning hit safely, to score four runs before Harold "Ace" Elliott came to the rescue.

Heavies Hold Fistic Stage At Laurel

Gallagher and Tow to Renew Bonus Benefit Battle Tonight.

Barry Meets Former Sparring Mate in Tim Charles.

By JACK ESPEY.

HEAVYWEIGHT leather-tossing calculated to produce spine-tingling entertainment is offered Washington boxing fans tonight in Twin City Arena near Laurel where Promoter C. E. Cornell stages a 32-round card, beginning at 8:30 o'clock.

Four big boys are to furnish the action in a pair of eight-round bouts topping off the card, namely Marty Gallagher, 197-pound Foggy Bottom pride, and Bob Tow, of Birmingham, Ala., 192, who will clash in the finale, and Reds Barry, 191, idol of Southeast, and Tim Charles, 194, a sectional rival, who will meet in the semifinal.

Contributing to the outlook for slam-bang competition is the fact that bad blood exists between the principals of both bouts. Gallagher and Tow brought the spectators to their feet at Griffith Stadium in the recent bonus benefit bouts when they continued slugging after the final bell. Tow claimed Marty tried to knock him out in what was intended as a mere exhibition.

Barry and Charles Former Mates.

Barry and Charles formerly trained together in the Mohawk Club Gym, the former employing his opponent as a sparring partner. Last week they clashed in an exhibition at Griffith Stadium and Barry was so closely pressed by Charles that the fans gave him quite a booing when he received the decision. Charles later promised he would defeat Reds the next time they met.

An attractive six-round preliminary brings together Leroy "Ox" Bordeau, former Georgetown University football star, and Henry Irving, slugging middleweight of Northeast Washington. It is Bordeau's local debut as a professional boxer and many fans who watched his ponderous punching in college rings two years ago are expected to attend. Irving, purely a slugger, will have an edge in experience.

Another six lists Joe Bruno, Baltimore junior lightweight, and Harry Lennox, of Zihlman, Md., while a four-round curtain-raiser presents Billy Hooe, Mohawk Club lightweight, against Chuck Lindahl, of Pittsburgh. Bruno will be remembered as the winner of a sensational five-round joust with Mike Farrie in the Laurel ring last summer.

Tickets remain on sale at Vic's Sport Shop until 5 p. m., and thereafter at the arena. Women with escorts will be admitted free. Buses departing on a five-minute schedule from the Mohawk Club, 515 Eighth street southeast, will begin transporting fans at 7 o'clock.

BOXING BITS' SELECTIONS—Gallagher to defeat Tow; Barry to outpoint Charles; Bordeau to beat Irving; Bruno to down Lennox, and Hooe to conquer Lindahl. (Batting .739.)

Red Sox Use Sacrifice To Beat Chisox in 11th

Chicago, June 14 (A.P.).—Al Van Camp's second double of the day, followed by a pair of sacrifices, today gave the Boston Red Sox an eleven-inning 5-to-4 victory over Chicago.

Bob Kline, who replaced Bob Weiland for the Red Sox in the seventh with the score tied, held the White Sox in check the rest of the way, although the bases were loaded on him in the eleventh.

YANKS BEAT INDIANS IN SLUGFEST

Triple Steal in 7th Aids MacFayden to Win, 7-6.

CLEVELAND, June 14 (A.P.).—It took some of the New York Yankees' best hitting and a flashy triple steal to give Danny MacFayden his first victory since he joined the club today. MacFayden was officially credited with the victory as the Yanks defeated Cleveland's Indians, 7 to 6, but he was hit hard and finally pounded from the hill in the ninth.

The victory gave the Yanks the series, three games to one.

The Yanks were always on top after Bill Dickey clouted his tenth homer of the season after Ben Chapman had singled in the second inning, but the Indians, Earl Averill in particular, made plenty of trouble.

Averill also hit a homer, his eleventh of the year, with none aboard in the third, smacked a double to open Cleveland's ninth-inning rally in which he scored on singles by Vosmik and Morgan, and hit two singles.

Cleveland rapped MacFayden hard, getting fourteen hits, and sent him to the showers after Averill scored in the ninth. Eddie Wells made the next man pop out and then Walter Brown stepped in to whiff Kamm for the final out.

The Yanks hit Clint Brown pretty steadily through the middle part of the game, but it was a clever bit of base running that brought them their winning run in the seventh. Two walks and Chapman's single filled the sacks. Lary was hit by a pitched ball, forcing one run in, and then Chapman, Lazzeri and Lary worked a triple steal to bring Chapman across the plate.

Berger in Trade Rumors Involving Cubs, Braves

Chicago, June 14 (A.P.).—The old rumor that the Chicago Cubs are about to make a deal for an outfielder had popped up again today.

The latest candidate was Wallie Berger, of the Boston Braves, a strong hitter last season, but not so strong this year. President William L. Veech has conferred with President Emil Fuchs, of the Braves, but has not revealed the topic of conversation. The reports said a pitcher—not named—would go to the Braves for Berger.

Foxx Hits 2 In Athletics' 10-5 Win

Boosts Homer Total to 25 in Rout of Detroit Club.

Walberg Goes Route for A's as Sorrell Weakens in 5th.

DETROIT, Mich., June 14 (A.P.).—The Philadelphia Athletics unlimbered their heaviest artillery and shelled the Tigers into a 10-to-5 rout today, the barrage including Jimmy Foxx's twenty-fourth and twenty-fifth home runs of the season in successive times at bat. The victory gave the A's the series, 3 games to 1.

Vic Sorrell pitched passable ball for four innings, but went to pieces in the fifth when he was found for six hits and five runs, including Foxx's first homer of the day with Simmons and Cochrane on base.

Truett Banks Sewell, just recalled from Toronto, received his baptism of fire in the sixth and seventh, relieving Sorrell. He came through the sixth without damage but the first four men to face him in the seventh hit safely and all scored. The first hit of the inning was Foxx's twenty-fifth home run. Elon Hogsett finished out the game and allowed one run.

Walberg Goes Route for A's.

Rube Walberg went the route for the A's.

He allowed 10 hits, two of them doubles by Gerald Walker. One of those doubles came when the ball took a freak bound off the fence and was trapped behind the scoreboard.

Howell's Sub Par 70 Ties for Dixie Medal

Birmingham, Ala., June 14 (A.P.). Two youthful challengers for the Southern amateur golf championship—Billy Howell, of Richmond, and Eugene Vinson, of Meridian, Miss.—fired subpar rounds of 70 to tie for honors in the first eighteen holes qualifying round here today.

Playing over the west course the boys were the only contestants to equal or break par 71 and were 3 strokes in front of William Sadler, of Birmingham, whose 73 was low on the east course.

Sam Perry, of Birmingham, the 1929 Southern champion, and Charles Yates, young Georgia titlist, of Atlanta, had 74s, while Emmett Spicer, champion in 1926 and 1930; Julius Hughes, of Atlanta; Joe Adams, of Asheville, N. C., and Pollack Boyd, of Chattanooga, had 75s.

By FRANK H. YOUNG
(Staff Correspondent of The Post)

SPORTSMANS PARK, St. Louis, Mo., June 14.—"And youse guys are in second place" one of the few fans present yelled to the Nationals here this afternoon as they were being decisively trounced in the finale with the Browns. And one witnessing the pitiful exhibition put up by Manager Walter Johnson's men could really understand the cash customer's wonder. The sad figures were 17 to 3.

Today's loss, coupled with a victory by the Athletics, enabled the latter to pull up into a second-place tie with the Nationals and added three losses in four games here to the four-game sweep credited the Browns in Washington last month.

Monte Weaver, trying for his tenth victory, was knocked out early in the game and Fred Marberry and Frank Ragland, relief pitchers, also were mistreated by the native pill-pounders.

Blaeholder Scores Eighth Victory.

George Blaeholder, who generally has found the Nats easy pickings, was not disappointed today. He held them to seven hits and just breezed home in front to register his eighth triumph of the year.

Of the Browns' 24 hits, Schulte had a homer and two doubles, Storti a homer and a double, Burns a triple and three singles, Campbell a double and three one-basers, and Goslin and Ferrell each a brace of safeties.

West cracked out a four-bagger for the Nats, but it helped nothing but his stick-mark. Myer had two doubles and Manush two singles, to represent practically all of the remainder of the Washington attack.

The game was delayed 40 minutes in the second inning because of rain—just another tough break for the Nats, who would have escaped a bad licking had the weather man done his stuff just a little longer.

The Nationals started well enough, getting two runs in the very first inning when, after Myer had opened

Solemn, Thoughtful Rookie Is the New "Dizzy" Dean

By GAYLE TALBOT.

NEW YORK, June 14 (A.P.).—What's become of "Dizzy" Dean, the blustering St. Louis rookie who would sign up for a parachute jump on a moment's notice or tell you there wasn't a batter in the National League who could touch his fast ball?

He's disappeared, almost without a trace. In his stead is Jerome H. Dean, a tall, solemn young man who says very little.

No Longer Is Game For Reporters.

"If you want a story on my club, there it is," he said. "It's a better story than what I think of our chances to win the pennant or why we aren't any higher than sixth place today. There's a great young pitcher who has learned something the last two months. He used to be fair game for every reporter that came along, but try to get him to give you a dizzy speech now."

It seemed like a good suggestion. Surely there was a spark or two left in Dean, who devoted the last two years to winning Texas League managers dippy.

"How are you finding these National League hitters by this time Dean? Are they bothering you any to speak of?"

That, in another day, would have produced something good. But the new Dean only settled deeper in the upholstery.

"They're all pretty tough," he said, "you've got to have something to make good up here. My, how that Chuck Klein and Don Hurst knocked me about up at Philadelphia, and Bill Terry sure can hit that ball."

Not a word about Dean. The Cardinal system has attended to that. Even though the big fellow has been pitching fine ball of late and has won himself a place as a regular starter, he refuses to mention the fact. He merely expressed mild disappointment that it was raining and he couldn't take his turn against Brooklyn.

Choice Wins In Stretch Battle

Favorites Sweep All 6 Aqueduct Races Despite Going.

WASHINGTON Park, Ill., June 14 (A.P.).—I Say, 3 year-old daughter of Dis Dong, and ridden by Jockey C. E. Allen, won the top race at Washington Park today by a nose over Princess Camelia. The nose separated the two horses all during the stretch run.

Lady Couvin saved the short end of the purse in the seven furlong event. The racing strip was sloppy and I Say covered the distance in 1:26 3-5. The winner, owned by Albert Sabath, of Chicago, was odds-on and paid $3.24.

Renaissance Wins Aqueduct Sprint.

Aqueduct Race Track, June 14 (A.P.).—John J. Robinson's colt, Renaissance, showing distinct improvement over his last effort and a fondness for the slop and mud which prevailed here today, turned in a very game performance to win the Union Claiming Stakes, headline attraction of the card. The son of Master Charlie lasted just long enough to beat the Glen Riddle Farm's Tug o' War by a nose. Pardee, representing the Belair stud, was five lengths behind.

Favorites swept the card when Seb, at 6 to 5, won the last race by five lengths, giving Jockey Mills a double. Renaissance covered the 7 furlongs in 1:24 4-5 and was the recipient of a powerful ride from little Silvio Coucci. However, had Tug o' War broken with his field the son of Man o' War probably would have won. He got away in a tangle, but worked his way up inside of 2 furlongs.

JOE AND ASBESTOS

(Watch Sunday's Post for New Secret Code)

—By Ken Kling

Bide A Wee won yesterday, paying $5.35. The Jean Lafitte code horse also won. Inheritor, a long shot, lost. The roll went up only 5 cents and is now $45.13, but you can't go broke taking profits.

Economic, Lame, Now Out As American Derby Hope

CHICAGO, June 14 (A.P.).—The ill luck following candidates for the American Derby, $50,000 feature of the Washington Park season, which will be run Saturday, tonight apparently had caught up with the latest favorite, J. H. Louchheim's Economic.

After working the derby route in 2:10 in easy style today the colt appeared to be in good shape. About an hour later he developed lameness and swelling in his left foreleg, and Trainer Happy Buxton held only slight hope that Economic would be able to start.

Ill fortune of various kinds already has removed Burgoo King, the leader of the 3-year-old division; George D. Widener's filly, Evening; Mrs. L. G. Kaufman's Tick On, and Top Flight, star of the C. V. Whitney Stable, from the race.

Two-dollar mutuels paid—ROWDY BOY, $24.34, $9.28, $5.74; FLYING HOME, $3.48, $2.92; SUBTLETY, $10.08.

ROWDY BOY responded gamely to hard urging in stretch and, wearing down FLYING HOME, was drawing away at finish. FLYING HOME opened up a good lead in early running, but weakened in last sixteenth and was headed by winner near end. SUBTLETY was outrun to the stretch, then closed fast. ZONE raced wide and tired. TWEENY also tired badly in stretch. PLUCKY GIRL had some early speed.

SECOND RACE—Five furlongs. Purse, $1,000; claiming. For 2-year-old fillies. Start good. Won driving; place, same. Went to post at 2:49½. Off at 2:53½. Winner, Mrs. W. Crump's ch. f. *Field.

Two-dollar mutuels paid—BAGGAGE MISS, $22.52, $10.80, $6.02; VERUZZA, $4.70, $3.14; TIVERTON, $3.10.

BAGGAGE MISS dropped back after breaking well, but saved much ground by hugging the rail in the last quarter and, closing fast on inside, got to the front nearing finish to win going away. VERUZZA improved her position during stretch run, but could not hold winner and was being eased up in last few strides. TIVERTON, rushed into contention early, faltered when challenged after getting to front in stretch.

THIRD RACE—Mile and seventy yards (out of chute). Purse, $1,000; claiming. For 3-year-olds and upward. Start good. Won driving; place, same. Went to post at 3:27½. Off at 3:27½. Winner, S. Peabody's b. g. (7), by Sweep On—Rosa Lee. Trained by R. McGarvey. Value to winner, $750; second, $150; third, $75; fourth, $25. Time, 0:23 4-5, 0:48 3-5, 1:15 1-5, 1:41 4-5, 1:46 1-5.

| HAPPY PLAY | 104 | 3 | 4 | $1^h$ | 1½ | $6^1$ | 8 | 8 | Kacala | 56.92 |

Two-dollar mutuels paid—MARTIE FLYNN, $8.18, $4.78, $4.28; GRAND PRINCE, $7.00, $4.80; EL PUMA, $3.82.

MARTIE FLYNN, eased up when in close quarters on far turn, moved into contention approaching stretch bend and, finding an opening in stretch, came through to win under urging. GRAND PRINCE raced well up and took short lead after entering stretch, but could not last. EL PUMA, although racing wide in stretch, finished well.

FOURTH RACE—Mile and seventy yards (out of chute). Purse, $1,000; claiming. For 3-year-olds and upward. Start good. Won easily; place, driving. Went to post at 3:57. Off at 3:58. Winner, B. Creech's ch. c. (4), by The Porter—Codina. Trained by B. Parke. Value to winner, $750; second, $150; third, $75; fourth, $25. Time, 0:23 1-5, 0:47 2-5, 1:13 2-5, 1:42 2-5, 1:47.

| TOWN LIMIT | 103 | 1 | 6 | $1^h$ | $2^h$ | $5^3$ | $5^1$ | $7^4$ | L. Fischer | 15.96 |
| SOPHIST | 109 | 4 | 3 | $3^h$ | $6^3$ | 8 | 8 | 8 | Pollard | 11.80 |

Two-dollar mutuels paid—PORTCODINE, $6.64, $3.50, $2.66; LADY DEAN, $3.58, $3.16; MODERATION, $10.38.

PORTCODINE, close up from start, moved up to front after going half the distance and, opening up a long lead approaching stretch turn, was never in danger thereafter. LADY DEAN raced gamely through stretch and held MODERATION. Latter showed a good effort in going and might have fared better under stronger handling.

FIFTH RACE—Seven furlongs (out of chute). Purse, $1,000; allowances. For 3-year-old fillies. Start good. Won driving; place, same. Went to post at 4:26. Off at 4:27. Winner, A. Sabath's b. f. (3), by Dis Done—Aloft. Trained by J. Lowenstein. Value to winner, $750; second, $150; third, $75; fourth, $25. Time, 0:23, 0:46 2-5, 1:12 2-5, 1:26 3-5.

| PEGGY LEHMANN | 106 | 2 | 4 | $4^2$ | $4^8$ | $4^2$ | $3^1$ | 5 | Meade | 11.05 |

Two-dollar mutuels paid—I SAY, $3.24, $2.36, $2.24; PRINCESS CAMELIA, $2.62, $2.22; LADY COUVIN, $3.00.

I SAY took a short lead soon after the start and, although racing wide at the stretch turn, held sway to end and won when Allen outgeneraled Critchfield on PRINCESS CAMELIA. Latter was on outside of the winner all the way and was carried out in stretch, but finished well and barely missed.

SIXTH RACE—One and one-eighth miles. Purse, $1,000; claiming. For 3-year-olds and upward. Start good. Won driving; place, same. Went to post at 4:53. Off at 4:53½. Winner, Mrs. F. A. Carreaud's b. h. (5), by Sand Mole—Jeanne Bowdre. Trained by W. W. Taylor. Value to winner, $750; second, $150; third, $75; fourth, $25. Time, 0:26, 0:52 2-5, 1:18 2-5, 1:43 3-5, 1:57 2-5.

| GARLIC | 114 | 5 | 5 | 5 | $4^h$ | 5 | 5 | 5 | Tromberle | 10.36 |

Two-dollar mutuels paid—JEAN LAFITTE, $3.12, $2.74, $2.38; BUB M'FARLAND, $5.58, $3.90; PLAYDALE, $3.12.

JEAN LAFITTE set the early pace under restraint, responded gamely to hard riding in last furlong and held BUB M'FARLAND. Latter, showing improvement, made a strong bid in the stretch, but was not good enough. PLAYDALE showed good form and was close up throughout.

SEVENTH RACE—One and one-eighth miles. Purse, $1,000; claiming. For 3-year-olds. Start good. Won easily; place, driving. Went to post at 5:21. Off at 5:24. Winner, C. W. Ogle's ch. c. (3), by Captain Alcock—Lament. Trained by owner. Value to winner, $750; second, $150; third, $75; fourth, $25. Time, 0:24, 0:48 3-5, 1:15, 1:42 3-5, 1:57 4-5.

Two-dollar mutuels paid—CAPTAIN ED $15.02, $9.60, $5.68; PREFER, $10.86, $7.98; BALDERDASH, $8.06.

CAPTAIN ED went to the front rounding first turn and, racing well in the going, held sway to the end to win easily. PREFER was always closest to the winner and held on well. BALDERDASH made up ground to finish gamely. DONNA DEAR came fast in last quarter, but did not threaten the leaders. FLYING tired in stretch.

Dead Heat in Ascot Stakes Watched by King and Queen

ASCOT, England, June 14 (A.P.).—A thrilling dead heat, the first in nearly a century of renewals of the famous Ascot Stakes, today accompanied the pageantry that annually marks the opening of Royal Ascot, most aristocratic of the British race courses.

In the presence of the king and queen and other members of the royal family, Sandy Lashes, owned by Mrs. L. W. S. Long, and son of Mint, sporting the silks of J. Brown, finished the rich 2-mile test on even terms. Four lengths behind trailed Roide Paris, third in the field of 24.

The result was popular with the crowd, as Sandy Lashes was well backed at 100 to 6 and Son of Mint at 100 to 8. Owners of the two horses divided the purse of £2,000.

The fashionable display was one of many hues. Some of England's most notable women, attired in summery chiffons, with picture hats, were there accompanied by gentlemen who favored traditional gray garb.

The king and queen, with other members of the royal family, entered in state—a distinctive feature of Royal Ascot since the reign of George IV, in 1820.

Second in interest to the Ascot Stakes, the Gold Vase, also run over 2 miles, went to Mrs. C. Rich's Silvermere. The winner paid 100 to 6. Only a head separated Silvermere from Edward Esmond's Fox Hunter, with the Aga Khan's Taj Kasra third.

AT THE POST

with Bill Bennings

DEAR AL: WASHINGTON PARK.

We don't care if the Republicans are wet or dry, what we want to know is whether the track is fast or slow and whether our horses are hot or cold. Had two winners yesterday but nothing to get excited over. Portcodine and Martie Flynn turned the trick as I said they would. Others piled into the money but they fail to count on my score sheet.

But were you with me on Bokie B at Long Branch that paid off at $51.90 for $2 win tickets?

Today, I'm offering a few for your kind consideration at other tracks: Gen. Lejeune, Consummation, Frumper, Donny Johnny and Paddock. BILL.

FIRST RACE—BONNIE CAP gets another chance from me in this maiden test and I believe it is the spot. BIMINI is a fast breaker who has worked well. Has a good post. The Greentree entry of SIZZLING and NEXT CALL for third.

SECOND RACE—DIS DAT, with indications that the track will be slow, should have little trouble taking care of this field. Has shown speed at distances from 6 furlongs to a mile. BRAVE AND BOLD may run his race and make the son of Dis Donc travel to take the big award. Third honors to OUR GRIEF.

THIRD RACE — B'AR HUNTER drops weight and I believe he and Jimmy Smith will add another victory. Likes the distance and the track. UNCOMMON GOLD has been working well and should hold second safe from ERVAST.

FOURTH RACE—CON AMORE may not be the sprinter that burned up the tracks last year, but I believe that light impost will have a telling effect in this field. CON AMORE has CAMP BOSS to beat. The latter was a good one last out. FLAG BEARER to hold the rest safe.

FIFTH RACE—SUN FIRE will like the track and, off his races, can take this group into camp. GABBO has a brilliant record and should account for the place money. ORMONTIME for third and an outside chance to upset the top pair.

SIXTH RACE—TYPHOON likes the mud and may be the dangerous one in this field. Carries top weight of 115 pounds, but I don't believe this will make much difference. UNCLE HENRY is a contender, along with KENTUCKY ACE.

SEVENTH RACE — SEARINGTON was once a slow-track specialist. Failed to find speed lately, but is reported to have worked well the other mornngi. Giving this one a chance to step down at telephone numbers. JUNIOR C for second and CHEHALIS for third.

CAPITAL MAN SAILS WITH CUP TEAM

L. E. Baker to Direct U. S. Tennis Squad at Wimbledon.

LAWRENCE E. BAKER, chairman of the tennis committee at the Chevy Chase Club and secretary of the United States Lawn Tennis Association, left New York last night on the Europa with the American Davis Cup Team. In th party were Wilmer Allison, John Van Ryn, Mr. and Mrs. Frank X. Shields, Dwight W. Davis and family, and James Stewart Cushman, Newport tennis official.

Baker will have complete charge of the American players in the Wimbledon tournament. The Europa is scheduled to dock at Southampton next Monday, the day Wimbledon opens. The American representation at the famous English tournament will be Ellsworth Vines, Helen Wills Moody, Wilmer Allison, Frank Shields, John Van Ryn, Gregory Mangin and Sidney B. Wood. Vines will not play in the doubles. Van Ryn and Allison will team, as will Mangin and Wood. Shields will play with P. D. B. Spence, South African player.

Prentice, Dixon To Join Team.

Bernon S. Prentice and Fitz Eugene Dixon, nonplaying captains, will join the team later. The American team, which beat Canada, Mexico, Australia and Brazil on this side of the ocean, meets the winner of the European zone at the Roland Garros Stadium in Paris, July 22, 23 and 24.

In the Wake Of the Game

SPORTSMANS PARK, St. Louis, Mo., June 14.—Immediately after today's game the Nationals hustled for Union Station for a train to Detroit, where four games will be played in five days, Friday being listed as an open date. It will be up to "Gen." Alvin Crowder to start the Nats off with a victory tomorrow.

Only two games were played with the Tigers on their last visit to Washington and the Nationals took the decision both times. Manager Buckey Harris has been feeding his Tigers plenty of meat since then, however, and they have been playing heads-up ball and promise the Nats plenty of trouble.

All during the time the two teams were practicing today the sun was shining brightly, but it was thundering and lightning in the northwest and conditions looked anything but favorable when play started, and there was a 40-minute delay in the home half of the second while Old Jup Pluv shed a few tears.

None of Weaver's games is complete without a wild pitch, it seems, and he uncorked one in the first, with Schulte on third, to cost him a run.

In the second inning, Levey went back to the fringe of grass to make a fine stop of Bluege's roller and throw him out at first.

Alphonse (Tommy) Thomas, right-hander veteran pitcher recently purchased from the White Sox, reported to Manager Johnson today and took a long warm up before this afternoon's game. He probably will draw his first Nat starting assignment in the Detroit series.

Blaeholder so completely fooled Weaver on a curve ball opening the third that he struck at it despite the fact that it hit him almost full in the stomach.

Spencer hurried afer Campbell's tipped ball in the third and slipped in the mud, giving the small gathering of fans quite a laugh.

Play was delayed while a towel was sent him so he could wipe the "goo" off his arms and glove.

Ferrell's single in the third was the fifth successive hit made by the Browns off Weaver and Marberry with none out.

While relieving Marberry with Ragland, Manager Johnson protested against continuing play. It was raining then and had been since the second, and the infield was a quagmire.

Manush raced back to make a good gloved-hand grab of Schulte's long looper in the fifth.

Ground conditions became so bad in the sixth that Base Umpire Guthrie could not see the sacks and he stopped play while they were whitened.

Schulte raced back almost to the stands in deep center to rob Bluege of an extra-base hit, opening the seventh.

with a double and advanced on an out. West propelled a looper to the top of the stands in right. The Browns got one of these back in their half on Schulte's double, an out, and Weaver's wild pitch, and then stepped out to score four times in the third and three times in the fourth.

In the Nats' third, Melillo knocked down Manush's roller on which Weaver, who had been hit and advanced on a sacrifice, would have scored, and then the pitcher was picked off third for no reason at all.

Weaver probably was still wondering how it happened when he went to the hill, and Schulte knotted the string by poling a round-tripper into the center field stands. Then came four successive singles, two after Marberry had relieved the starter, to net two more runs, while Marberry forced home the other by walking Blaeholder with the sacks loaded.

Browns Purposely Get Out on Bases.

When successive singles by Burns, Campbell and Goslin opened round 4, Ragland succeeded Marberry and granted another one-shot. These, together with an error charged to Myer for not covering second to take Spencer's good throw, netted three runs, and the Browns, fearing play might be stopped because of rain, helped the Nats get them out by slowing up so that Melillo's bunt to Ragland could be turned into a double play.

The Nats pepped up a little in the seventh and scored once. With one out Spencer walked and gave away to Maple on the bases, and Ragland's single and Myer's second double netted the marker. A bad "break" cost them at least two more, Blaeholder making a lucky stab to knock down Manush's liner as it was heading for center. It took but one blow for the Browns to get this run back, Storti opening the home half with a four-bagger over the right field stands. Just for luck, however, the residents added five more runs, with Storti also getting a double before the round ended.

Italy Clinches Davis Cup Victory Over Swiss

Montreaux, Switzerland, June 14 (A.P.).—The Italian Davis Cup Team today defeated Switzerland, 3 matches to 2, entering the semifinal round of the European zone.

After splitting the first two singles matches and winning the doubles, the Italians clinched the series when Palmieri defeated C. F. Aeschliman, 6—3, 6—1, 7—5. H. C. Fisher, ace of the Swiss Team, turned back George de Stefani in the final match, 3—6, 0—6, 9—7, 8—6, 8—6.

NET CHOP STROKE RARE HERE

Young Stars Rely on Flat Drives

McLean, Jacob Favorites in Boys, Juniors Tourney.

By BOB CONSIDINE.

THE chop stroke, that old reliable undercut delivery which every novice in tennis falls into, seems to have disappeared from the stroking kits of Washington's current crop of junior and boy players, if the youthful championships now being contested at Wardman Park Hotel can be used as a faithful example.

So far have the boys gotten away from undercutting their shots, and so rare is a good chop stroke becoming in Washington, that a kid who could hook the ball in good style probably could win either the boys or the junior tournament, and probably both, for not one of the youngsters remaining in the two tournaments has had to face skidding shots perhaps in his entire tennis career.

Professionals Decry Chop Stroke.

The chop stroke is the most maligned method of hitting a ball known to mankind, and also one of the most effective. Most of the boys left in the Wardman tournament have been coached by professionals, none of whom allows a chop stroke around the premises. Johnnie Doeg was one of the few players who ever gained top honors in American tennis without the use of top-spin drives, and with the use of undercut strokes, and his quick descent into the ranks of the lesser lights is looked upon as a distinct moral victory by the champions of top-spin and flat driving.

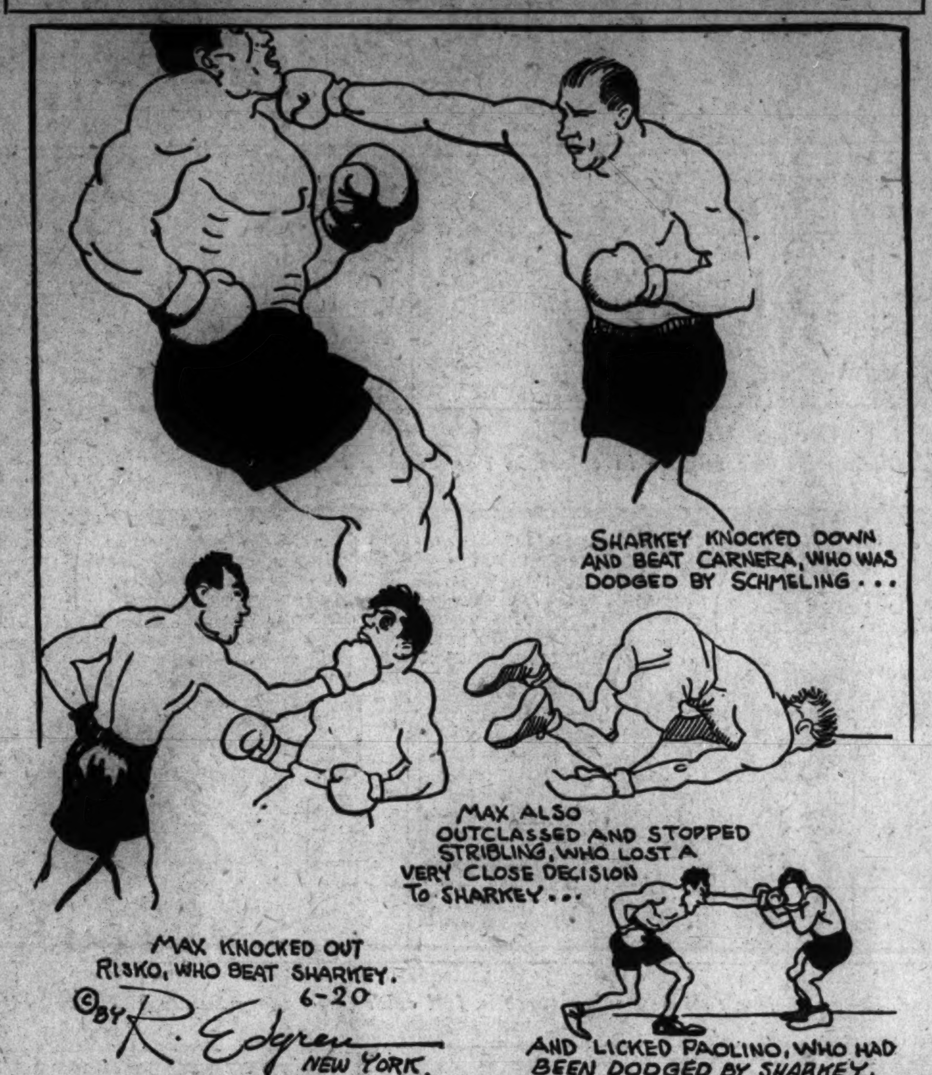

The 50 or so boys who started out last Saturday in quest of the District titles now held by Gilbert Hunt and Charles Daly, are products of the great French invasion of American tennis, back in 1927, [illegible]her they know it or not. They, like the French, depend more on steadiness than on speed to win. They meet the ball with flat, easy strokes, in sharp contrast to their brothers of 1925—Dooly Mitchell, Fred Do[illegible], Fred Dodge, Benny Detweiler and several others.

McLean, Jacob, Favorites.

It so happens that the two smoothest players in the meet are the favorites in their respective sections. Ned McLean is looked upon as the probable winner of the boys' tournament. His strokes are exact replicas of those of his professional, Paul Heston, one of the best known profs in the country. Happy J[illegible]ob is seeded No. 1 in the juniors, and is looked upon as a fine prospect. His "in the groove" backhand is one of the best strokes of its kind in the city.

Today's play opens at 3:30 o'clock with the following boys' matches: Ned McLean vs. Stan Dennison, Bob Doyle vs. Jim Holloran; Pete Allnutt vs. Maurice Rosenberg, J. R. Harris vs. M. C. Oliphant. An hour later the following junior matches will be played: Happy Jacob vs. John Yeomans, Kent Boyle vs. Al Sappington, Al Perkins vs. Spencer Howell, and Tom Moorhead vs. Henry Glassie.

D. C. WOMEN TRAIL GOLF LEADERS

Mrs. Meckley Cards 87; Mrs. Gross Also at Gibson Island.

Special to The Washington Post.

BALTIMORE, Md., June 14.—Mrs. E. Boyd Morrow, State medalist and champion, started auspiciously in the Gibson Island Club championship tournament today by carding the medal score with an 84. Her mark was closely followed by Mrs. M. Louise Bell, Rodgers Forge, former Middle Atlantic champion, and Mrs. William B. Hurst, jr., Elkridge, both of whom registered 86.

The defending champion, Mrs. Betty P. Meckley, Indian Spring, runner-up to Mrs. Morrow in the State affair, scored an 87 after three putting several greens.

Four 99s tied for the first flight. Mrs. F. H. Strickland, Rodgers Forge, was not present, so the other three played it off. Mrs. Jerome Sloman, Suburban, and Mrs. J. F. Gross, Indian Spring, won the two remaining places.

Although several other Washington women were expected to qualify, Mrs. Meckley and Mrs. Gross were the only ones to appear. More than 60 women qualified.

In the initial round tomorrow Mrs. Meckley will play Mrs. F. G. Dempwolf, of York, Pa., at 9:55 a. m. Mrs. Gross will tee off with Mrs. Hurst at 9:40.

Little Known Briton Extends Vines to Win

London, June 14 (A.P.).—Ellsworth Vines, jr., American tennis champion and member of the United States Davis Cup Team, was hard put today to defeat R. J. Ritchie, a little known English player, in the second round of the London championships at the Queens Club. The scores were 5—7, 6—4, 8—4.

The American ace lost the initial set after a hard fight but settled down to take the next two behind his powerful service.

MISS WALKER EXTENDED AT NETS

IN one of the finest women's matches played this year, Frances Walker yesterday entered the final round of the annual Women's District Tennis League tournament, by beating Mrs. Dorette Miller, 6—4, 6—3 on a private court, while damp courts at Columbia Country Club checked all other scheduled matches.

Mrs. Miller, playing for the first time in the semifinal round of a leading local tournament, put up a gallant battle before yielding to the biting chops of Miss Walker, who is seeded No. 2 in the tournament.

Matching her opponent's undercut drives with long top-spin replies, Mrs. Miller held Miss Walker even up until 4—4 in the first set, before dropping her service in a long and arduous ninth game which went to deuce many times.

A sultry day failed to detract from the speed of the match, which was marked by long rallies, and the brilliant volleying in the pinches of the eventual winner.

Today, at 4 o'clock, the other semifinalists, Mrs. Ruth B. Martinez and Frances Stone, meet to decide who will play Miss Walker in the finals. Doubles matches also will be played today, before and after the singles match.

Baltimore Black Sox Oppose Pilots Today

A colored baseball team long popular here will return today when Baltimore's Black Sox invade Griffith Stadium for an East-West League game with Washington's rejuvenated Pilots, starting at 4:15 o'clock.

Greatly strengthened by the acquisition of new stars since last showing here, the Pilots will feature "Mauling Mule" Suttles, first base; Dewey Creacy, third baseman, and Jake Dunn, shortstop.

Only recently Suttles, home-run sensation of the circuit, slammed a home run that measured 502 feet in Hilldale Park, Philadelphia.

PILOTS LOSE TO SOX.

Baltimore, June 14.—Mule Suttle's homer with two on in the first sent the Washington Pilots away to a good start in an East-West Colored League game before 1,800 fans here tonight, but Baltimore's Black Sox pecked slowly but effectively at the offerings of three Pilot pitches to win finally, 7 to 4.

GROBMEIER'S FOE LOOMS AS TEST

Whitefeather Threat to Lanky Matman's Prestige Here.

PITTED against but one outstanding wrestler since being imported to Washington more than five months ago, Fred Grobmeier, the steel-ribbed stringbean, will meet his second tough opponent tomorrow night at Griffith Stadium when he tangles with the rough-and-ready Chief Whitefeather, the tough-and-tumble former sparring partner of Max Schmeling.

Grobmeier defeated countless minor mat figures from the beginning of his Washington regime until three weeks ago, when he was tossed by Jim Londos in a spectacular match. Another winning streak for Grobmeier started last week against the easily vanquished Jim Blackstock.

Whitefeather is one of the most interesting of all the beer-barrel proportioned athletes who waddle into the ball yard each Thursday night. He does little or no wrestling, confining himself largely to inflicting bare-fist punishment upon the not-too-sturdy chins of wrestling heroes. He is most cordially disliked by wrestling customers, who hurl luscious and resounding razzberries upon the very sight of him.

Whitefeather Ired Fans Last Week.

Last week Whitefeather was disqualified for hitting Jim Corrigan with clenched fists, but when he tossed aside Referee Swann, who disqualified him, and began to maul his victor, the bout was permitted to continue and the Chief won a murderous chin lock.

Rudy Dusek and Jim Millen meet in a semifinal bout limited to 45 minutes, which is something of a disappointment to many fans, who still insist that something is proved by matches to a finish.

Berto Assariti, whom Joe Turner is attempting to favor in place of Fritzie Kley, the supple-boned German, meets Renato Gardini in a match which has been dubbed "for the Italian championship." If it results in a draw there will be five Italian champions after this—Assirati, Gardini, George Calza, Gino Garibaldi and Mike Romano.

George Kotsornaros, the reformed movie villain, and Frank Brunowicz, and Jim Corrigan and Jack Zarnos are listed for 30-minute exhibitions.

Ladies, with escorts, are free. Radio broadcasting of the matches has been postponed indefinitely.

Berlinger to Pass Up Olympics, Is Report

Philadelphia, June 14 (A.P.).—Barney Berlinger, former American decathlon champion and generally considered the country's leading all-around track and field star, indicated today he will not compete in the forthcoming Olympic games.

Joseph Labrum, director of sports publicity at the University of Pennsylvania, said Berlinger has entered business with his father, a Philadelphia manufacturer, and feels he should devote his time to industrial activities rather than spend two months in intensive training and competition in the Olympic trials and meet.

The track star was graduated from the University of Pennsylvania a year ago.

SHERID REINSTATED.

Norristown, Pa., June 14 (A.P.).—Roy Sherid, of Norristown, young right-hand pitcher belonging to the New York Yankees and who was sold to the St. Paul Team of the American Association last season, has been reinstated, it was learned today.

Sherid failed to report for spring practice this season and was placed on the retired list. His contract reverts to the Yankees.

A. A. U. Championship at Glen Echo Attracts Stellar Field, Including Lawrence, Bates and Ambassador Group.

WASHINGTON'S outstanding divers, both men and women, have signified their intention of competing in the annual District A. A. U. high board championship, to be contested Monday night at the Crystal Pool, Glen Echo Park.

Onalene Lawrence, who expects to compete in the Olympic high diving trials later in the season, will defend her title against the strongest type of competition. Miss Lawrence must call upon all of her diving skill to turn back the diminutive Lois Bates, her outstanding rival, and the girl who defeated her in the low board championships last month at the Ambassador. Lenora Taube and Betty Cates are the other contestants registered to date.

The men's division will bristle with talent, notably the Ambassador quartet of John Broaddus, Norman Smith, Vincent Gomez and Emory Wilson. All four are topnotch aerial experts. Broaddus holds the low board title.

Deck, Sendel Beaten In Delaware Tennis

Wilmington, Del., June 14.—Pat Deck and Fred Sendel, representing Washington, were defeated here today in the Delaware State tennis championship, the former by Berkeley Bell, of Texas, 6—1, 6—1, and the latter by Alex Kelles, of Baltimore, 5—7, 6—1, 6—1.

DR. J. W. BIRD HEADS MONTGOMERY GROUP

County Social Service Club Elects Other Officers; Finances Planned.

Montgomery County Bureau of The Post, 9103 Conn. ave., North Chevy Chase, Md. Telephone Wisconsin 4205.

Dr. Jacob W. Bird was reelected president of the Social Service League of Montgomery County at the directors' organization meeting yesterday at Rockville, Md.

Other officers elected were Robert E. Bondy, of Bethesda, first vice president; Mrs. Milton Bancroft, of Sandy Spring, second vice president; George W. Davis, of Silver Spring, treasurer, and Thomas C. Kelley, of Darnestown, secretary. Miss Willie Green Day continues as executive secretary.

The board discussed plans for meeting the heavy burden which the present financial depression has presented and for continuing the social work of the league.

The Montgomery County Commissioners yesterday completed arrangements with the Pinehurst Sanitarium, in Prince Georges County, for the care of indigent sick. The board also appointed Joseph Hoyle, of Dickerson, and Miss Helen Pyles, of Poolesville, as temporary employes in the courthouse.

Damages of $10,000 are asked in a suit filed yesterday by Lawrence C. Wormington, 6117 Thirty-second place northwest, against George W. Dow, of Silver Spring, Md. The petition charges that Mr. Dow drove his car in a negligent manner resulting in a collision with Mr. Wormington's machine at Thirteenth and Upshur streets northwest. Mr. Wormington alleges personal injuries.

William Wilson Gibson, of Chevy Chase, Md., was appointed administrator for the estate of his brother, the late James Guthrie Gibson in Montgomery County Orphans' Court yesterday. The deceased, who was associated with his brother in the conduct of the Gibson Co., surgical supply house at 917-919 G street northwest, died intestate last week. The estate is estimated at about $7,000 in personal property and real estate holdings.

The fifth annual tour of the Montgomery County 4-H Jersey Calf Club will be held tomorrow. The 23 members and seven associate members will meet at 8:30 a.m. at the courthouse in Rockville, and proceed to the farm of H. C. Letts, at Bethesda. Afterward the farm of each member and other farms will be visited. The tour is planned to inspect the work of the members and also to select tentatively animals Albert A. Ady, assistant county agent, will conduct the tour, accompanied by O. W. Anderson, county agent; President Hoagland Gates and R. H. Wills, secretary-treasurer of the Maryland State Jersey Breeders Association and H. C. Barker of the University of Maryland. Gordon Umstead, of Dawsonville, is president of the county 4-H Club.

Arrangements have been made by the dance committee of the Cabin John Volunteer Fire Department to feature an hour of interpretative and specialty dancing by Miss Georgia Snow and company, of Washington, at the fire department dance Friday night in the firehouse at Cabin John Park. Dances are given each Friday night by the firemen to aid in raising the funds for the building debt. J. C. Church, Francis O. Day and Clinton Magruder comprise the dance committee.

EARLY START URGED ON BRIDGE APPROACH

Rosslyn Civic League to Ask County Board to Avoid Further Delay.

ARLINGTON COUNTY. BUREAU OF THE POST. Tel. Clar. 509. Clarendon, Va.

Declaring that there can be no excuse for longer delay in providing an adequate approach to the new Memorial Bridge, the Rosslyn Civic League in session last night went on record urging the Arlington County board to proceed with the extension of Wilson boulevard or such other highway as is deemed best.

It was pointed out by many of those attending the meeting that the Federal Government has constructed a bridge connecting the county with the Nation's Capital costing $15,000,000, and it is time for the county to take some definite action to give citizens of the county an adequate approach to it.

The president appointed the following committee to appear before the board at its meeting Saturday and urge that steps looking to providing an approach be taken: J. R. Gibson, Fred O. Lake, C. H. Greathouse, Dr. Victor Meyers and C. F. Rauth.

While the extension of the Lee boulevard to Pershing drive will give an outlet it does not provide a direct approach to the bridge, Dr. Victor Meyers declared.

It was reported that the league, which represents the sections of Rosslyn, Park Lane, Aurora Heights, Radnor Heights and Fort Myer Heights, is leading all sections of the county by having more than 85 per cent of the residents' signatures to the petition asking that an election be held on the Byrd road act. It was further reported that the sentiment is in favor of withdrawing from the act.

With an agreement near on a slight change in the route of the Lee boulevard in the direction of Fort Myer, the connection with the military reservation appears assured, it was revealed yesterday. Should the proposed change in the route be agreed upon it is stated that the condemnation proceedings recently ordered by the county board will not be required.

According to Joseph D. McDonnell, of Clarendon, owner of the land needed for the connection, he and county officials recently were in Richmond where they conferred with H. G. Shirley, State highway commissioner. At this conference it is reported that Mr. Shirley stated that the commission would not object to a proposed change in the route if the change is approved by the National Capital Park and Planning Commission.

The State has agreed to construct the connection if furnished the rights of way by the county board. Mr. McDonnell says that he is willing to donate his equity in the required land if the new route is selected, the county board settling with the owners of the trust on the property for their equity.

Today is the deadline for taxpayers to pay their real estate taxes, thereby saving the penalty of 5 per cent plus 6 per cent interest, which will be added to all unpaid tax bills tomorrow, Charles T. Jesse, county treasurer, yesterday pointed out. Mr. Jesse's office at the Arlington County Courthouse will be open today from 8:30 to 4:30 o'clock.

Fight on Naming Of Clerk Dropped

Suit Asking Injunction Is Withdrawn to End Row in Capitol Heights.

The efforts of a Capitol Heights, Md., town councilman to block the appointment of Edward Hamilton as clerk of the town were dropped yesterday when an equity suit asking an injunction against the town council was withdrawn.

Councilman Robert E. Ennis had filed the suit, claiming that Mayor Thomas J. Luckett voted with the council to appoint Hamilton and that this was illegal. The suit was filed through Attorneys Sasscer and Burnside, who yesterday conceded a demurrer filed by Robert W. McCullough for the town.

McCullough's demurrer stated that an equity court had no jurisdiction in political matters and that Ennis, as a member of the town council, actually was suing himself.

Mrs. Charles Lane Rites to Be Today

Was Member of Montgomery County Social Service Board.

Mrs. Charles W. Lane, of Kensington, Md., a member of the Montgomery County Social Service Board, and active in church circles, who died Monday at her home after a prolonged illness, will be buried at 11 o'clock today at Rock Creek Cemetery.

Funeral services will be held at her home with the Rev. Thomas D. Windiate, rector of Christ's Episcopal Church, officiating. Born in Washington, Mrs. Lane has lived in Kensington the last fourteen years. She was the daughter of the late George W. Evans.

She is survived by her mother; her husband, who is a broker with offices in Washington; her sisters, Mrs. Clarence N. Walker, of Kensington, and Mrs. Harry Irion, who lives here, and a brother, Maj. F. C. Evans, of Washington.

Cup Will Be Given To Former Mayor

Davis Testimonial Meeting to Be Held Tomorrow in Takoma Park.

A silver loving cup and other testimonials will be presented to former Mayor Ben G. Davis, of Takoma Park, Md., tomorrow night by the residents of Takoma Park at a mass meeting in Takoma Firehouse and Community Hall, in appreciation of his 30 years of public service.

H. P. Ware will call the meeting to order at 8 p. m. and introduce former Mayor H. F. Taff, who will be master of ceremonies. The speakers will include former Mayors William G. Platt, John B. Kinnear and S. W. Williams, as well as Mr. Taff. Miss Dorothy Skinner will sing and musical selections will be presented by the Review and Herald Band.

CITY COUNCIL POSTS WON BY DEMOCRATS

Only 599 Votes Are Cast in Alexandria Out of 5,000 Registrants.

Democratic nominees were victorious in all of Alexandria's six wards yesterday in the election for city council. The total vote, 599, represented only about 10 per cent of the approximately 5,000 registrants. In five wards the Democratic primary selection was unanimously voted into office.

The Second Ward winner was Judge C. L. Barley, 90 votes; Third Ward, Michael T. Dwyer, 76; Fourth Ward, Nicholas J. Lawler, 90; Fifth Ward, Henry O'Bannon Cooper, 88, and the Sixth Ward, E. C. Davison, 64.

The Virginia State Aerie, Fraternal Order of Eagles, met in Alexandria yesterday in its twenty-seventh annual convention, with approximately 100 delegates in attendance. The session was called to order in the auditorium of the Virginia Public Service Co. by Henry P. Thomas, past president and convention chairman, after which the Rev. Pierce S. Ellis, pastor of the First Baptist Church, pronounced the invocation.

The delegates were welcomed to the city by Mayor Edmund F. Ticer, and a response was delivered by Edward Bigelow, deputy grand president of the grand aerie. The business session was presided over by Fred D. Jordan, State president.

In the afternoon the delegates were taken on a sightseeing trip to Mount Vernon, points of interest in and near Alexandria and Washington.

Last night a banquet was served at the Belvoir Hotel, with Thomas Chauncey, past president, as toastmaster. An address of welcome to the delegates was delivered by Judge William P. Woolls, of the corporation court, and the principal speaker was Judge Robert E. Mattingly, of Washington.

The business meeting will convene at 9 o'clock this morning, and the session will close this afternoon with the election of officers. The local committee in charge of arrangements includes J. R. Travers, chairman; C. E. Smith, Albert Schlag, Charles Martin, E. I. Young and Henry F. Thomas.

The three trees recently planted by the Alexandria Chapter of the American War Mothers, on North Washington street, near Montgomery street, will be formally dedicated at 4:45 o'clock this afternoon, the speaker being Col. William H. Waldron.

The trees were planted in memory of Alexandria soldiers, sailors and marines killed in the World War. Col. Waldron, who is now on duty in the War Department, was chief of staff of the Eightieth Division, and as such was responsible for receiving and training many Alexandria soldiers.

Through the courtesy of the commanding officer of Fort Humphreys, and of Robert L. May, who will furnish transportation, the United States Engineer Band will furnish music for the ceremonies, and will give an informal concert, beginning at 4 o'clock. Mrs. Norman L. Williamson, president of the Alexandria Chapter, will preside.

PARIS BANK CLOSES U. S. GOLD ACCOUNT

Nearly $50,000,000 Balance Earmarked for Export; Outflow Nears End.

By CLAUDE A. JAGGER.

New York, June 14 (A.P.).—An important phase of the redistribution of the world's monetary gold stocks was completed today, as nearly $50,000,000 in gold was set aside for the account of the Bank of France at the New York Federal Reserve Bank.

This was stated in authoritative banking quarters virtually to complete the transfer of the Bank of France's balances here into gold to be returned home, and it was regarded as definitely foreshadowing the end of the heavy efflux of yellow metal from the United States which began when the Bank of England dropped from the gold standard last September.

The United States has disgorged about $1,100,000,000 in monetary gold since September, and leading bankers asserted that the manner in which this had been accomplished, without creating a ripple in the American money market, was probably a feat without parallel in banking history, and should completely end any uncertainty over the strength of the American dollar, either at home or abroad.

It was explained that the Federal Reserve Bank had cooperated in every way to help European central banks to call their balances home.

Gold Stocks Reduced.

The monetary gold stocks in this country have been reduced from a peak of $5,015,000,000, reached September 16 last to a current level of about $3,900,000,000, which is approximately that of 1923.

Foreign short-term balances here have been reduced to the abnormally low level of little more than $700,000,000, in contrast to the high level of $3,000,000,000 in the autumn of 1929, when the bull market in Wall street had drawn funds from all over the world.

This reduction of some $2,300,000,000 in short-term balances since 1929, however, has been accomplished with a net loss of gold since that time of only approximately $400,000,000. Gold, of course, continued to accumulate here for some time after the market break of 1929.

Since the reduction of short term foreign balances here started, some 20 European central banks have increased their gold holdings. While the major part of the outflow of gold has been to France, much of this has also gone to the central banks of Holland, Switzerland and Belgium.

French Bank's Gold.

The gold holdings of the Bank of France have increased from approximately $2,300,000,000 last September to a current level of $3,600,000,000, only moderately under our own total, which is still the world's largest. The total stock of monetary gold in the world is estimated at only about $11,000,000,000.

England's inability to maintain the gold standard virtually put an end to the "gold exchange standard," whereby various central banks had maintained part of the gold reserves in the gold currencies of other countries, including our dollar. As a result of their experiences with their sterling balances, they began transferring other balances into gold, and pulling them home. One high banking official here said this redistribution of metal had greatly strengthened many foreign central banks, and put them in a favorable position to expand credit to finance world economic recovery.

The outflow of metal from this country has undoubtedly been hastened, bankers said, by fears of inflation here, as a result of rather lurid interpretations abroad of various measures in Congress, and the long time taken to pass our Federal taxation measure designed to balance our budget. But it is now apparent, they added, that no inflationary measures will be enacted, and that the value of the American dollar remains secure.

ANTIMONY—5.00.

QUICKSILVER—62.00@65.00.

Tariff a Copper Stimulant.

Copper trade circles hear that considerable metal is being rushed into the country in anticipation of the import tariff, which becomes effective shortly. Foreign producers are striving, it is said, to deliver here before the tariff goes into effect, all the copper they have sold for delivery during the remainder of the year.

SUPERPOWER QUITS DIVIDEND PAYMENTS

Delaware Law Bars Returns Because Assets Drop Below Stock Par.

New York, June 14 (A.P.).—Suspension of dividends on all American Superpower Corporation stocks, necessitated by provisions of the Delaware laws under which the company is incorporated, was announced today.

The law provides that no dividends shall be paid by a corporation if its assets fall below the stated value of the capital stock. On June 9 total stated capital of American Superpower was $59,503,885 while market value of its assets was $53,709,880. First preferred and preference shares are affected.

In making public for the first time a list of the corporation's holdings, President L. K. Thorne said the company had no debts, that it had more than $24,000,000 in cash and U. S. Government securities and that it still owned all of the stock it held at the first of the year.

Principal securities in the portfolio were 5,000,000 shares of Commonwealth & Southern Corporation common, 1,000,000 shares of United Corporation common, 59,790 shares of Electric Bond & Share common, 75,000 shares of Consolidated Gas of New York common and 54,634 shares of Niagara Hudson Power common. There were also large blocks of option warrants.

Total assets carried at cost amounted to $125,478,198 on June 9. The outstanding preferred stock had a liquidating value on that date of $99.46 a share. Dividends on both the preferred and preference shares are cumulative.

Western Union Passes.

Directors of the Western Union Telegraph Co. at their meeting today decided to omit the dividend due on the capital stock at this time. Three months ago the company paid $1 a share.

Western Union paid $8 annually for several years prior to the first cut in its rate in October, 1931. This was a reduction to a $6 annual basis, followed in three months by a quarterly declaration of $1.

The company's dividend record is a notable one covering 60 years in which stockholders never failed to receive some distribution.

The company in a statement said that results for the first six months this year will show that fixed charges have been earned without sufficient excess for a quarterly dividend.

Total working and current assets exceeded current liabilities, excluding bank loans, by $14,000,000. Bank loans amount to $1,500,000 and the company has no important debt maturity for a number of years, it was stated.

Virginian Railway.

Directors of the Virginian Railway today declared a regular quarterly dividend of $1.50 a share on the common stock, payable July 1 to stock of record June 18.

National Steel Car.

National Steel Car Corporation, Ltd., directors placed the common stock on an annual dividend basis of 80 cents by declaring a quarterly payment of 20 cents, payable July 2 to stock of record June 23. The company previously paid $2 a share annually.

New Haven Passes.

Directors of the New York, New Haven & Hartford Railroad today omitted the quarterly dividend of $1.75 a share on the cumulative preferred stock due at this time. Action on the payment had been postponed about a month ago. A statement said the decision was based on "prevailing business conditions."

The New York, New Haven & Hartford Railroad is not contemplating filing an application with the Reconstruction Finance Corporation for a loan at the present time, J. J. Pelley, president of the road, said today. New Haven's June traffic is running about 30 per cent below last year, and there are no signs of a pick-up in business as yet, in Mr. Pelley's opinion.

Standard Gas & Electric.

The Standard Gas & Electric Co. today declared a quarterly dividend of 50 cents on the common stock, placing it on a $2 annual basis, compared with $3.50 previously. The dividend is payable July 25 to stock of record June 30.

Pan American Petroleum.

An initial quarterly dividend of 25 cents on the new $5 par stock of the Pan American Petroleum & Transport Co. was declared today payable July 20 to stock of record June 30.

A. D. T. Dividend.

The American District Telegraph Co. today declared the regular quarterly dividend of $1 on the common stock, payable July 15 to stock of record June 15.

American Brake Shoe.

American Brake Shoe & Foundry Co. declared a dividend of 15 cents a common share payable June 30 to stock of record June 24. In the two preceding quarters the payment was 40 cents.

LEE, HIGGINSON & CO. TO QUIT SECURITIES

Boston Bankers for Kreuger Plan to Curtail Business; New Firm Looms.

New York, June 14 (A.P.).—The old private banking firm of Lee, Higginson & Co., which headed syndicates underwriting securities of the late Ivan Kreuger's companies, announced today that it planned soon to discontinue the issuance and distribution of securities and would largely withdraw from the deposit business.

A new organization, to be known as Lee Higginson Corporation, is to be formed, the statement said, with its capital paid in "from sources outside the present partnership."

It will engage in the securities business and will have offices in New York, Chicago and Boston, where the main offices of the present firm are located.

"The assets of Lee, Higginson & Co. are to remain with the partnership," said the announcement, "and following the formation of the new corporation the firm will devote itself to the protection and eventual liquidation of its assets and to the handling of its existing acceptance business."

What changes are to be made in personnel were not disclosed, but it was said that "several members" of Lee, Higginson & Co. would be associated with the new corporation.

MARKET COMMENT

G. M.-P. Murphy & Co.—If the market can hold over the remaining period of Congressional uncertainty, it would suggest ability to respond to any better news after Congress adjourns.

Robert C. Jones & Co.—Two favorable developments in yesterday's situation were the further improvement of the American dollar in the foreign markets, and strength of United States Government bonds. The strength in Government bonds does not indicate any fear of the soldier bonus bill's becoming law at this session of Congress.

Westheimer & Co.—The market appears to be fairly free of pressure and should respond promptly to any renewal of buying power. The international financial situation is showing signs of improvement.

Waggaman, Brawner & Co.—Tuesday's market, although quiet, held a generally strong tone. Preferred stocks and bonds showed evidence of quiet buying by investors.

Standard Statistics—In the absence of any significant developments, either of a constructive or destructive nature, in the general industrial situation during the past week, the current trend of business sentiment has been governed almost entirely by the shifting content of Washington news. Much of this has been of a nature to instill even greater caution in the day-to-day operations of general industry. Aggregate activity continues at the extreme low level of recent weeks, with increasing evidence at hand that a period of extreme summer lethargy already is being anticipated in an increasing number of instances.

London—In anticipation of the outcome of the Lausanne conference, forenoon prices showed strength, especially gilt-edged securities and German bonds. Some sections became irregular later, due to profit-taking. The close was quiet and steady.

Paris—With trading at a minimum, prices on the bourse were steady as a result of bear coverings and favorable foreign markets. Young loan issues improved smartly and oil and rubber shares were firm. The market closed steady.

Berlin—Trading was restrained on the boerse in view of political negotiations. The market opened weaker, but closed resistantly.

Gibson Kincheloe Joins James M. Johnston Co.

J. Gibson Kincheloe, who for the past four years has been manager of the Washington office of H. M. Byllesby & Co., is now associated with James M. Johnson & Co., investment securities, Shoreham Building.

Mr. Kincheloe is a graduate of the Episcopal High School and of Washington and Lee University, also the Babson Institute. He served in the United States Infantry during the war and has been in the investment security business for a number of years.

THE MARKETS AT A GLANCE

What the Stock Market Did

| | Tues. | Mon. |
|---|---|---|
| Number of advances | 231 | 117 |
| Number of declines | 115 | 193 |
| Stocks unchanged | 124 | 122 |
| Total issues traded | 470 | 432 |

Stocks.

The day witnessed quiet progress in a dull market. The better feeling appeared to center on the conviction there can be no bonus legislation at this session, that Congress soon will adjourn, and that Europe gradually is working around to a tolerable financial position. The averages were fractionally higher in all categories.

Bonds.

German and U. S. Government issues were strongest, but the corporate averages worked up about half a point.

Curb.

Wheat.

With the new crop already in sight, July futures sold down to 48¾ cents, a new low for the season. Prevailing prices at Liverpool have all but driven speculative buyers from the Chicago market.

Cotton.

Some good Wall Street buying coincided with reports of excessive rains and extensive boll weevil threats. The close was 2 to 4 points net higher, but down 5 points from the day's best.

MONEY MARKETS

FOREIGN EXCHANGE.

New York, June 14 (A.P.).—Dollars rallied briskly against foreign exchanges today. Their strength was notable in the case of French francs, which sagged sharply coincident with word that France was completing earmarking of the metal she had on call here.

Franc cables closed ⅝ point off at 3.93¼ cents, a new low for the movement.

Dutch guilders were down 5 points, well under the gold level, while Swiss francs at 19.50 were only a point above the level at which gold shipments would be profitable.

France—Demand, 3.93⅛; cables, 3.93¼.
Italy—Demand, 5.11⅞; cables, 5.12⅛.
Belgium—Demand, 13.93.

*Austria—Demand, 13.99.
*Roumania—Demand, 0.59¾.
Argentina—Demand, 25.79.
*Brazil—Demand, 7.55½.
Tokyo—Demand, 31.25¼.
Shanghai—Demand, 30.50.
Montreal—Demand, 86.50.
Mexico City—Demand (silver peso), 27.40.
*Nominal rate.

NEW YORK.

Call money steady; 2½ per cent all day; time loans steady; 60-90 days, 1½; 4-6 months, 1½ per cent; prime commercial paper, 2¾@3; bankers' acceptances unchanged.

Bar silver dull and unchanged at 27¾.

LONDON.

Money, ¾; discount rates, short and 3-month bills, 1⅛@1⅛ per cent.

Bar silver quiet and unchanged at 16⅝d.

PARIS.

Three per cent rentes, 74 francs 85 centimes. Five per cent loan, 98 francs 55 centimes.

Maryland Casualty Votes Reduction in Capital

Baltimore, June 14 (A.P.).—Stockholders of the Maryland Casualty Co. today approved the proposal of the directors for a reduction of the capital stock from $10 a share to $2 a share, cutting the total valuation from $5,000,000 to $1,000,000 and transferring $4,000,000 to surplus.

More than 75 per cent of the outstanding stock was accounted for in the voting.

Large Sugar Refiners Announce Price Increase

New York, June 14 (A.P.).—The American Sugar Refining and National Sugar Refining Cos. announced today an increase of one-tenth of 1 per cent in the price of refined sugar to 3 4-5 cents a pound, effective tomorrow.

This follows the similar action of the California & Hawaii Sugar Refining Co., announced yesterday.

Advances Laid to Intangible Reports; Sales Total 755,230 Shares.

By JOHN L. COOLEY.

New York, June 14 (A.P.).—Stocks made quiet progress in a dull market today. Two minor reactions were promptly squelched and prices were rallying at the close.

Improvement seemed based largely on intangibles, such as Wall street's conviction that the bonus was doomed and that Congress was about ready to adjourn.

Alcohol shares got some stimulation from antiprohibition trends at Chicago, but aside from the satisfaction that may have accrued to sullenly inclined traders through the ability of any group to show a flicker of speculative fervor, it was difficult to attach much importance to this move.

Auburn faded gradually. It rallied 2¾, to 71½, at the opening, but was unable to better that figure, and finished 3¼ off. However, it was lending at a premium of 75 cents a share at the close.

National Distillers Advance.

National Distillers, Corn Products, Allied Chemical, U. S. Industrial Alcohol, Air Reduction and a number of tobaccos took command of the situation after an early sag and pulled themselves, as well as other representative leaders, to 1 to 3 point advances. These were shaded around midafternoon, but slack was absorbed in the final dealings.

Sales totaled 755,230 shares.

Most of the alcohol and chemical issues closed at least a point higher. American Tobacco B, Liggett & Myers B, Penick & Ford, American Telephone, Union Pacific, Santa Fe, Consolidated Gas, Standard Oil of New Jersey, Westinghouse, U. S. Steel, Procter & Gamble, Worthington Pump and numerous others were up from a major fraction to 2 points.

Sugar stocks liked the higher prices for refined and the stronger futures market.

Dividend News Prominent.

Dividend news was prominent in the day's happenings. New Haven passed its preferred, as expected, and Western Union omitted a payment, which also had been anticipated. Standard Gas & Electric cut to a $2 annual basis from $3.50, but there appeared to be an element of pleasant surprise in this for the common rallied 2 and the preferred 4 to 5.

Incidentally, the market was treated to that rare spectacle, a regular dividend by a railroad, Virginian being the carrier thus distinguished.

National Biscuit's directors also voted the usual quarterly payment.

Although repayment of New York City borrowings and preparations for Treasury financing were contributory factors to shrinkage in loans and investments of reporting reserve member banks, the large decline was probably influenced also by recent gold losses and recurrent legislative uncertainties. But there has since been a change in both situations.

As for gold, it appears that virtually complete elimination of French balances here is now in sight.

POLICEMAN, FORCED FROM ROAD, SHOOTS TAXICAB PASSENGER

FALSE REPORT OF DEATH STARTS INQUEST PLANS

Driver and Two Other Men Held After Failing to Obey Command.

Shot by a Maryland State policeman after the taxicab in which he was riding crowded the officer's motorcycle off Livingston road, near the District line yesterday, James H. Berry, of Oxon Hill, was under treatment at Gallinger Hospital last night for a wound in his back.

The condition of Berry is not considered serious by physicians. Inexplicably, however, a report reached Oxon Hill last night that he had died and a coroner's jury was empaneled to hold an inquest.

Knocked Into Ditch.

Arriving at the hospital here to conduct the inquiry, the Prince Geroges County group was astonished to find Berry had not died. It could not be learned last night just where the report of Berry's death originated.

According to Policeman J. R. Miller, he was riding along the road when a cab containing four men swerved into him and knocked him into a ditch. The motorcycle was disabled and he called to the car, which had not stopped, to halt. It continued in motion and he fired once at the back of the taxi. The bullet, from a .38-caliber service revolver, pierced the back of the vehicle and struck Berry.

Three Men Are Held.

The cab, driven by Albert C. Day, 27 years old, of 605 Raleigh street southeast, continued on into the District, bearing the wounded man. It was stopped in the Eleventh Precinct by a police car, which took Berry on to Casualty Hospital, while the driver and two other occupants of the car were held at the Eleventh Precinct station for investigation. The other two men in the cab gave their names and addresses as Walter R. Burton, 31, of 1218 E street northeast, and Jesse G. Grimes, 49, of Oxon Hill.

The Maryland courts have held that an automobile may be construed as a dangerous weapon when an attempt is made to injure a person with it. Occupants of the cab denied they tried to force Miller into the ditch, and claimed the shooting was unprovoked. Berry is 34 years old and a painter.

Bloomingdale Body Opposes Gilligan

Reappointment to Board of Education Will Be Fought by Group.

Opposition to reappointment of Henry F. Gilligan as a member of the Board of Education was voiced last night at a meeting of the Bloomingdale Civic Association, held in the Tabor Presbyterian Church, through a resolution which was ordered to be sent to the judges of the Supreme Court who make the appointments. The resolution was introduced by Edward F. Harris.

It set forth the belief of the association that the reappointment of Mr. Gilligan would not serve the best interests of the pupils or the public because "during the term of said member of the Board of Education his attitude where the interest of all is concerned has been such as to unfit him to serve in this capacity."

The association was addressed by Dr. C. G. Woodson, who spoke on "Business Enterprises," and J. C. Olden, who announced organization of an interdenominational lobby in promotion of interests of colored citizens before Congress.

Priest Will Say First High Mass Tomorrow

The Rev. Vincent G. Ibanez, ordained Tuesday to the priesthood of the Order of Discalced Carmelites, will celebrate his first solemn high mass in the chapel of the Carmelite Monastery, 150 Rhode Island avenue northeast, tomorrow morning at 9 o'clock.

The Very Rev. Paschasius Heriz, O. C. D., will be the assistant priest of the mass, and the Rev. Paul A. Beattie and the Rev. Thomas N. Kilduff, of the Carmelite Community, will be deacon and subdeacon, respectively. The sermon will be preached by the Rev. Michael J. Riordan, rector of St. Martin's Church.

New Action Cites Kennedy-Warren

3 Creditors Seek to Have Apartments and Kennedy Declared Bankrupt.

An attempt by three creditors of the Kennedy-Warren Apartments, 3133 Connecticut avenue northwest, to place that property and Edgar S. Kennedy in involuntary bankruptcy was made yesterday in District Supreme Court.

The creditors, three out-of-town firms, claimed sums amounting to $18,683.78. They charged that the corporation controlling the apartment had committed acts of bankruptcy by allowing two judgments, aggregating $24,000, to be obtained against the corporation within the past four months. On these judgments attachments have been obtained.

Through Attorneys Douglas, Obear & Douglas, the court was informed that William P. Benson is now acting as receiver in a foreclosure suit filed against the apartments by the Columbia Securities Corporation April 19.

Petworth Association to Meet.

The Petworth Citizens Association will meet tonight at 8 o'clock in the Barnard School Auditorium, Fifth and Decatur streets northwest.

AT DISTRICT PARENT-TEACHER CONGRESS PICNIC

The final meeting of the school year for the District Congress of Parent-Teacher Associations was held yesterday afternoon at the home of Mrs. J. F. P. Eschner, Park Lane, Va., in the form of a picnic. Prizes were awarded, reports on the national convention in Minneapolis were heard and luncheon was served by the board of lady managers of the Boys Club of Georgetown. Pictured are, left to right, Mrs. L. H. Magruder, State chairman for the Child Welfare Magazine, who presented cash prize to Mrs. R. Y. Milburn, of the Adams School, for the largest number of subscriptions obtained; Mrs. Joseph F. Randall, State membership committee chairman, presenting cup to Mrs. C. B. Busby, of the Keene School, for having the largest percentage of attendance at monthly conferences; Mrs. Joseph N. Saunders, president of the District of Columbia P.-T. A.; Warren Busby, who raised the flag opening the exercises; Mrs. George P. Barse, of the Bryan School, who received the Mary Elizabeth Rafter prize for the largest increase in membership; Mrs. Cecile Clark, of the Edmonds-Maury School, who won a cash prize for the largest number of subscriptions to the State bulletin, and Mrs. W. P. Rowe, who presented the prizes.

ROOFING MAN FIRES SHOT INTO HIS BRAIN

A .32-caliber revolver was found in his hand and a note on his desk explained that he was in ill health and afraid of a surgical operation. The body was found by George Mathews, an employe in the building, who informed police. A bottle of soda pop, with most of its contents gone, was found on the dead man's desk. The office was in perfect order.

The note left by Thompson read: "I owe no bills." It requested that the body be taken to the morgue, as some one at his home, 4842 Sixteenth street northwest, was ill. He left the name and address of his son-in-law, Elwood H. Seal, an attorney, with offices in the Tower Building, and asked that he be notified of the circumstances of death.

Thompson left instructions to use money in his safe deposit box for funeral expenses, and wrote that he was sorry to cause any trouble to his relatives. He is survived by his widow and a daughter, Mrs. Seal. The body was removed to the District Morgue.

Rum Suspect Held After Record Sale

Agent Says He Purchased 50 Gallons From Man in Accokeek.

The largest amount of alleged liquor ever sold to a Federal agent in southern Maryland was recorded yesterday when Robert Bowie Neal, of Accokeek, was arrested for the sale and possession of 50 gallons of reputed whisky.

Neal was brought to the Marlboro Jail by an agent who said that he sold five 10-gallon kegs to him. Love Owens was also arrested yesterday on charges of possession of articles for the manufacture of liquor after agents said they found a 750-gallon wooden still near his home at Greenock.

Wilson Parran and Leroy Collins, living near Prince Frederick, Md., were held in bond of $1,000 each yesterday on charges of manufacture, possession and possession of articles for the manufacture of liquor. Agents said the men were concerned with a 300-gallon still complete with 3,000 gallons of mash.

Pens and 50 Cameras Taken in $950 Robbery

He listed 320 fountain pens and pencils and 50 cameras among the stolen articles.

Wesley Eddy Forfeits Traffic Bond.

Wesley Eddy, master of ceremonies at the Fox Theater, was allowed to forfeit $2 on three charges of violating the parking regulations in Police Court yesterday. He parked his machine, he said, in an alley in the rear of the theater, and it was supposed to have been called for by a garage attendant. The attendant failed to show up and he was given tickets.

Divorce Law Easing Urged For District

Amendment of the present strict local law governing divorces and the financial limitation in damage suits was proposed before the District of Columbia Bar Association meeting in the Hotel Mayflower last night.

George C. Gertman, secretary of the association, contended that the present law, which permits absolute divorces only on the grounds of adultery, should be revised to permit the additional grounds of cruelty, desertion after five consecutive years, insanity and conviction of a crime followed by imprisonment.

The proposal that the present $10,000 limitation obtainable by estates when court juries assign the blame for fatalities be raised, was offered by Diller B. Groff. He pointed out that in the recent bus collision at Seventeenth street and Rhode Island avenue, one of the victims earned far more than $10,000 yearly in the practice of his profession and had a life expectancy of 25 or 30 years.

Both of the amendments will be voted upon by the bar membership at the next meeting in the Mayflower during October.

Col. J. Miller Kenyon, prominent local attorney, reported on the progress of the committee which he heads that is raising funds to defray the entertainment expense at the forthcoming convention of the American Bar Association in October.

Frank J. Hogan presided.

Citizens' Group Holds "Jollification" Session

Members of the Sixteenth Street Heights Citizens Association last night held their "jollification" meeting, closing their sessions until next fall. Song and story and refreshments formed the main order of business, the only serious subject being decision to hold meetings next year in the Shepherd School, recently dedicated, at Fourteenth street and Kalmia road northwest.

Isidore Hershfield, Community Chest speaker, addressed the group. The C. & P. Glee Club rendered a number of songs and other members joined in providing entertainment.

District D.A.R. to Make Carroll Home Pilgrimage

A pilgrimage will be made to the ancestral home of the Carroll family of Maryland, Doughoregan Manor, Saturday afternoon, by the historical committee of the District Daughters of the American Revolution.

The party will leave the south end of the Treasury Building at 1:30 o'clock. Reservations may be made through the Royal Blue Line office at the Raleigh Hotel.

Wildcat Division Aids Flag Parade

Portrait of War Commander, Gen. C. J. Bailey, Is Given to Smithsonian.

Marching in the impressive Flag Day parade concluded the national reunion of the Wildcat Division of the American Expeditionary Forces.

Earlier yesterday a portrait of Maj. Gen. Charles J. Bailey, war-time commander of the division, by William Cummings Chace, was presented to the Smithsonian Institution. Gen. Bailey was elected president of the division at an earlier meeting.

At a session yesterday afternoon the members of the division voted to establish permanent headquarters in Washington. They also held a brief Flag Day ceremony in the auditorium of the Interior Department Building.

88 MEN ARE TAKEN IN ONE GAMING RAID

Doors Are Battered Down at Thirteenth Street Place; Four Others Seized.

After battering through two heavy doors with sledge hammers yesterday afternoon, police of the headquarters crime prevention bureau arrested 88 men in a place at 817 Thirteenth street northwest. Two of the men were charged with setting up a gaming table and released under $2,000 bond each. The others were summoned as United States witnesses.

The downtown raid, on the second floor of a building above a florist's shop, brought hundreds of persons to the scene. It was necessary to call out extra squads of police to keep the traffic moving as the raiders hurried six patrol wagon loads of prisoners to the First Precinct station.

The raid was led by Capt. Jeremiah Sullivan, in charge of the new police unit. While some of his men attacked the heavy steel door, electrically operated, with sledge hammers, others climbed the fire escape and attacked from the rear. Police said they found many telephones, equipment for shooting dice and playing blackjack and racing charts.

The two held on gaming charges gave their names as Lawrence Robert Barry, 30 years old, of 3023 Fourteenth street northwest, and Carlton P. Knuckols, 33 years old, of 1412 R street northwest.

Patrolman A. L. Embry, of the Second Precinct, made the Seventeenth street raid. He said he saw the men playing cards there and went in to raid the place. Edward Flood, 36 years old, colored, of 1253½ Ninth street northwest, was charged with setting up a gaming table and the others were listed as United States witnesses.

Funeral Interrupter Fined $25.

A colored hack driver, James S. Featherstone, was fined $25 in Police Court yesterday when he faced a charge of breaking through a funeral procession. The driver was charged with having driven between the hearse and the first automobile behind it. Not content with that, it was testified, he wanted to argue with the hearse driver.

Washington Man Draws Federal Pension at 102

A Washington man, Maj. S. Willard Saxton, of 1347 Harvard street northwest, who is 102 years old, is one of the oldest persons on the Government's honor roll of annuitants who receive payments from the civil service retirement fund.

There are said to be only four other persons more than 100 years of age who receive this pension. The oldest is reported to be Mark Thrash, colored, of Chickamauga, Ga., who claims to be 111 years old. Identity of the other three was not disclosed.

Maj. Saxton is vice president of the Association of Oldest Inhabitants, and a veteran of the Civil War, having fought with the Massachusetts volunteers. He was in the Government civil service for many years. He is said to be in good health.

NEW DISTRICT LAW ON KIDNAPING WILL GET HEARING TODAY

COMPANION MEASURE KILLED BY HOUSE BODY

Deeper Probe Into Capital's Rent Situation Planned, Capper Announces.

A new kidnaping law for the District, tightening penalties and leaving the death sentence optional with the jury, will be considered by the Senate District committee at an open hearing this afternoon.

The bill, supplementing the national law, was introduced by Senator Roscoe C. Patterson (Republican), Missouri.

Thatcher Bill Failed.

Its counterpart, introduced in the House by Representative Maurice H. Thatcher (Democrat), Kentucky, died in the House District judiciary subcommittee.

Both measures were proposed in the tide of revulsion that swept the country following the kidnaping of the Lindbergh child. The district attorney disclosed local kidnaping laws are exceedingly lax.

New Rent Evidence.

Senator Arthur Capper (Republican), Kansas, indicated his committee may probe deeper into the local rent situation at today's meeting. New evidence of high rents here, received through the mails, may be laid before the committee.

A number of other pending District measures will be called up, including two bills by Senator Morris Sheppard (Democrat), Texas, to revise the laws regulating trade unions.

Maid Seized as Result Of Goodacre Robbery

Further investigation of the unsuccessful attempt Monday to rob George L. Goodacre, proprietor of a chain of restaurants, resulted yesterday in the arrest of Josephine Kirk, 32, a maid at the Goodacre home, on investigation charges.

Mr. Goodacre was robbed at pistol point by a holdup man whom he and Mrs. Goodacre captured after a short chase a few minutes later. He gave the name of Thomas F. White. He gave police the name of an accomplice said to have been waiting for him in a car to effect a get-away. They have been unable to locate this person.

Industrial Home School Field Day Is Tomorrow

The annual field day of the Industrial Home School at Blue Plains, D. C., will be held tomorrow afternoon at 2:30 o'clock between the Nationals and the Olympics, the two contesting divisions of boys.

The competitions will consist of a drill and field events. Maj. Harry O. Atwood, U. S. A., military instructor of the District public schools, will present a saber to the captain of the winning drill company. Miss Sybil Baker, director of playgrounds, will present the Victory Cup, a gift of officials of the school, to the captain of the triumphant field team.

St. John's College Holds Commencement Tonight

The Right Rev. Monsignor Edward L. Buckey, pastor of St. Matthews Church, will preside at the commencement exercises of St. John's College at 8 o'clock tonight in National Memorial Continental Hall.

Sixty-four young men will receive diplomas and military honors at the services. The address will be made by Francis H. Fannan, class of '13.

DENTAL SOCIETY ELECTS

DENTISTS VOTE AID FOR VETERANS HERE

Dr. Charles D. Cole Chosen President of Society at Annual Session.

Election of officers and the adoption of resolutions authorizing the newly elected president and a special committee to take such steps as are found necessary in furnishing free dental care to the members of the Bonus Expeditionary Forces marked the annual meeting of the District of Columbia Dental Society, held last night at George Washington University. Dr. Charles D. Cole was elected president; Dr. W. W. Wyman, vice president, and Dr. Mark F. Finley, treasurer.

Dr. Henry Spillan holds over as a member of the executive committee by virtue of his office as chairman of the legal committee; the president is empowered to appoint three members and the following were elected to this committee: Dr. B. E. Erikson, Dr. Charles L. Smith, Dr. George Albert Smith, Dr. S. C. Hopkins, Dr. H. E. Krogh and Dr. Manley Michaels.

Dr. Herbert C. Hopkins, retiring president, officiated at installation of the new officers immediately following their election, which was unanimous.

Dr. W. M. Simkins, secretary; Dr. Mark F. Finley, treasurer, and the following committee chairmen submitted reports:

Dr. Cole, new president, presented a certificate of honor to Dr. Hopkins, retiring president, following which he emphasized need for dental treatment for the soldiers of the bonus army. It was agreed that a certain number of men would be available each day for service to the former soldiers.

Victim Badly Beaten By Large Holdup Man

Harry Griffith, 38 years old, of 817 L street northwest, was severely beaten last night when an unidentified man attacked him on Eighth street between H and I streets northwest and robbed him of $14.

He told police a dark-skinned colored man about 6 feet 2 inches tall suddenly leaped at him and struck him a savage blow in the mouth, knocking him flat. The man took the money from Griffith's pockets. It required five stitches to close the wound in Griffith's mouth. He was treated at Casualty Hospital.

Liquor and Movies Held Cargo of Auto

Seizure Indicates Duplex Delivery System on Maryland Road.

Two alleged rum-runners, who apparently acted as express agents for moving picture films, were captured yesterday by Prince Georges County Policemen G. William Gray and Oscar Beall, who seized 24 half-gallons of alleged liquor found in their auto.

The prisoners are Charles Henry Peters, of Washington, and Harry Fletcher, of Indian Head, who were arrested on the Livingston road. Eight reels of a current movie, being returned to the film exchange from a Maryland theater, were found in the back of the car.

The same two policemen also captured a second car on the same road which contained 32 half-gallons of alleged whisky. Roosevelt Thomas, who said he lived in Washington, was the pilot of this second seizure. All three men were charged with transportation and possession of liquor.

'LUMP-SUM' BATTLE AWAITING BINGHAM

Conferees' First Meeting Will Be Early Next Week, Nye Says.

The expected fight over Federal "lump sum" provisions of the District appropriations bill last night was definitely postponed until the return of Senator Hiram Bingham (Republican), Connecticut, advocate of a high Federal contribution.

The first meeting of House and Senate conferees on the local appropriations bill probably will be held early next week, said Senator Gerald P. Nye (Republican), North Dakota. He is acting chairman of the Senate conferees while Senator Bingham is attending the Republican convention.

A meeting of the conference group had been scheduled for yesterday afternoon, but it was called off after the House group met in a brief morning session.

While no reason was given for the postponement, the House group has announced through its chairman it will not recede from its stand for a $6,500,000 Federal contribution unless the House gives it a new set of instructions.

Senator Bingham has been just as adamant for the $8,550,000 "lump sum" voted by the Senate, it was pointed out, and would want to be present if any change were ordered in the figure. It was said that only an early adjournment would force a meeting of the joint conference group before Monday.

Smalley to Head Takoma Park Body

All of Nominees Approved at Citizens' Group's Session.

H. R. Smalley was elected president of the Takoma Park Citizens Association last night when the group cast a unanimous ballot for the entire slate of officers selected by a nominating committee.

Other officers named were C. Leonard Boyer, first vice president; Mrs. Alcena Lamond, second vice president; Mrs. Leonora F. Sanborn, secretary; Samuel Handelsman, treasurer, and John Walker and David Blose, delegates to the Federation of Citizens Associations.

The new president appointed S. E. Blassingham, retiring president; John W. Coffman, sr., and Walter Irey as members at large to the executive committee. A motion authorizing the executive committee to act for the association during the summer adjournment was voted favorably.

All Officers Reelected By E. Washington Bank

Directors of East Washington Savings Bank held their annual meeting of organization yesterday and reelected all the following officers: John C. Yost, president; S. H. Walkner, first vice president; Lewis Flemer, second vice president; S. Wilson Earnshaw, secretary-treasurer; Walter H. Marlow, jr., attorney.

This institution was organized approximately 26 years ago and has been located at 312 Pennsylvania avenue southeast throughout its entire history. John E. Herrel was the first president of the bank and was succeeded by M. I. Weller. Mr. Yost has been its president for the past sixteen years.

28 Per Cent of Families Aided by Nurses Are Idle

Reports at the meeting of the board of managers of the Instructive Visiting Nurses Society yesterday showed that 28 per cent of all families aided in May were unemployed.

During May 5,046 patients were given care and 15,175 visits were made. This was an increase of 638 patients and 2,171 visits over the same month of 1931.

Woman Lets Gypsy 'Seer' Bless $1,400; Now It's Gone

Trusting $1,400 insurance money and four diamond rings to a gypsy woman for her good luck blessing, Mrs. Susie Miller, 54, of 4134 Hunt place northeast, discovered yesterday that instead of increasing her worldly goods, the gypsy had left wads of paper in a kerchief in which she had wrapped the money.

Mrs. Miller had been advised by a gypsy friend at North Beach, Md., to get her belongings blessed, and when she agreed, the friend told her another gypsy would visit her when she returned to Washington. The woman arrived at her home Saturday and, after demonstrating the blessings on a small amount of money, was intrusted with the $1,400.

The money and the rings were wrapped up in a cloth and Mrs. Miller was told to take them home and open the package there. Wadded paper was all that she found on opening the bundle. Police arrested a "seeress" yesterday who gave the name of Mary Smith, of 1234 H street northeast. She is being held for questioning in the case.

DISTRICT ECONOMY COMMITTEE IS DUE TO BEGIN JOB SOON

Authority Is Given Members by Commissioners for Thorough Study.

1934 BUDGET ESTIMATES ARE TO BE SCRUTINIZED

Right to Hear Testimony of Department Heads Is Also Allowed.

The District economy committee, named several months ago by the Commissioners, will soon begin the task for which it was primarily named—the minute inspection of departmental estimates for inclusion in the municipal budget for 1934.

The Commissioners yesterday issued a formal order authorizing the committee to "conduct an intensive study and investigation into the operating costs of the government of the District of Columbia with a view to reducing such expenses wherever possible where such action may be accomplished without materially impairing the efficiency of the public service."

Maj. Donovan Is Chairman.

It is apparently the intention of the Commissioners to have this committee do the slashing that has heretofore been done by the District heads themselves, usually with the advice of Maj. D. J. Donovan, auditor and budget officer, who is also chairman of the newly organized committee.

"The said committee shall further carefully consider all recommendations made for improvements in the estimates for the fiscal year 1934 with regard to their urgency and priority and the ability of the District to provide appropriations therefor without increasing present taxation in the District," the order states.

May Take All Summer.

"The said committee shall make such reports and recommendations to the Commissioners as it may deem necessary through the budget officer. The said committee shall have the right to call before it heads of departments and other employes, to investigate into conditions in the various departments and branches of the District government, and to avail itself of such information and records as it may desire for its studies and recommendations."

The job is expected to take the rest of the summer, as the 1934 budget is ordinarily submitted to the Director of the Budget in September.

Besides the chairman, the committee includes Daniel E. Garges, secretary to the Commissioners; Capt. H. C. Whitehurst, director of highways; Stephen E. Kramer, assistant superintendent of schools; George S. Wilson, director of public welfare, and Harold Baker, director of construction.
